Helen Ford Retained By BCA Board

Closed-Door Meeting Lasts Four Hours

BY MIKE WYNGARDEN
Staff Writer

In a four-hour closed meeting last night, the board of directors of Berrien County Action voted to retain Helen Ford as executive director of the local anti-poverty agency.

The meeting was called by board members to "discuss personnel problems," according to Mrs. Nora Jefferson, BCA chairperson. No official explanation was given for a vote on retaining Mrs. Ford in the position.

Mrs. Jefferson said the board issued a vote of confidence in Mrs. Ford by a simple majority after discussing the personnel problems. She did not elaborate further.

Three members of the board, who declined to be quoted by name, separately said the votes to retain Mrs. Ford as head of BCA were cast by Charles Joseph, Ruby Wynn, Nancy Christian, Edna Jones and Annabelle Bankston. Those voting against her retention were reported as Melvin Farmer, Jr., Victor Greer, Harvey Robinson, and Cecilia Burke.

The same sources said Ken Platts, a new member, abstained from voting. The chairman, Mrs. Jefferson, would have voted only if the vote had been tied.

Mrs. Ford, in her position as a city commissioner, is presently under attack by a move to recall her from that office. Her continuing absence from city commission meetings since mid-May has left the city's governing body unable to assemble a quorum and unable to conduct city business.

A crowd of some 20 people kept a vigil outside the Louise Beebe Memorial center, 817 Pipestone street, Benton Harbor, where the BCA board meeting was held, awaiting the outcome of the board's action.

Board members present at last night's meeting were Ruby Wynn, Nancy Christian, Edna Jones, Annabelle Bankston, former Benton Harbor Mayor Charles Joseph, Melvin Farmer Jr., Victor Greer, Mrs. Jefferson, Cecilia Burke, Harvey Robinson and Ken Platt. Absent were Lee Auble and Bill Joseph.

Mrs. Ford attended the meeting and talked to the board members, but was not available for comment after the meeting.

Mrs. Ford, who headed the former Tri-CAP anti-poverty agency before it was closed down in 1971, was hired as BCA executive director in October, 1974.

Madison Heights Man Charged In Gun Death Of Fellow CB'er

MADISON HEIGHTS, Mich. (AP) — A Citizens Band radio operator has been arraigned on a murder charge in the shooting death of another CB'er after the two argued over the use of a radio channel. Delbert Hosner, 27, of Madison Heights, was held without bail Tuesday after standing mute at his arraignment before 43rd District Court Judge Edward Lawrence. Police say Craig Walker, 27, of Royal Oak, was shot Saturday night after he drove to Hosner's home nearby and continued an argument which began earlier over the airwaves.

Walker's 15-year-old brother, Kevin, recalled the pair "pretty good friends." Walker died Monday night, suffering from at least four bullet wounds. Police say both men were at their own homes cutting in on each other's conversations over their CB radios when the argument began. Kevin Walker said the two had fought before over the use of CB channels. CB courtesy dictates that when two CB operators live near each other, the one who speaks first is considered to have use of the airwave. Walker drove to Hosner's home to continue the fight.

A neighbor said he heard "screaming and hollering" and then saw Walker leave the house and walk toward his car. The neighbor said Hosner followed Walker outside and stood on the porch firing a .22 caliber rifle. The critically wounded Walker lay bleeding in the driveway until police arrived. Police said they found a dozen .22 shells on the sidewalk outside Hosner's home. An exam was set for July 7.

Balloonist's Ground Crew Asks Coast Guard's Help

NEW YORK (AP) — Balloonist Karl Thomas' ground crew asked the U.S. Coast Guard today to start looking for him. There has been no contact with him since Sunday night, and the crew said it was worried. Thomas took off Friday night on his attempt to become the first person to cross the Atlantic Ocean in a balloon.

Several others have died in similar efforts. "We think he is still aloft," crewman Wallace Clayton said today. "But we haven't heard from him for more than 56 hours so we've asked the Coast Guard to initiate a search."

Before his 90-foot-tall red, white and blue helium-filled balloon lifted off, Thomas confided to few of his friends. "I may not make it, but I'm not going to die."

"We don't know where he is and we've stopped estimating. He might sight Europe tomorrow. He might be becalmed, but we're sure he's out there somewhere," said Nick Grande, a spokesman for the flight's communications crew. Since the weekend, the crew has been holed up in an East Side Manhattan apartment.

"We're waiting," Grande said. "There are five telephones here. If one rings we jump."

Thomas, a 27-year-old pilot from Michigan, was estimated on Tuesday to be more than 1,200 miles east of New York City and approaching the halfway mark of his 3,000-mile flight.

"Everybody is concerned, but we're not worried," said Grande. "We're banking on two things. First, if he were down, someone would pick up his emergency location transmitters. Second, we know the guy. We have faith in his skill and his good sense."

"Before he left, he told us

Scientists Studying Mars Landing Sites

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Like students cramming for a final exam, Viking scientists are studying 18 to 20 hours a day in an effort to understand the strange ups and downs of Mars' surface.

They will know their grade when the Viking 1 unmanned laboratory touches down safely — or else is dashed against an unforeseen cliff — on one of three sites being studied.

With the place where the landing was originally scheduled for July 4 currently considered too hazardous, the spacecraft took pictures Tuesday of an area referred to as the northwest site that is just beginning to be explored.

Depending on what they see, the scientists will decide on Thursday whether that site looks like the best bet or whether they should focus on an alternative site halfway around the planet.

Suit Claims Ex-Mayor's Inaugural Bill Not All Paid

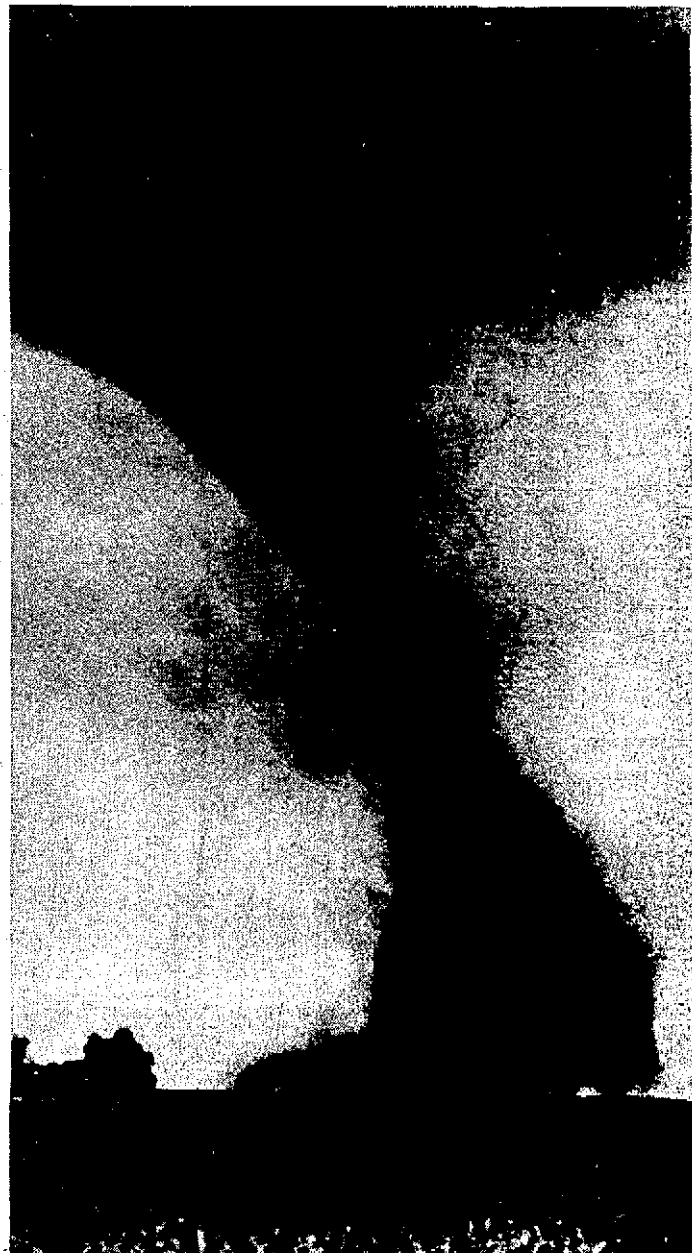

By NICK SMITH
Staff Writer

Charles F. Joseph and two other people are charged with still owing $222.50 for the former Benton Harbor mayor's second inaugural banquet, in a small claims suit scheduled to be heard today in Berrien District court. District Judge Ronald J. Taylor said yesterday that the suit was scheduled to be heard despite the fact that a summons ordering Joseph to appear in court couldn't be served. The summons server, Edward Whitfield, told the court that Joseph, a master sergeant in the U.S. Air Force Reserve, is attending a six-week training camp.

As noted elsewhere in today's paper, however, Joseph was in Benton Harbor last night and attended meeting of Berrien County Action.

The suit was filed earlier this month by Howard Johnson's Restaurant, M-130, south of Benton Harbor, where the Jan. 31 banquet was held. Other defendants are Atty. K. Morris Gavin and Mrs. Elizabeth Fowler, who, according to the suit, were members of the committee that planned the banquet at Howard Johnson's and the ball at Ramada Inn.

A bill submitted with the suit states that 250 persons were served 37 meals at the affair. Other expenses raised the total bill for the evening to $2,082.50. All but $222.50 of the bill has been paid, the suit states. Taylor explained that it will be up to Gavin and Mrs. Fowler to decide whether they want to go ahead with the trial or seek a continuance until Joseph is available. In small claims court a suit can begin if any of the plaintiffs have been served notice of trial, he added.

Black Group Will Support Joseph

By DAVID TREADWELL
Associated Press Writer

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The National Black Caucus of Locally Elected Officials urged support Tuesday for two blacks who claim they are victims of racist plots to unseat them, the caucus chairman said.

The caucus also urged President Ford to press for immediate implementation of black majority rule in South Africa.

Atlanta Mayor Maynard Jackson said resolutions were adopted at a closed-door session in support of Charles Joseph, who was recently recalled as mayor of Benton Harbor, Mich., and Mayor William Hart of East Orange, N.J.

The resolutions "came out of feelings that black elected officials are being attacked by what they see as unjustified harassment," Jackson said in an interview after the meeting held during the U.S. Conference of Mayors here.

Joseph was elected mayor of Benton Harbor for a second term last December, but was recalled in May after he fired the white city manager. He claimed it was part of a nationwide movement by some whites to discredit and oust black elected officials.

"It's the second Reconstruction," he said, referring to the post-Civil War era which saw the removal of virtually all black officials who had been elected to government posts in the South. "Every single black elected official who speaks out against the system is being crucified."

Hart declined to discuss his situation with reporters. But Mayor Tom Moody of Columbus, Ohio, the white mayor of a city he described being 18.5 per cent black, said he saw no evidence of a white backlash against black public officials on the national scene.

"I see a general citizen backlash against incumbents," Moody said when informed of the caucus action. "The mortality of elected office holders is very high."

By H.P. STAFF

The support for Joseph by the Caucus group in Milwaukee, as cited in the Associated Press report above, came in the wake of press conference in Chicago last Friday at which formation was announced of a National Committee to Free Benton Harbor, Michigan.

At the Chicago conference, Joseph claimed he had been forced out of office as mayor by a recall election that was "ill-conceived, ill-defined, illegal and a fatal trick." He also blamed the local press, the Chamber of Commerce and other forces in the community, according to a report of the press conference carried in the Chicago Defender on June 28. He charged racial discrimination.

Joseph, at the press conference, announced the names of 18 members of the National Committee to Free Benton Harbor, Michigan.

Mayor Jesse Miller, Highland Park, Mich.; Mayor A.J. Cooper, Pritchard, Ala., who also is president of Southern Mayors Conference of U.S.; Mayor Charles Evers, Fayette, Miss.; John Waller, Washington, D.C.; Julian C. Madison, Cleveland, O.; Harold L. Perry, legal counsel to Willie Mays, Oakland, Calif.; James Denson, executive director of Washington, D.C., Chamber of Commerce; Spencer Leak, president of A. R. Leak Enterprises, Chicago; Dr. Vivian Little, Chicago;

Atty. Carolyn Johnson, Chicago; Edward Sexton, assistant to director in Office of Minority Business Enterprises, U.S. Department of Commerce, Washington, D.C.; Rev. James Baker, pastor of Cathedral Divine Love, Chicago;

Carl Johnson, executive director of National Citizen Participation council, Washington, D.C.; Atty. W. Mauldin Smith, Chicago; Rev. Lynn Parks, former mayor of Grand Rapids; Ben Gordon, Detroit; Joseph Robinson, president of National Citizen Participation Council, Washington, D.C., and Atty. Paul Precar, Dayton, O.

Joseph said in Chicago other names would be added as they were confirmed.

Missing Juror Handed 15-Day Jail Sentence

By NICK SMITH
Staff Writer

A man who failed to appear for jury duty in Berrien District court was sentenced to 15 days in jail for contempt of court Monday by District Judge Leo Cook. Sentenced was Marc Alan Kovitz, 25, formerly of 319 Clay, New Buffalo, and currently living in Indiana, he told the court. Cook, who has been a district judge for more than three years, said that Kovitz is the first juror who failed to appear in his court.

Celebrations Will Cover Extremes And In Between

Cities and towns across the country are determined to make Sunday, July 4, the most memorable Independence Day since the first one in 1776, and it looks as if they will succeed in doing just that. Washington, D.C., will be the scene of two quite different rallies. The People's Bicentennial Commission has scheduled a daytime demonstration near the Capitol to protest the power of large corporations and promote the concept of "economic democracy." In the evening, the official "Pageant of Freedom" will be held, with Vice President Nelson A. Rockefeller, country singer Johnny Cash, and the Mormon Tabernacle Choir on hand. A fireworks display billed as the biggest, loudest and brightest ever mounted in this country will conclude the night's festivities.

Philadelphia, where the Declaration of Independence was drafted and proclaimed, also will play host to rallies with sharply opposed purposes. President Ford is scheduled to address the city's official bicentennial gathering, while the "July 4th Coalition" will sponsor a demonstration to protest unemployment and other social problems. In New York City, meanwhile, Operation Sail is the main feature — an aquatic parade of tall-masted sailing ships and hundreds of smaller vessels.

Miami's contribution to the Independence Day hoopla is "Hooray USA!" — an extravaganza that its promoters describe, somewhat teasingly, as "more than a Broadway musical, more than a folk drama, more than a circus or parade." Probably there is no simpler way to characterize a show whose cast of hundreds includes horses, mules and a cow, and whose finale takes place in front of a two-story-high birthday cake lit by 200 candles.

For those who abhor crowds and organized activities, there is a simple yet solemn and symbolic way of celebrating the nation's 200th birthday anniversary. Individuals are urged to join with schools, churches and fire departments in ringing bells at 2 p.m. (EDT) on July 4. The idea is to commemorate the moment when the Liberty Bell was rung on the same date 200 years ago.

Cutting Into The Spoils System

When Andrew Jackson finally captured the White House and the Congress from the Federalists in 1828 the first thing Old Hickory did to cement the victory for the Democrats was to replace all the jobholders with his followers.

"To the victors belong the spoils of war," Jackson proclaimed to his enthusiastic supporters.

Old Hickory's precedent prompted the state and local governments to follow suit.

Every time the fortunes of war changed at the ballot box so did new faces take over the offices from which government is dispensed.

The spoils system sired the political machines which for good or ill ran things in the nation's state houses, big cities and county court houses for decades to come. It still hangs on with surprising vitality.

This changing of the guard at Washington, however, produced a somewhat early reaction.

Not only did the public start to complain about having to do business with a constantly shifting employment force, the winning party discovered the spoils system could be embarrassing. For every person appointed to a clerkship in some department half a dozen or more anxious applicants had to be turned down. Those rejected frequently turned against their erstwhile masters come the next election.

Congress tried unsuccessfully to reduce the number of appointive jobs in 1853 and again in 1871.

Finally in 1883 it passed the Pendleton Act setting up a federal civil service system. Teddy Roosevelt greatly strengthened the Act's application in 1903 through extending its provisions to all but policy making jobs.

The theory of civil service is that the ability to perform a nonpolicy making position, for example, a file clerk in a bureau, not the employee's political affinity should determine the employment status.

The Pendleton Act's thesis gradually extended its influence into the state and local governments.

Michigan first tried it by legislative action in the late 1830s. Foundering on bipartisan bickering at Lansing, it took deeper root as a constitutional mandate by 1940.

Chicago is one of the holdouts against full civil service.

Technically, it applies to the city and surrounding Cook county.

In practice, it goes half way at most. The Hon. Richard J. Daley has a sizeable army of payrollers at city hall who hold their jobs as unclassified employees. The same applies to the county government which Daley runs in fact, though not in name.

This week the U.S. Supreme Court threw a solar plexus punch of sorts at the Daley plan.

By a 5-3 vote it ruled Sheriff Elrod, a Democrat, to be out of bounds in firing four Republican deputies, holdovers from a preceding regime, a few years ago.

Patronage, said the majority, unconstitutionally restricts the First Amendment's freedom of political belief and association. Certainly this is so, the five justices declared, as applied to a job which is not of a confidential nature and is not concerned with making policy.

Three of the five majority justices proposed going a step further. Not only would they bar Sheriff Elrod from firing a deputy because he is a Republican, he could not hire a deputy solely because he is a Democrat or a Republican.

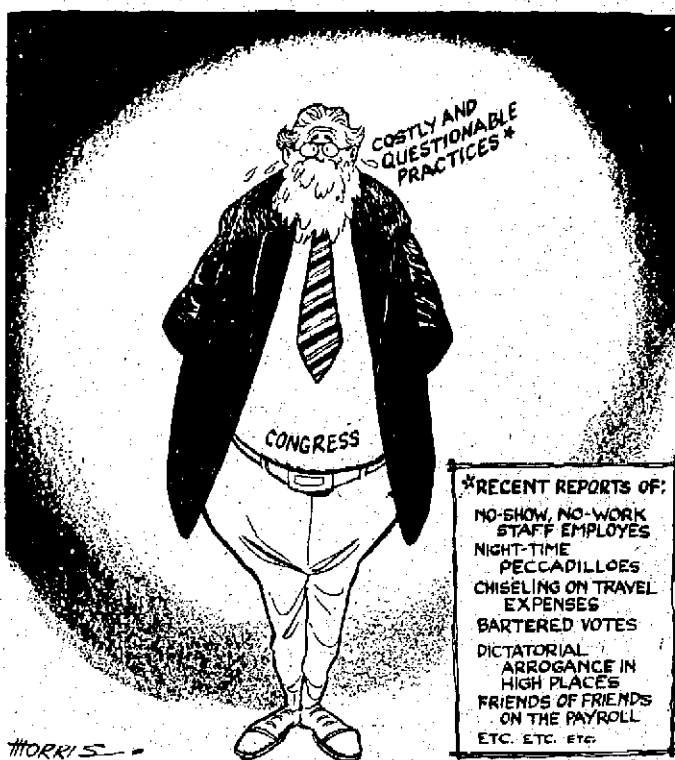

The three dissenters contend their brethren see things in the First Amendment which the wildest stretch of the imagination would be pressed to find; and while they did not refer specifically to Old Hickory, they did point out that the spoils system has been around for many a moon and democracy is still pegging along.

Placed against the background of recent down to earth, sensible decisions, the Elrod opinion reminds one of a pitcher or a golfer suddenly going wild after a long, hot streak.

The spoils system is not efficient, but who outside of those within it would say civil service is efficient? It's made to order to keep mediocrity on the inside and capability on the outside.

So far as responsiveness to the public goes, all one need to do is to contrast the attitude displayed in the average post office with that in the elective jobs at the court house. If nothing else, the patronage payroll realizes the customer, that is, the public is entitled to some courtesy and service.

SEE LAWYER BEFORE PSYCHIATRIST, SHE SAYS

You printed a letter by Dr. Abbott, psychiatrist at Riverwood, about the mental health code. He pointed out that if people feel the code to be too lenient, they can get it changed. For whose benefit?

There are so many people who have been completely destroyed — their minds, professions, social reputations, health permanently ruined by their going to a psychiatrist during a crisis that could have been so cleverly handled by expert legal counsel and litigation as to have brought enormous benefits not only to themselves, but also to the law. "Psychiatric justice," on the other hand, is like what usually happens to a rape victim.

It would be wise to seek advice from a competent attorney before considering psychiatric "treatment" for a situation threatening to one's mental or physical well-being. An attorney will try to protect one's interests; most psychiatrists will not.

Involuntary hospitalization is inhumane and unnecessary in too many cases. Psychiatry is un-American because all too often it deprives its victims of their pride and self-respect.

which are essential to the preservation of human rights.

CLERGYMAN CRITICIZES PUBLICATION OF ARTICLE

I was surprised and greatly disappointed to read an article in your newspaper of June 28th glamorizing the life of prostitutes in Las Vegas. The Associated Press release, written by Gary Pedersen and located on page nineteen seemed calculated to convey the idea that a common whore can lead a very satisfactory and exciting life.

There was hardly a hint of the sordidness that actually does come inevitably to every whore.

There was no mention of the terribly malignant and contagious diseases that are a constant danger to everyone who abuses his or her God given sexual capabilities. There was no mention by the writer of what happens to a woman who continually sells herself, after she ages and passes beyond the stage of sexual attractiveness.

One could only assume that the reporter was utterly indifferent to the possibility that he might mislead innocent young girls to choose such a dehumanizing career. Talk about male chauvinism!

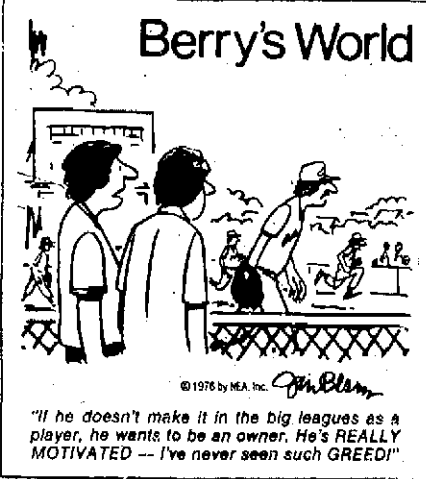

Bad enough that the Associated Press would put out such a story. Where was your sense of journalistic responsibility? Did you have to print it?

Sincerely,
Rev. Harvey Lord

Tom Tiede Great White Hope Somewhat Soiled

FLORESVILLE, Tex. — The autumn's presidential campaign will undoubtedly be the peanutliest in history. There will be James Earl Carter on the one side, likely. And on the other, if folks here in the goober capital of Texas get their wish, will be John Bowden Connally, the local legend who may be the best vice presidential material the Republican party has had in this century.

To be precise, Connally is not a peanut farmer himself. Peanuts grow on his ranch here, but he leases the land to a sod buster. As has Carter, Connally, too, has been heavily influenced by the legume. So honored is the industry locally that a statue of a nut — not Lyndon Johnson — sits in the community square. Growing up then, Connally, the son of a bus-driver, the natives say that "Mr. Johnny learned about George Washington Carver before he learned about George Washington."

Not that the man's political education was injured. The locals insist that Connally knows more about democracy, government and constitutional leadership than anyone else party today. As such, they add, he is the only man in America who can save the GOP.

"Mr. Johnny could put life into the Ford campaign. Or he could add a moderating influence to Reagan's bid. He is simply a remarkable politician. I think he could help a juckass get elected this year," says a former Democrat official.

Increasing numbers of Republican officers across the country agree.

Particularly when they are referring to Texas. The opinion is that the Texas rancher is everything that the Michigan limousier is not. He is a most effective campaigner, he appeals to both conservatives and moderates, he is charming and witty and bright. Actually, says a Republican committeeman, "John Connally should be running today instead of Ford. If it hadn't been for that milk trouble, Nixon would have chosen Connally as his vice president when Spiro Agnew resigned. Ford would still be in Congress. And John would be the Man."

The "Milk trouble" was, of course, the charge against Connally that he accepted $10,000 from a dairyman to influence price support legislation. The case against Connally was as weak as a bruised udder, and Connally was acquitted in a federal court. But, after a lifetime of public service, he was dropped from the company of the nervous Washington establishment.

And this is the chief reason why the Floresville hopes for Mr. Johnny are not likely to be realized this year. Neither Ford nor Reagan would easily select a running mate who, however wrongly accused, was tied to the Watergate era.

And so there are at least a few people in Floresville who feel the nation no longer deserves Mr. Johnny's services. Charles Fuller says he has asked the former governor and former Treasury secretary to "come home for good, settle down, relax, and let the ingrates go to hell."

But Connally respectfully declines the notion. In fact he has become the most active non-candidate in the country. Using $350,000 raised by friends, he is averaging three speeches a week in an energetic attempt to raise political consciousness from Orlando to Olympia. One of his themes: every young man and woman should be required to spend one year in the service of his government. Democracy is shaky, he insists; what we need are 200 million born-again Americans.

It's not a bad thought, considering the mood of the electorate. Jimmy Carter could get the Jesus vote, John Connally the patriotic. At least that way there would be a contest. And the lusterless GOP could offer the voters something more than President Clean or Governor Myan.

Marianne Means Liz Ray Fights For Limelight

WASHINGTON — It has been said that connoisseurs of law and sausage shouldn't watch either being made.

To distract your attention from lawmaking, then, a few glimpses of politicians and their friends doing lesser things.

ITEM: Among other things one thinks of, Elizabeth Ray is a publicity hound. She calls the television stations here regularly and pesters to be put on the air again. She called one network outlet in a fury after its nightly news aired an interview with Colleen Gardner, who has accused Rep. John Young of Texas of forcing her to have sex with him in order to keep her job. "Why did you put her on instead of me?" Ray complained.

Ray's taste for public exposure is not a recent development (and I'm not referring to the nude photographs). A year ago, before her association with Rep. Wayne Hays got her name in the papers, she tried doggedly to get the Democratic National Committee to feature her during its national fundraising telethon. She badgered both the DNC staff and the Los Angeles producer of the broadcast, for several weeks, but since nobody knew her she got nowhere.

She described herself as a "performer," but apparently no one established at what she performed. She did not use Hays' name nor did he call on her behalf.

ITEM: A prominent Republican recently spend a half-hour alone with President Ford and now doesn't know whether to be optimistic or gloomy about the chances for Ford's nomination. The friend had expected to find Ford preoccupied with the delegate struggle with Ronald Reagan, which is virtually neck-and-neck. But the President was rather casual about it and, the visitor thought, "surprisingly confident."

Either Ford knows something we don't know or he can't count.

ITEM: It is ironic that Averell Harriman turned up to propose the winning compromise plank on women before the Democratic platform committee. It promised merely to "promote" greater party participation by women instead of guaranteeing that one-half of the 1980 convention delegates would be women, as many had sought.

Harriman, 84, has great political prestige, but he is also one of the last certifiable chauvinists of the old school. He is the only important lust in town, for instance, who still insists upon the archaic custom of separating the men and women after dinner. He once made a grand exception for Washington Post publisher Kay Graham, thereby earning the undying enmity of the other females present.

ITEM: Some things never change. Department. Liberals just never seem to get their act together. Bumper sticker seen on a car the other day: "Save the seals. Boycott Japanese goods." The car was a Datsun.

New Beach Popular In St. Joseph

More Sand Coming For Big Project

Farm and Features Editor

The Corps of Engineers dredge, the Hains, was to sail away from the local harbor today, leaving behind a newly-formed sand beach on the St. Joseph lakefront that is attracting crowds of swimmers. During June, the Hains pumped and spread some 95,000 cubic yards of clean lake bottom sand along a part of the city's badly-eroded shoreline.

And, it was learned yesterday from the office of Edward Hutchinson that a contract has been awarded for another 30,000 yards of beach sand to be trucked in to extend the new beach even further. The $130,200 contract was awarded to George Miller & Sons, St. Joseph, by the Corps of Engineers, according to Hutchinson's office.

Jim Talbot, St. Joseph public works director, explained the Hains could be scheduled at the harbor here only for the month of June to pump sand for the federal government's beach nourishment project. As a second phase to augment the sand the dredge could deliver in one month, the Corps sought bids for truck delivery of sand to the beach area.

Talbot said the sand pumped by the dredge has formed new beach from the old Silver Beach parking lot area south of Broad street southward to just south of first street. The sand to be delivered by truck will be spread to the south from where the dredged sand ends.

Talbot said the new beach created by the dredge has been attracting "a whole lot of people" to the beach area where erosion had virtually eliminated swimming for several years.

All of the sand pumped onto the beach was sucked up off the lake bottom off the ends of the piers. None was taken from the river channel.

The beach nourishment program by the federal government is aimed at compensating for beach erosion caused by the government maintained piers.

Lightning Kills Dead Man's Dog

COLOMA — John McCrery's Huskie dog was struck and killed by lightning yesterday afternoon, just one day after McCrery died of a heart attack while mowing his lawn.

Coloma firemen said the lightning bolt struck the dog house about 5:45 p.m. while "Polar" was taking shelter from the rain. A nearby garage was slightly damaged by fire.

A day earlier, McCrery, 50, a Coloma township trustee and longtime auto body shop owner, was stricken with a heart attack about 4:45 p.m. while mowing the lawn at the house on 7000 Lake road.

A year ago at the Ann Arbor Veterans Administration hospital, McCrery suffered an unexpected respiratory arrest which led authorities to the conclusion patients were being poisoned. A muscle-paralyzing compound found in his blood brought FBI agents into the case and led to the arrest of two Filipino nurses.

Deadline Is Today

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Today is the final day to order new personalized license plates for 1977, the secretary of state's office said.

Motorists will receive their plates about Nov. 15, the day all other license plates go on sale.

The office said 6,250 motorists already have ordered personalized license plates. Last year more than 15,000 were sold.

One explanation for the difference in popularity could be the fact that 1976 is the Bicentennial year, the office said.

Girl Is Cited For Halting Shoplifter

By DICK DERRICK
Staff Writer

Observing a man shoplifting, 12-year-old Monica Jonatzke of St. Joseph, told her parents who in turn alerted store officials leading to the arrest of the suspect.

For her alertness and willingness to assist police in apprehension of a shoplifter, Lt. Carl W. Hulander, commander of the Benton Harbor State Police yesterday presented a Department of State Police Certificate of Appreciation to Miss Jonatzke.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gary E. Jonatzke of 911 Botham avenue, St. Joseph. She is an eighth grader at Upton junior high school.

Monica accompanied her parents to the Ace Hardware, 4032 Smith M-139, Royalton township, recently to get a birthday present for her younger brother, Jason. It was on this shopping trip that Monica observed the shoplifting incident.

Lt. Hulander in presenting the Certificate of Appreciation said to Monica and her parents, "we appreciate the fact you cooperated as citizens. If more people had the same attitude we are certain that crime would diminish considerably."

Lt. Hulander added "I feel strongly that the only way we are going to have an appreciable impact on crime is through such citizen involvement."

Mathew Borre, owner of Ace Hardware, presented the girl with a gift certificate. He said the store has a reward program for employees who observe shoplifters but it was the first time he could recall a customer assisting in the apprehension of an alleged shoplifter.

Lt. Hulander said the incident spotlights a proposed program being planned by Trooper Michael Harbaugh for junior high school students in the Benton Harbor Area schools.

Trooper Harbaugh, community services officer is working on plans to set up a youth resource committee of students from Upton, Fairplain and Benton Harbor Junior high schools. The nine-student committee will discuss how to get young people involved in the crime problem in schools and community.

Theme of the resource committee discussions will be that: "It's not only our (the police) problem — it's your problem too."

Commenting on the willingness of the Jonatzke's to get involved, Trooper Harbaugh said "the beauty of it was that they did not try to apprehend the shoplifter. The proper way is to call the incident to the attention of authorities."

Boats Needed For Fishing Outing For Handicapped

The annual Shriners perch derby for crippled and handicapped youngsters is scheduled for Saturday, July 17 and committeemen today sounded an appeal for skippers to provide at least 25 boats. Members of the committee, Payton Janney, James Davis and Atty. Thomas McCoy, said 50 guests plus their escorts take part in the fishing cruise. The St. Joseph Power Squadron and the St. Joseph Coast Guard Auxiliary annually participate. The plan is to load youngsters on boats at the Yerington dock between 9 and 10 a.m., fish between 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. and have everyone back by 3 p.m. The Shriners will bring the youngsters to the dock and provide bait, fishing equipment, food, pop, ice and prizes. Skippers were asked to bring at least one crewman and extra fishing poles. Janney can be reached at 983-3274; Davis at 983-5634 and McCoy at 424-4293. Another requirement is that each passenger must wear a personal flotation device and skippers were asked to provide these, the committeemen said.

Fairplain Man $2,500 Winner

JAMES CLEAVER
A winning "loser"

The Michigan State Lottery Bureau reported that James Cleaver of 847 Kublik drive, Fairplain, was a $2,500 winner in the "losers" daily drawing Tuesday.

Cleaver, 37, is an engineer for Michigan Bell Telephone Co.

Mrs. Cleaver said her husband about four weeks ago mailed to the Lottery Bureau three losing instant lottery tickets. Mrs. Cleaver said they have purchased a total of about 15 such tickets, and had three small winners. She said they hope to put some of the money in the bank and, perhaps, have some work done around the house. The couple has two girls, ages nine and 11.

Buchanan Dad Has Only Two On ADC

A Buchanan man sentenced last week in Berrien Circuit court to a year in jail for child support arrearages has two children receiving ADC payments and not three as reported in Saturday's Herald-Palladium.

The Berrien friend of the court's office reported it was in error when it told this newspaper a $4,600 arrearage was for a child on ADC. That child is not on ADC, although two others, for whom there is a $9,510 arrearage, are, the friend of the court's office said. Sentenced to the jail term was Clovis U. Colburn, Jr. of 411 Moccasin drive, Buchanan.

INVOLVEMENT APPRECIATED: For spotting a shoplifter and alerting her parents who notified store officials, 12-year-old Monica Jonatzke of St. Joseph was awarded Department of State Police Certificate of Appreciation from Lt. Carl W. Hulander. At the

Symphony League Has Election

MRS. FREDERICK (ANITA) SCHULTZ Symphony League President

Lists 1976-77 Officers

Mrs. Frederick (Anita) Schultz has been elected as president of the Symphony League.

The Symphony League was organized in 1975 to give financial and other support to the Twin Cities Symphonic Society, which sponsors the Twin Cities Symphony.

Other new officers include Mrs. Samuel (June) Gould, first vice president; Mrs. Walter (Mary) Berwen second vice president; Mrs. Peter (Karen) Johnson, secretary, and Mrs. Don (Elaine) Moely, treasurer.

Appointed include Mrs. David (Margaret) Hills, member-at-large, and Mrs. William (Donna) Friesberg, organist.

The Symphony League was formed after Dr. Walter Browe, a past president of the Twin Cities Symphonic Society, asked Mrs. Schultz and the late Mrs. Harold (Helen) Baker to investigate the possibility of forming a women's association to support the symphony.

The first meeting was held in September with Mrs. Schultz and Mrs. Samuel (June) Gould in charge.

The league's first fund-raising project was a benefit luncheon and fashion show last April when $1,200 was raised.

The league's future projects will include the sale of the 1831 march, "Parade of the Blossoms," July 11 with Mrs. Edward (Anna) Haupt as chairman; a home tour in the fall with Mrs. Barry (Lauri) Davis as chairman, and a spring style show and luncheon with Mrs. Charles (Rhonda) Goldstein as chairman.

Anyone interested in joining the Symphony League may contact the Twin Cities Symphony office in St. Joseph.

Propose Apple Blossom For Our National Flower

Democratic Senators Henry Jackson and Warren Magnuson of Washington are co-sponsors of a bill to make the apple blossom the official flower of the United States.

What makes their action provocative is they are ignoring their own state's flower, the rhododendron, in favor of the official bloom of Republican President Ford's home state of Michigan.

The apple blossom also has backing in the House of Representatives in the form of two proposed resolutions, both sponsored by Rep. Mike McCormack, who also is a Democrat from Washington.

That is just one of a number of political puzzles found in the quest for an official United States flower, according to Florists' Transworld Delivery, which is conducting a Bicentennial Flower Election during July, 1976. Everyone is eligible to vote for a favorite flower at any one of the 14,000 FTD shops in the country. The results will be presented to Congress, as was the case when FTD conducted its first flower election in 1959.

The marigold isn't any state's flower but it has plenty of support. In the House, Rep. Floyd Pithan, D-Ind., has two resolutions pending for it. Yet, his home state's official flower is the peony.

A proposed Senate resolution for the marigold is sponsored by Sen. Howard Baker, R-Tenn., and Sen. Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., the majority leader. Sen. Mansfield prefers the marigold in Montana's bitterroot and Sen. Baker is forgetting his state's iris. Helping to explain why Sen. Baker has abandoned the iris is that his father-in-law, the late Sen. Everett Dirksen of Illinois, was a long-time proponent of the marigold as the nation's flower.

FTD has no clue to the reason so many legislators are risking the wrath of their constituents by rejecting their state flowers.

The FTD election ballot lists 25 different floral "candidates" for the official United States Flower plus space for a write-in vote. The listed candidates are: apple blossom, azalea, begonia, black-eyed Susan, carnation, chrysanthemum, corn tassel, daffodil, and dahlia.

Also daisy, dogwood, geranium, gladiolus, lilac, lily, magnolia, marigold, mountain laurel, and orchid.

And pansy, peony, petunia, rhododendron, rose, snapdragon, tulip, and zinnia.

Other flowers already boasting Congressional support are the rose and the daisy. Rep. Ray Roberts, D-Tex., and Rep. Tim Lee Carter, R-Ky., both have resolutions pending in the House for the rose. Their state flowers are, respectively, the bluebonnet and the goldenrod.

The daisy is favored in a House bill proposed by Rep. Donald H. Clausen, D-Calif., whose home state's honored flower is the California poppy.

Early Welcome Sign

Early American settlers carved pineapples on doorposts as a sign of hospitality.

Modern day Americans still use canned Hawaiian pineapple as a friendly welcome. Treat guests to golden pineapple chunks speared on picks for dunking in a dip. Wrap them in bacon or toss with grated cheddar and broil. Marinate chunks in sharp French dressing and spear with a shrimp.

Great American Treats For The Fourth Of July

Celebrate Our First 200 Years

This one is really special. As you gather with friends and family for the big cookout this Fourth of July and the discussion about politics heats up into an argument — or someone starts complaining about income taxes — take a moment to remember that what happened 200 years ago was an event unique in the history of mankind.

Because of their foresight and courage, our forefathers guaranteed all of us the right to grumble about the government, gripe about high food prices and gather with friends in a home and neighborhood of our own choosing.

These two new recipes create the perfect menu to celebrate our nation's 200th birthday.

Steak Pinwheels use relatively inexpensive round steak to create a delectable and different cookout treat. The sliced steak is spread with a flavorful onion and cheese stuffing that's easily stirred together with an envelope of onion gravy mix. Once it's spread with stuffing the steak is rolled up jelly-roll fashion then sliced into individual pinwheels.

You can stuff and slice the steak ahead of time, then refrigerate until you're ready to pop your pinwheels on the grill. Steak Pinwheels are just the right size for serving on hamburger buns.

A crisp tossed green salad with Zippy Mustard Dressing is the ideal accompaniment for the steak. The dressing is easily stirred together with prepared yellow mustard and tomato juice.

A tray of garden relishes, lemonade or iced tea and your favorite cake will complete your Happy Birthday America menu.

STEAK PINWHEEL SLICES

One-half cup water
One envelope (seven-eighths ounce) onion gravy mix
One and one-half cups soft bread crumbs

Four slices process American cheese, finely diced
One-fourth cup finely chopped green pepper

Two slices round steak, cut one-fourth inch thick (about one and one-half pounds)

Six to eight hamburger rolls
Stir together water and contents of gravy mix envelope in mixing bowl; add bread crumbs, cheese, and pepper. Pound steak to slightly less than one-fourth inch thickness; spread with onion filling.

Roll up, starting with long side. Fasten with wooden picks at one-inch intervals. Cut between picks to make one-inch thick slices.

Grill over hot coals, turning to brown both sides, ten to fifteen minutes. Remove wooden picks. Serve on hamburger rolls. Makes six to eight servings.

ZIPPY MUSTARD DRESSING

One-third cup oil
One-third cup tomato juice
One tablespoon vinegar
One tablespoon prepared yellow mustard
One teaspoon Worcestershire sauce

Combine all ingredients; stir or shake until well blended. Serve on greens. Makes two-thirds cup dressing.

RED, WHITE AND BLUEBERRY PUNCH

Red, White and Blueberry Punch is delightfully refreshing and wears the colors of the flag. The brilliant red comes from red fruit punch frozen concentrate, the white from the ice cubes and the blue from the blueberries nestled in the ice. This cooling punch is pleasant at any time of day.

Firecracker Cake is a sweet spectacular. A simple homemade jelly roll is filled with whipped cream, fortified with gelatin against the soaring mercury, and tinted and flavored with more fruit punch concentrate. Some of the filling frosts the outside of the cake, which is sprinkled with red sugar; a drinking straw "fuse" completes this edible firecracker — delicious at tea time or dinner time.

RED, WHITE AND BLUEBERRY PUNCH

Blueberry Ice Cubes
One can (twelve ounces) or two cans (six ounces each) frozen red punch concentrate, thawed, undiluted with six tablespoons reserved (see in Pink Cream Filling for Firecracker Cake)

One cup apple juice
One cup peach nectar
Two cups club soda

To make Blueberry Ice Cubes: Early in day fill sectioned ice cube trays with one-fourth inch water; freeze until partially firm. Place three or four blueberries in each section; add a little more water and freeze until berries are frozen solid, then fill trays to top with water.

When ready to serve, combine remaining punch and juices in pitcher; mix. Slowly stir in club soda. Add Blueberry Ice Cubes. Pour into glasses.

FIRECRACKER CAKE

Three-fourths cup sifted all-purpose flour
Three-fourths teaspoon baking powder
One-fourth teaspoon salt
Four eggs
Three-fourths cup sugar
One teaspoon grated lemon peel

One teaspoon lemon juice
Confectioners' sugar
Pink Cream Filling
Red sugar

Sift together flour, baking powder and salt. In mixing bowl, beat eggs at high speed of electric mixer until foamy. Very slowly add sugar, beating constantly at high speed until eggs are thick and fluffy. Stir in lemon peel. Fold in flour mixture and lemon juice.

Grease a fifteen by ten by one inch baking pan (jelly roll pan). Line with greased waxed paper and pour batter into it. Bake in a pre-heated hot oven (400 degrees) for twelve to fourteen minutes or until top springs back when lightly touched in center. Immediately turn cake out onto a clean tea towel that has been dusted with confectioners' sugar. Trim edges of cake with kitchen scissors.

Beginning at one end, roll up cake and towel together and place on rack to cool completely. Unroll cake and spread with a thin layer of Pink Cream Filling. Roll up cake and place seam-side down on rectangular plate. Spread top, sides and ends of cake with remaining cream filling. Sprinkle cake with red sugar. Chill at least two hours.

To serve, place white drinking straw in one end of cake to resemble the fuse of a firecracker. Cut into slices. Makes eight bang-up servings.

Pink Cream Filling: Pour the six tablespoons reserved red punch concentrate from Red, White and Blueberry Punch into a measuring cup. Sprinkle one and one-fourth teaspoons unflavored gelatin over it and soak for five minutes; stir. Place cup in a saucepan of hot water; heat just until gelatin dissolves; cool. Whip one and one-half cups heavy cream until stiff; fold in cooled gelatin mixture.

For a particularly appropriate picnic specialty for this day, try this new recipe for a delightfully novel "Firecracker" On A Bun. It joins two great all-American favorites, the hot dog and the hamburger.

'FIRECRACKER' ON A BUN

Three-fourths cup bottled Russian dressing
One pound ground beef
One-fourth cup soft bread crumbs
Four slices American cheese, halved Eight frankfurters
Eight slices bacon
Eight toasted frankfurter rolls

In medium bowl, thoroughly combine one-fourth cup Russian dressing, ground beef, and bread crumbs. On waxed paper, shape beef mixture into eight rectangles (about five-by-four inches); top with cheese. Place frankfurter in center and completely wrap with beef mixture, sealing edges tightly. Wrap with bacon and secure each end with toothpick.

Grill or broil, turning and basting frequently with remaining Russian dressing, about 20 minutes or until done. Serve on frankfurter rolls and garnish, if desired, with scallions (green onions) or celery fans inserted into one end of frankfurter. Makes eight "firecrackers."

Rum was an important staple of everyday life in the 17th and 18th centuries. Americans used rum in trade. We bartered rum for furs from the Indians and the skins were swapped for beads and fabric from London. Rum was present at weddings, operations and funerals.

Rum is just as popular today, not only as a beverage, in punches and cocktails, but as a basic cooking ingredient.

BEER BATTER CHICKEN

Three-pound broiler-fryer, cut up

Two cups flour, divided
Oil or shortening
Two teaspoons baking powder
One and one-half teaspoons salt

One teaspoon paprika
One-eighth teaspoon pepper
Two eggs
Three-fourths cup beer
One tablespoon melted butter

Rinse and dry chicken pieces, roll in one-half cup flour. Heat oil in heavy deep skillet; oil should be at least two inches deep. Mix remaining one and one-half cups flour with baking powder and seasonings. Beat eggs with beer and melted butter. Add flour mixture gradually, beating until very smooth. Coat chicken pieces with batter, turning over to cover evenly. Fry a few pieces at a time, turning several times, until golden, crisp and tender — about 20 minutes. Makes four servings.

APPLE MINCE PIE

Five cups thinly sliced tart apples
One and one-half cups prepared mince meat
One cup packed brown sugar
Three tablespoons flour

STEAK PINWHEEL SLICES

One-fourth teaspoon nutmeg
Pastry for two-crust pie
Two tablespoons butter
Two tablespoons gold Puerto Rican rum

Combine apples and mince meat. Mix sugar, flour, salt and nutmeg. Combine with apple-mince mixture. Line a nine-inch pie pan with pastry. Fill with apple mixture, dot with butter and sprinkle with rum. Roll out top crust and adjust on pie filling. Crimp edges and cut slits in crust for steam to escape. Bake in a hot oven, 400 degrees for 10 minutes. Lower heat to moderate, 350 degrees, continue baking for about 40 to 45 minutes. Serve warm with sharp cheddar cheese.

ANADAMA BREAD

One-half cup white or yellow stone-ground cornmeal
Two cups boiling water
Three tablespoons butter or lard
One-half cup molasses
Two teaspoons salt
One package active dry yeast
Four to five cups all-purpose flour

One egg
Stir the cornmeal into the boiling water over low heat. Use a wooden spoon to mix, stirring until very smooth and thickened. Stir in the butter or lard, molasses and salt. Cool mixture until lukewarm.

Add the yeast dissolved in one-fourth cup warm water. Beat in two cups of flour and the egg. Add the remaining flour, one cup at a time, to make a smooth dough. Turn the dough out onto a floured board, knead several minutes. Shape dough into a ball and place in a buttered bowl. Cover with kitchen towel) wring out in hot water. Let rise until doubled in bulk, about two hours. Punch dough down, turn out on floured board; knead lightly and shape into two loaves.

Place loaves in greased loaf pans (seven by five by three) and allow to rise again for one hour. Then bake in a preheated moderate oven, 375 degrees, until golden brown, about 45-50 minutes. Brush with butter and cool on rack. Makes two loaves.

CRANBERRY RUM SHRUB

One quart cranberry juice
One-fourth cup sugar (optional, to taste)
One pint ginger ale
Ten to twelve ounces gold Puerto Rican rum
Lime and lemon slices Stir cranberry juice and

POTATO SALAD AU GRATIN

One package (five and one-half ounces) dehydrated potatoes au gratin
One cup chopped celery
One-fourth cup chopped green pepper

One-half cup mayonnaise
One-fourth cup milk
Two tablespoons pickle relish
One tomato, cut in wedges

Cover potato slices from package with salted water, in saucepan. Cover and simmer fifteen minutes, until tender; drain and cool. Combine with celery and pepper. Stir together mayonnaise, milk, pickle relish, and seasoning mix from package of potatoes. Add to chilled potatoes and mix lightly. Garnish with tomato wedges. Makes five servings.

'Your Problems' By Ann Landers

He Wants To Settle Score

Dear Ann Landers: Attached to this letter is my personal check, made out to you for $4,000. Let me explain.

Several years ago I had a small business and I did something many small businessmen do — cheated on my income tax. I forgot all about it until I became friendly with a Christian brother who awakened in me a sense of decency and integrity. I never knew existed.

Lately God has been reminding me that I have a score to settle with the Internal Revenue Service. Although I don't know exactly how much I owe, I feel certain $4,000 would more than cover it.

I talked the problem over with my wife and she became upset when I told her I wanted to send my check directly to the IRS. She was afraid I'd be prosecuted, my reputation ruined, etc.

I then went to my certified public accountant. He advised me to send my check to Ann Landers, ask you to deposit it in your personal account and write your own check to the IRS for $4,000.

Enclosed is a separate check made out to you for your trouble. Thanks and God bless. Sign Me — Straightening Out The Books

Dear Mr. Straight: I admire you for wanting to right an old wrong, and I'd like to help, but I, too, must answer in the IRS and keep my skirts 100 per cent clean.

My CPA would have to know what $4,000 is doing in my account. Next, the IRS man would want to know about that "stray" $4,000 check from me to IRS. Your cover could be easily blown, my friend, since your name is on the check.

So I herewith return both checks (I don't accept gratuities, but thank you very much) and suggest that you use a more anonymous transmittal agent, perhaps a Christian brother. See you in heaven!

Dear Ann Landers: I'm only 38, in very good physical condition and everyone tells me I look much younger than my years. I feel great but something has been bothering me.

Lately, my mind seems to be playing little tricks. I find myself forgetting things I've known for years — telephone numbers, addresses, names of close friends and even relatives. It's embarrassing. This afternoon I went into another room and forgot what I went in there for. Can it be that I am becoming senile?

I become terribly annoyed with myself when I misplace things. It seems I am always hunting for my glasses, my favorite pen, my desk scissors or the current book I happen to be reading. Any advice? — Slipping A Little

Dear Slipping: Move over. You have plenty of company. I'm exactly your age, feel fine, am far from senile (I think) — and I forget plenty.

Being organized can eliminate many of the small annoyances. If you put things where they belong you won't have to hunt for them. It takes a

Hal ruffed and promptly cashed all his trumps while discarding a diamond from dummy. West had to make two discards and was smart enough to chuck two hearts.

This didn't do him a bit of good. Hal simply cashed dummy's king and queen of diamonds and ace of hearts. Then he led dummy's last club. Poor West was on lead and had to lead a diamond up to Hal's ace-10.

While Erma Bombeck takes a well-deserved one-week vacation, we welcome the opportunity to offer some of her most popular past columns.

I have a child who should be listed in the yellow pages under "auto parts."

The motor in my car never turns over but that he is belted into the front seat with a smile on his face saying, "Where are we going?"

The truth is, he doesn't even care. He'll go to a drive-in library, a night depository slot at the bank, a tire center, an air hose at the gas station or a self-service ice machine.

The other afternoon, I coasted the car quietly down the driveway until I thought I was out of hearing distance. Then I started the motor, shoved it into first and as the kids say, "laid a patch." Out of the back seat came a voice, "Hey, Mom, where are we going?"

"How did you know I was going anywhere?"

"I saw you in the garage looking for your car keys," he said. "Where are we going?"

"We are going to follow a garbage truck from Ohio to Tampa. You want out?"

"No. How come you're so sore? Is it because when I'm in the car you can't sing duets on the radio with Glen Campbell?"

"No."

"Is it because I forgot my shoes again?"

"No. Frankly, I am worried about your spending so much time in a car. You're getting a station wagon palmer. Not to mention the fact that you never get any exercise. You ride in the

He opened his mouth to say something, but looked at me and changed his mind. It's a long walk back up the driveway.

Dr. Lester Coleman

My husband will buy and use any new vitamin he reads about. He constantly compares the number of units on each bottle. He believes that the higher the numbers, the more pep and energy he has. I tell him we could better use all that money for good food. — Mrs. F.A., Tex.

Dear Mrs. A.: You are correct. There are millions of people who falsely believe that vitamins, in all concentrations, are the answer to all of man's ills.

Their importance in specific cases of limited nutrition is undeniable. Yet far too many people play the numbers game in seeking extra high concentrations of units. Extra vitamins can be valuable and sometimes even harmful.

There are known daily nutritional requirements of the body for vitamins. These can be supplied in food alone or in conjunction with vitamin supplements.

In the absence of any medically established deficiency there is no need to fall prey to the sales pitch of vitamin promoters who vie with each other over that numbers game of added units.

To avoid the trap of expensive and unnecessary concentrations of vitamins it is imperative that people consult their physician and ask about the need and the value of the extra "magical" vitamins they are contemplating buying.

The physician must be the source of such medical decisions. His judgment keeps his patients from exploitation by mythical cures for arthritis, high blood pressure, deafness, liver disease and other illnesses that man is heir to.

Is one type of tranquilizer better than another? How should they be chosen? — Mr. L.E., Ore.

Dear Mr. E.:

The choice of a tranquilizer, or a mood-elevating drug, must never be made by the patient. These drugs are carefully chosen by doctors to fit the specific need of each individual patient.

They are usually prescribed in small amounts so that the doctor can best evaluate the patient's reaction to them. Very often, drugs that seem to be identical may not produce the maximum benefit for a patient. Consequently, these are shifted from time to time, and the dosage changed.

Some people become so enthusiastic about their reaction to any of these drugs that they hand them out to their friends and neighbors. This can prove to be misplaced kindness.

Fragile Bond-- Marriage Today

In less than a generation, the divorce rate has more than doubled in the United States and it is continuing to soar, writes Ruth Winter in her new book, "The Fragile Bond." Today, the advantages of marriage are more necessary than ever, she contends.

Finding a good match was not important in the past, she observes. Life was short and there wasn't sufficient time to judge or to be bored. Few had to suffer long with a bad choice. The author devotes an entire chapter to "Making a Choice."

Other chapters include "The New Woman," "The New Man," sexual "hang-ups" and "hang-downs," affairs, children and how to help a troubled marriage to survive.

Mrs. Winter suggests things a couple can do for themselves, and, on the subject of professional counseling, she quotes a marriage expert who has observed, "Romeo and Juliet would not have committed suicide if they had had a little marriage counseling."

Christians, Syrians Hit Palestinians And Allies

By FAROUK NASSAR
Associated Press Writer
BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — The Lebanese Christians and their Syrian backers were reported waging a three-front offensive today against the Palestinian guerrillas and their leftist Lebanese Muslim allies.

The leftists claimed they were putting up a hard fight, but they were losing ground on at least one of the fronts.

The Christians announced they have completed their conquest of the Palestinians' Jisr el-Basha refugee camp on the east side of Beirut and launched a "final offensive" against the adjacent and much larger Tal Zaatar camp.

The Palestinians in effect admitted the fall of Jisr el-Basha in a statement paying homage to "those who stood firm and fought." The statement vowed a "defense until death" of Tal Zaatar.

The Palestinians also charged that Syrian troops and tanks made a sudden attack today on the Muslim port of Sidon, 25 miles south of Beirut, after a nightlong barrage of heavy artillery and rocket fire set several sections of the biblical port city afire.

Telephone communications between Beirut and Sidon were cut, and no confirmation of the report was available. The Palestinians said their guerrillas and their leftist Lebanese Muslim allies were locked in "savage combat" on Sidon's hilly outskirts to repel the surprise Syrian assault.

The Palestinians and Christians both reported the fighting on the third front. They said Syrian troops, tanks and planes were attacking leftist positions in the string of ski resorts northeast of Beirut that threaten the Christian enclave between Beirut and Tripoli. The Christian command said the leftists were "hopelessly sandwiched between our forces and the attacking Syrians on the east" and were fleeing.

A joint communique from the six Christian militias taking part in the nine-day-old assault on the two refugee camps said Jisr el-Basha was put under a dusk-to-dawn curfew, and that its guerrilla commander asked for asylum in Christian territory.

The Christian force — estimated at 6,000 militiamen with 150 tanks and armored cars — "turned in full force to overrun, or at least to cut down in size, the bigger camp of Tal Zaatar after the last pockets of resistance in Jisr el-Basha were mopped up," the communique said.

The two camps form a leftist wedge in Christian East Beirut and overlook the main roads between the city and the Christian heartland to the north. Jisr el-Basha housed an estimated 6,000 Palestinian refugees, most of them Christians, before the siege. Tal Zaatar had a population of 20,000 Muslim Palestinians and 30,000 Lebanese driven from South Lebanon by Israeli reprisals to Palestinian raids across the border.

In an attempt to ease the Christian pressure, the Muslims said they attacked the Christian suburbs of Eln Rum-manah, two miles north of Tal Zaatar, and Hadath, to the south.

"If Tal Zaatar falls," Lebanese Muslim leader Kamal Jumblatt warned, "we shall never accept a cease-fire or negotiations but shall carry on the war to its end no matter how long it takes."

He accused Syria of delaying the promised withdrawal of its soldiers "to help the rightists overrun Tal Zaatar by forcing much of the guerrilla and leftist forces to remain pinned in positions opposite Syrian troops and armor."

FBI Probe Reports Bypassing Kelley

By MARGARET GENTRY
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Justice Department has blocked FBI Director Clarence M. Kelley from receiving investigative reports on a probe of FBI burglaries, according to a knowledgeable source.

The department official in charge of the investigation has hand-picked a team of 12 FBI agents to do much of the legwork in the case, this source said, and others familiar with the developments said Tuesday.

The agents' reports may have been sent to Kelley and one of his top assistants, James Adams, early in the investigation, the sources said. But that was changed on orders from department officials and agents no longer are allowed to report their findings to Kelley or Adams, the source said.

It is unusual for the FBI director to be sealed off from reports of his own agents even in investigations involving alleged FBI wrongdoing. It could not be determined why department officials took such action. But the probe is being conducted in even tighter secrecy than usual, and few department officials have been told about the details.

The investigation centers on allegations that FBI agents carried out burglaries at the homes or offices of Americans during the last five years. It is not known how many burglaries might be involved.

Sources said the investigation involves possible criminal charges that FBI men violated the civil rights of citizens in the break-ins.

The department probe is under the overall direction of Asst. Atty. Gen. J. Stanley Pottinger, head of the Justice Department's civil rights division.

"I've seen Stan shake his head in dismay at what they've found," a department official remarked.

In a development related to the probe, Assistant FBI Director Andrew Decker has hired a well-known Washington attorney, Edward Bennett Williams, to represent him, sources said.

Decker was assigned to intelligence and security matters for several years before Kelley appointed him assistant director for the computer systems division in 1974. He is now in charge of the records division.

One source familiar with the case said Kelley is concerned that the burglary investigation raises doubts about his credibility and control of the bureau.

Kelley has insisted for the past year that FBI burglaries against domestic targets ended in 1968, long before he took office in 1973.

But the department now is investigating burglaries conducted since 1971. Published reports have indicated that some of the burglaries took place after Kelley took office.

If the burglaries were conducted without Kelley's knowledge — and there's no publicly available evidence to the contrary — that raises questions about the director's leadership.

PARENTS RELIEVED: Carl and Joyce Acker were filled with happiness and relief to hear that their son, Gary, would be spared from death. Gary was given the lightest sentence — 16 years — for his role as a mercenary in Angola. (AP Wirephoto)

The FBI refuses comment on the case.

One target of the post-1971 burglaries was the Socialist Workers party, a department source said. FBI files previously made public showed that agents conducted 94 burglaries against the party from 1910 through

William Gardner, chief of the civil rights division's criminal section, directly controls the department's investigation.

Sources said Gardner himself picked the 12 FBI agents doing the legwork on the case, and the agents report directly to him.

Milliken Offers Compromise PBB Bill

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Gov. William Milliken has proposed a $5.7 million program to more strictly limit PBB in Michigan food, compensate farmers who would lose animals as a result and create a laboratory to diagnose future animal diseases.

PBB limits proposed by Milliken Tuesday are tougher than current federal standards, but are not so strict as those recommended a month ago by a scientific panel he named.

Milliken earlier called for adoption of his panel's recommendation that foods with only a trace of PBB be banned but he now calls his higher levels "the sound and reasonable course to take."

Asked if he would veto legislation that followed the recommendation of his panel and his earlier feelings, Milliken replied he sees no circumstances that would lead him to support a bill containing the lower levels. He called following his panel's recommendations "excessive."

Milliken said he did not confer with his scientific panel about his final recommendations.

House leaders said Tuesday they did not expect to tackle the PBB legislation this week, but would take it up after dealing with budget bills and a transportation package for southeastern Michigan.

Rep. Donald Albosta, whose bill would reduce safe PBB levels to the mark recommended by Milliken's panel, said the legislature would have to go along with the governor's own proposal.

"Apparently it's the only thing he'll sign," said Albosta, who has been critical of the state's handling of the PBB poisoning.

But Sen. John Hertel, chairman of the Senate committee which may have to consider the bill, said he sees no point in it, and is inclined to let such a bill die in committee. He said he opposes any tightening of the PBB standards.

"It's a waste of money for the governor's proposal to be put into effect," said Hertel, head of the Agriculture and Consumer Affairs Committee.

Milliken said his proposal is a "sensible, reasonable program which provides adequate assurances of human health protection, without creating excessive expense, economic disruption or individual hardship."

But in an immediate reaction to Milliken's proposal, state Sen. Richard Allen of rural Alma called it "a nice gesture, but an ineffective and expensive one."

"There is in my opinion no valid scientific basis for the (new) suggested compromise lowering," said Allen, a member of the Senate Agriculture Committee.

Milliken's plan would reduce allowable levels of polybrominated biphenyl to 100 parts per billion for meat, 150 parts per billion for milk and 10 parts per billion for eggs.

An estimated 4,000 cattle in about 250 herds would be affected by the lower limits, Milliken said. The state should compensate farmers whose animals test above the limit and must be destroyed, he said.

That compensation, Milliken noted, could cost the state as much as $3.5 million.

Current Food and Drug Administration guidelines ban meat and milk with more than 300 parts per billion PBB and eggs with more than 50 parts per billion PBB.

Saying the chemical could cause cancer or birth defects over the long run, Milliken's panel urged that even traces of PBB be banned from food as a precautionary measure. It recommended levels of five parts per billion in meat and eggs, and one part per billion in milk.

But state agriculture officials protested they could not reliably test for such minute levels without spending millions of dollars.

Milliken's proposal Tuesday also included other programs aimed at solving the state's problems with the chemical, which was accidentally mixed in livestock feed more than two years ago and has led to the destruction of thousands of Michigan animals.

Other items in the proposal: —He asked the legislature to approve $300,000 immediately for the state agriculture department to inspect and test animals. In addition, he said, the department will need another $1.02 million for fiscal year 1976-77 to continue the testing.

—The legislature also should appropriate $300,000 next year to staff and equip an animal health laboratory at Michigan State University that could rapidly diagnose animal diseases, Milliken said.

—He urged immediate consideration of a bill now in the House Appropriations Committee that would let the state set up a new burial site and provide some money for the burial of affected animals.

—Milliken told the Farm Bureau Services and Michigan Chemical Co., which were responsible for the poisoning, that the state would try to recover from them the costs of animal

Galien Man's Death Believed To Be Drowning

BENTON HARBOR — A Galien man whose body was pulled from Dayton lake west of here yesterday was presumed to have drowned Saturday during an outing at the lake with friends. State police said Niles said a search for the victim, identified as Johnnie Luckamy, 26, was not begun until yesterday, however, when his father called a friend to report he had not returned home.

Police said the people with Luckamy at the lake Saturday thought he had left the area when he did not rejoin them after attempting to swim to shore from a boat. He was presumed to have drowned then, state police said.

something. He said, "The only danger in this life is not recognizing there is a danger." Karl is the kind of pilot who knows when there's danger. He knows when he should bail out, come down in the water and become a floating vessel.

"If we haven't heard from him, then we know he's still up there."

Alone, drifting across a blanket of clouds, perhaps hanging silently in a windless sky, Thomas, according to Grande, is carrying enough warm clothing to withstand bitter high-altitude temperatures. He has food and water, and if downed, his gondola would become a boat.

But the pilot's planned altitude was about 3,500 feet. That's low enough to be within reach of lightning bolts, and for the most part it puts him too close to the sea to make radio contact with passing jetliners.

Thomas was last heard from late Sunday. A commercial jet reported picking up Thomas's call letters on its radio. The signal was faint, but a spokesman for the Atlanta jetliner said the voice, believed to be Thomas's, did not sound distressed.

Shortly after Thomas lifted off Friday from Lakehurst, N.J., Naval Air Station, his main communications system was knocked out by a faulty aerial. This too killed his primary tool of navigation, and he was forced to use the stars.

Then, according to his communications crew, he encountered thunderstorms that may have numbed his reserve batteries.

It Wasn't Really Ray

BLOOMFIELD HILLS, Mich. (AP) — The assistant director of Cranbrook Academy of Art says he thinks it's silly that his 1967 self-portrait was rejected by a black Memphis, Tenn. judge who thought the picture was of James Earl Ray. The six-foot portrait of James Zimmerman of Keego Harbor was one of three borrowed from the Memphis Academy of Art by Judge Odell Horton of U.S. Bankruptcy Court to brighten his new office. Horton had asked the academy to select some paintings for the office. He did not see them in advance. When the newly-appointed black judge saw the portrait, thinking it was of Ray—the convicted killer of Martin Luther King—he ordered it returned to the academy. Zimmerman painted the portrait while attending the Memphis Academy, a year before King was slain. The 36-year-old artist said nobody before ever suggested he looks like Ray.

Palestinian Hijackers Release 47 Of 250 Hostages In Uganda

KAMPALA, Uganda (AP) — Palestinian hijackers of a French jetliner today released 47 elderly women, sick persons and children among the more than 250 hostages they were holding for the third day at Entebbe Airport, the Ugandan government announced. Two Americans were among those reported freed.

The Israeli cabinet was meeting in emergency session to decide what it would do about demands to free 40 prisoners to ransom the rest of the captives and the plane. At least 70 Israelis are among the hostages.

Official Uganda radio said those freed were handed over to French Ambassador Pierre Renard, with Ugandan President Idi Amin and Soviet Ambassador Ilshai Abdullah acting as intermediaries.

The 47 included 34 French, two Americans, one Canadian and various other nationalities, the announcement said.

In Nairobi, capital of neighboring Kenya, airport officials said an Air France Boeing 707 plane left for Entebbe, presumably to pick up the freed hostages. Indications were that they would be flown to Nairobi, but Air France officials declined to confirm that.

Amin had asked Tuesday for the release of captives in distress. The handover took place at the new Entebbe civilian terminal, about a mile from the old terminal where the captives had been held.

Israeli Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin said in Jerusalem his government "considers itself responsible for the safety of every Israeli ... and Israel will act according to this principle." But he said France was responsible for the safety of the passengers who were aboard the hijacked plane.

Every Israeli morning newspaper urged the government to adhere to its previous policy of refusing to give in to terrorist demands. "Bargaining with terrorists and submission to their demands do not in the long run save human lives at all," said the Jerusalem Post.

The five or six hijackers who took over the plane Sunday on a flight from Tel Aviv and Athens to Paris also demanded the release of 13 prisoners held elsewhere — six from West Germany, five from Kenya and one each from France and Switzerland.

They set a deadline of 8 a.m. EDT Thursday for the exchange to be made at Entebbe and threatened "severe and heavy penalties" if their demands were not met.

Equal Protection For Illegitimate Denied By Court

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court has refused to extend to most illegitimate children the same protections against discrimination that it has granted to many minorities. The court ruled 5 to 3 on Tuesday that laws that treat illegitimate children differently from those whose parents were married do not create a "suspect classification" like race or national origin.

The court said that laws making "suspect" distinctions among groups of people can be justified only if the state can prove they are required by some compelling public necessity.

It has applied this test to discrimination against racial, religious and ethnic groups, but has withheld it from other groups, including women.

Discrimination that is not "suspect" can be justified if authorities can show it is a reasonable way of carrying out any legitimate governmental purpose.

On this basis, the court upheld a federal law requiring most children of unwed parents to prove that they were dependent upon their fathers in order to collect Social Security survivors' benefits.

Legitimate children, unless they have been adopted by other parents, are not required to prove dependency.

The court said this was justified as a matter of administrative convenience because it enabled the government to check only on those cases where dependency would be most questionable.

In a decision with broader impact, the court ruled last Friday that old people are not a "suspect classification" either. It did so in upholding a Massachusetts law requiring state policemen to retire at 50. The court noted that 50 is not very old, but it said the law would not invoke the strict scrutiny test even if it penalized the aged.

The question of whether gender is a suspect classification will come before the court again next term when it considers a challenge to an Oklahoma law permitting women, but not men, to buy beer at 18. The men must wait until they are 21.

The Oklahoma Supreme Court upheld the law on grounds that statistics showed young men were more likely than young women to get driving and have accidents after drinking beer.

Justices John Paul Stevens, William J. Brennan Jr. and Thurgood Marshall dissented from Tuesday's decision, saying the court should be "especially vigilant in examining any classification which involves illegitimacy."

In the day's only other decision, the court ruled 7 to 2 that authorities may constitutionally search a person's office, seize his business records and use them as evidence against him in a criminal trial. The court said this did not violate the constitutional protection against a defendant's being compelled to testify against himself. Brennan and Marshall dissented.

After the day's session, the court announced that it would meet daily through Friday and then return to the bench on July 6. It will be the only July session in this century except for 1974. In that year, the court met until July 25 to decide the case of former President Richard M. Nixon and the Watergate tapes.

The court ordered Nixon to surrender the tapes and related documents, which were wanted as evidence in the Watergate cover-up case.

Brennan was absent from the bench Tuesday and a court spokesman said he had left to catch a ferry for his vacation retreat on Nantucket Island. The spokesman said the other justices were expected to be on the bench for the remaining sessions.

New Buffalo Boy Facing Theft Count

NEW BUFFALO — A 16-year-old New Buffalo boy will be petitioned into Berrien Probate court in connection with the reported theft of $1,000 and several diamond rings from an apartment at the Harbor Inn restaurant here yesterday.

New Buffalo city police said the juvenile employee of the restaurant located at 128 North Whittaker street, was released to the custody of his parents. Police said the rings, of unknown value, and the cash have been recovered.

A restaurant employee reported yesterday morning that the cash and rings were missing from a safe located in the apartment of restaurant owner Mrs. Josephine Messenger.

Osteopaths Charged In Fraud Plot

DETROIT (AP) — Two Detroit osteopaths and two medical clinic employees have been arrested on charges of plotting to defraud Medicaid of $70,000.

All four were arraigned before Recorder's Court Judge Michael Connor and released on personal bonds.

The state Department of Social Services said its inquiry began after one of the doctors, Dr. Alan DeVore, was suspended from Medicaid payments in 1974 because of an alleged $125,000 overpayment.

Also arraigned Monday were Dr. Robert F. Weissinger, Ralph Papenfuss, administrator of Detroit's Omega Clinic and Mohsen Djannati, an employee at the clinic.

State officials said the men allegedly split the profits from the scheme, amounting to more than $70,000 between Nov. 1974 and Oct. 1975.

The four were charged with conspiracy to obtain money under false pretenses and conspiracy to practice osteopathic medicine without a license.

Charter, Candidates On Ballot For Proposed Brandywine City

South Berrien Bureau
NILES — Voters in the proposed City of Brandywine will have to settle races for proposed city offices in the Aug.

3 primary election as well as decide whether the city should be established by adoption of a charter.

Candidates for the offices filed by yesterday, the filing deadline. The proposed city involves most of Niles township and a small part of Bertrand

Seeking the mayor's post are Wayne Stevens, Robert Jensen and Robert G. Wilson, all of Niles.

Candidates for treasurer of the proposed city are John Stockwell and Pamela Hively.
Seeking the clerk's post will be John Schoff and Karen Eartdale, all of Niles.

Nine candidates are seeking the five councilmen posts. They are Douglas Reum, David Anderson, Leon Lions, Carolyn Cantrell, Talmadge Hardy, G.
Russell Queen, Len Frizzo,
Keith Everman and George Jernigan.

In 1970, voters rejected the proposed creation of the city of Brandywine for the first time by turning down a charter then.
The charter was proposed in an attempt to prevent annexation of the township by the city of Niles, its proponents said.

In November of 1974, a new charter commission was elected to draft a new charter. After 19 months, the proposed charter was approved by state officials and the question was placed on the August primary ballot.

If the charter is approved, the city of Brandywine, with an estimated population of more than 15,000, would become the second largest city in Berrien county.

Two Prosecutor's Aides Enter Private Practice

Berrien Assistant Prosecutors
Robert U. McDowell and Michael D. Marrs have resigned to enter private practice, the two announced yesterday.

Although the announcements came at the same time and both attorneys will begin private practice in Berrien county next month, McDowell and Marrs stressed the resignations are not related to each other.

McDowell, 35, has been with the Berrien prosecutor's office since January, 1973, and in 1975 was named chief assistant prosecutor. His resignation is effective July 8.

Marrs, 32, joined the prosecutor's staff in August, 1975, and must recently has coordinated the Berrien citizens' grand jury investigation.
His resignation is effective July 2.

McDowell said he will engage in the general practice of law from the offices of Atty. Gury

Hoshein, at 320 Main street, St.
Joseph. McDowell said he and Insel will be associates but not partners.

Marrs has accepted a position with the Buchanan law firm of B.R. and Louis Desenberg, with the new firm name of Desenberg, Desenberg and Marrs. He replaces Atty. Ronald Moses, who left the firm to practice in Aurora, Ill.

Berrien Prosecutor John A.
Smietanka said he accepted the two resignations with regret and is currently interviewing prospective candidates to fill the vacant positions.

Of McDowell, Smietanka noted:
"It is with great personal regret that I accepted his resignation. During his time in the office and especially as chief assistant he has been one of the finest public servants this county has ever seen. He has tried extremely difficult cases and done excellent work."

Commenting on Marrs, Smie-tanka said: "I'm extremely sorry to see him go because in the time he has been here he's made his mark. He's leaving earlier than we had anticipated but he was presented with a career opportunity he could not turn down."

McDowell noted that while he has resigned as a full-time assistant, he will continue as a part-time assistant prosecutor assigned to the grand jury to coordinate its activities until it is phased out. "I'm very pleased Bob will stay on supervising the work of the grand jury on a part-time basis," Smietanka said.

McDowell added he will engage in all phases of general law practice while a part-time assistant except criminal defense work.

McDowell was graduated from Miami of Ohio university and received his law degree from Chicago-Kent College of Law. He served on the Air Force
Judge Advocate General's staff and, prior to coming to Berrien county, worked in the grand jury and homicide units of the Cook county state's attorney's office.

"My association with the prosecutor's office has been a rewarding experience and I hope to uphold the high standards of the office in my part-time capacity," McDowell said.
He and his wife, Ann, and their two children reside at 236
Higman Park, Benton township.
Marrs received his intermediate degree from Michigan State University and was awarded his law degree from Chicago-Kent-Illinois Institute of Technology. Before joining the Berrien prosecutor's staff, Marrs was an assistant U.S. attorney in Chicago, and served 18 months as chief of the narcotics prosecution section.

Van Buren Youth Fair Children's Tickets $1

HARTFORD — Ticket prices for children ages six to 12 at the Van Buren Youth fair will be $1, not $1.75 as previously reported in this newspaper. The $1.75 figure was contained in a release from the fair board, but according to Duane Castor, fair manager, tickets are $1 for children 6-12, and $2 for adults, with children under six admitted free. The fair is scheduled for July 28-31 at the county fairgrounds at CR-681 and Red

Bangor Holding Big Parade On Fourth Of July

BANGOR — Bangor's Bicentennial celebration will be highlighted by a July 4 parade on Monroe street of more than 50 marching units, according to Mr. and Mrs. Riley Lynch, parade co-chairmen.

Following the 3 p.m. parade, trophies will be presented to the top floats, marching and horse units at the city baseball field on North Center street.
State Rep. Bela Kennedy (R-Bangor) will serve as grand marshal for the parade and Bangor Mayor James McLarty will act as honorary grand marshal.

The baseball field will also be the scene of concessions, booths, games, contests and a fireworks display at dusk. The activities are being sponsored by the Bangor Bicentennial committee which is headed by David Rigozzi Jr.

Four Men Injured In Car Crash

NEW BUFFALO — Four young men were injured Tuesday in a two-car collision on US-12 just north of the state line, New Buffalo township, state police at New Buffalo reported.

All the injured were released after treatment at St. Anthony's hospital, Michigan City, Ind.
Driver of one car was identified as William John Buckner, 17, of 302 South Elm street, Three Oaks, and his passenger was David Brooks, 15, Harbert.
Driver of the other car was John
T. Berg, 19, and his passenger,
Thomas Davis, 19, both of Michigan City, Ind.

Troopers said Buckner was clied for an improper left turn in the 10:30 p.m. accident.

WIFE OF MAO TSE-TUNG Is Her Grip Slipping Too?

TOKYO (AP) — Chairman Mao Tse-tung's deepening illness raises a question: What is to become of his wife, the former movie actress Chiang Ching, who is a member of the Politburo of the Chinese Communist party.

Already there are subtle signs that the woman Mao married in 1937 may be losing her grip on the cultural scene she has ruled for so many years.

The Communist party Central Committee decided this month that Mao, 82, and said to be suffering from the after-effects of a stroke, would no longer see foreign visitors.

This suggests that Mao is no longer in day-by-day control of the country. If this is so then Chiang Ching's unique political position may also have ended.

Leader of the radical group in the Communist party, she has fought, for Maoist ideology against the moderates and technocrats who gave it second place to economic advance.

She carried out a revolution in the Peking Opera, the ballet, the theater, films and music. True to Mao's dictum, pronounced three decades ago, art for art's sake has been abolished and the frivolous or merely entertaining replaced with the Maoist message, heroic, heavy and considered by outsiders to be dull.

Though she adapted Western music to opera, she is said to have been behind the movement to ban the playing of the Western classics two years ago. Western symphony orchestras, once welcomed, found the door suddenly closed.

When the Chinese wish to attack someone, they sometimes do it in the guise of defending that person. The Peking newspaper, People's Daily, recently disclosed that some people in the theater were saying, "The broad masses of workers, peasants and soldiers are dissatisfied with the present state of the arts."

Disgraced former first Vice Premier Teng Hsiao-ping was accused of circulating this rumor, along with another that nobody wants to buy tickets for the New Model Revolutionary operas which Chiang Ching fostered.

Another article in the official newspaper disclosed there has been some heated debate over whether the proletarian heroes of the opera are too good to be true, unblemished by human weaknesses.

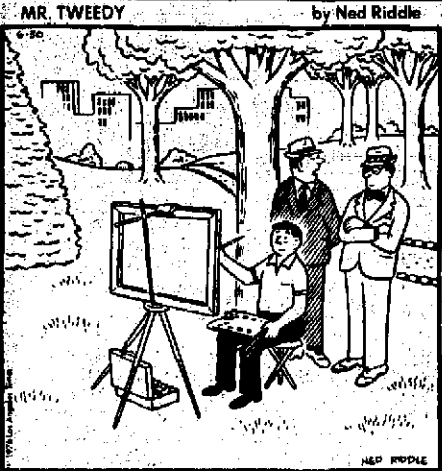

Wall newspapers at Tsinghua University recently said Teng walked out on one of the operas saying: "With the Model Operas today, you just see a bunch of people running to and fro on the stage. Not a trace of art. No sense bragging about them. Foreigners applaud out of courtesy, not because they appreciate the show."

Teng's reaction, after hearing the Vienna Symphony play Beethoven: "This is what I call food for the spirit..." The Model Operas nowadays are no more than going-and-drum shows. Go to the theater and you find yourself on a battlefield."

It seems more than a coincidence that in the wake of these thinly concealed jabs at Madame Mao the door, has suddenly been re-opened to a European musical group, the French National Toulouse Chamber Orchestra. It not only has played Chopin, Rameau and Leclair in Canton and Peking, but also has received rave notices from the official press: Hsinhua news agency, the People's Daily, and the Kuangming Daily.

How much all this is linked to, Chairman Mao's declining health and Madame Mao's loss of influence can only be a subject of speculation.

Even if, as seems possible, Chiang Ching, who is in her early 60s, now is being attacked in a roundabout way, it does not necessarily mean that her future is imperiled. The immense prestige of her name and the relationships she has nurtured with the radicals will be assets when the post-Mao power struggle begins.

Watervliet Drive Over $7,000 Goal

WATERVLIET — The annual Watervliet Combined Appeal drive started last September has surpassed its $7,000 goal by $42.87.

Mrs. Albert (Audrey) Steffens, president of the Combined Appeal board and drive chairman, announced the goal was reached after receiving a donation of $1,200 from the Watervliet Paper Co. on Monday, to end the drive.

Mrs. Steffens received the company's check from Dean McKinney, administrative officer of the company.

In addition to the firm's check, an additional $1,139.95 was received from two donations from the Employees.

Community fund (payroll deduction) of employees from the Watervliet Paper company.

Mrs. Steffens in announcing the conclusion of this year's appeal drive, started Sept. 20, expressed her appreciation to members of the combined appeal board, the over 30 canvassers going house to house in the Watervliet school district seeking contributions, and the businesses and individuals who contributed to this year's appeal drive.

Of this year's $7,342.87 total collection, $4,600 is budgeted to remain in Watervliet and Berrien county, with the balance going to state and national charities.

Accused Hillsdale Sheriff Says He'll Stay On Job

HILLSDALE, Mich. (AP) — Hillsdale County Sheriff Edward Webb says criminal charges against him may have been politically motivated, and that he will stay in office unless suspended by the governor. Webb, Undersheriff James Varney and five deputies were indicted last week on various charges ranging from gambling to reckless discharge of a firearm in a jail building. All the officers have pleaded innocent on the gambling, breaking and entering and larceny charges. One deputy, John Durling, refused to take a plea on the firearm charge. The indictments were issued by Judge Harvey Moses, acting as a man-at-law grand jury. The probe was conducted at the request of the county prosecutor, Lawrence L. Hayes. Webb denied any wrongdoing and said he would demand an immediate trial on the alleged offenses.

CASSOPOLIS — The Cass county board of commissioners last night hired an interior design house to equip the new county medical care facility at a cost not to exceed $85,000.

The firm, Design House of Farmington, Mich., is to select whatever furnishings will be needed for the $2,437,235 extended care unit now under construction.

"We totally supply the interior of the building, ready to go," explained Curt Schaap, a consultant with Design House. He said his firm's services included refurbishing existing beds and equipment in the present facility to save money. It will also provide new furnishings where needed.

The board voted 9 to 2 to hire the firm which had been recommended by Davenport Associates, architects for the new facility.

Commissioner Charles Sarabyn of Dowagiac, who along with Steve Toth of Edwardsburg voted against hiring the firm, argued that Davenport should be responsible for designing the interior.

He said the cost should be included in Davenport's $130,000 fee.

Sarabyn also objected to hiring the firm without first calling for bids.

"It's like buying a pig in a poke," Sarabyn said.

Commissioner Robert Powers of Marcellus said the firm's services were necessary because in one on the board had the time, talent, and knowledge to do the work.

Schaap said his firm was the only designer of medical furnishings that has a "rapport" with the state public health department. He said the firm will save money for the county because it buys medical furnishings in large quantities.

Florida Pair Waive Hearings

SOUTH HAVEN — A Miami, Fla., couple were bound over to Van Buren Circuit court after waiving examinations yesterday in District court here on charges of breaking and entering.

Jose Juan Garcia, 29, and his wife, Zulma, 17, were bound over in connection with the burglary Monday of the Florida Snedley residence, CR-681, Columbia township. Garcia was ordered held in lieu of $20,000 bond and his wife on $10,000 bond.

Garcia also pleaded guilty to a misdemeanor charge of committing larceny under $100 in connection with a theft from the Larry Wagoner residence, route 2, Bangor township. He was sentenced to 30 days in jail on that charge.

State police from the South Haven Post arrested the couple based on a description of a vehicle seen leaving the Wagoner residence.

Karen Quinlan Continues To Live Without Machine

By CHERYL MORRISON
Associated Press Writer
MORRIS PLAINS, N.J. (AP)

Karen Anne Quinlan couldn't survive without a respirator, said the physicians who testified last fall at her "death with dignity" trial, but five weeks after the machine was disconnected she was still holding her own.

"She remains stable," Stephan Hansbury, assistant administrator of the Morris View Nursing Home, said Tuesday. "There has been no change in her condition."

The comatose Miss Quinlan was transferred to the county-operated facility June 9 from St. Clare's Hospital in nearby Denville, where she was admitted April 15, 1975, suffering from the effects of tranquilizers and liquor.

Doctors put her on the respirator almost immediately when her breathing began to fail.

Miss Quinlan's appearance has been variously described during the past year.

At the work-long trial last October, physicians described her as emaciated, encephalated and in a chronic and vegetative state. One neurologist said she was "too grotesque to be described."

But people who have seen her recently say she looks much like a normal 22-year-old woman except for tubes running into her nose and throat for feeding and removing wastes.

Her parents, Joseph and Julia Quinlan, first asked doctors to disconnect the respirator last July 31 and, when they refused, asked a judge of the Superior Court to order it turned off.

Physicians said at the trial that Miss Quinlan would be unable to breathe for more than a few minutes without the machine, but doctors also agreed that she was not dead by any accepted medical criteria.

Judge Robert Muir denied the family's request, saying, "There is no constitutional right to die that can be asserted by a parent for his incompetent child."

The New Jersey Supreme Court on March 31 disagreed and authorized Joseph Quinlan, as his daughter's guardian, to discontinue medical treatment.

"We hope that at the last minute the Lord will take her and we won't have to remove her from the respirator," Quinlan said at the time.

Withdrawal from the machine was gradual, and not until May 23 was she breathing completely on her own.

Hansbury gave no details of Miss Quinlan's care at the modern, brick nursing home except that she was "not receiving supplemental oxygen."

Little information is available on the current costs of Miss Quinlan's care. Before her transfer to the nursing home, she occupied an intensive care hospital room costing $434 per day.

Medicaid picked up most of that bill, and officials at St. Clare's Hospital said they absorbed the rest. Miss Quinlan's two treating physicians never submitted a bill.

At the trial, doctors said that for a year they had experimented with taking Miss Quinlan off the respirator, but until then the longest time she had been without the machine was 50 minutes. She was then being treated by a team of brain specialists.

Doctors have said recently that although she may be stronger physically, her prognosis remains unchanged. The front of her brain, which controls "cognitive functions" such as thinking, will never recover, they say.

But the part of her brain that controls bodily functions remains relatively healthy. Medical personnel say if someone drops something in Miss Quinlan's room she will twitch and open her eyes, but she cannot see.

Conferees Eye 2 State Budgets

Associated Press Writer
LANSING, Mich. (AP) — House-Senate conference committees prepared Tuesday to tackle two complete state budgets as the legislature finished the first stage of current fiscal deliberations.

The Senate approved five spending bills Tuesday for the 1976-77 fiscal year which begins Oct. 1. Those bills went back to the House and to conference committees, where differences between the House and Senate versions will be ironed out.

The five bills were the last appropriations bills to clear the legislature.

Following conference committee deliberations, each one will again have to win passage in both chambers before being sent to Gov. William Milliken.

But this year, the conference committees have a double burden. Also to be enacted are appropriations bills to keep the state operating for the three months ending Sept. 30.

This "mini-budget" was required when the state extended the fiscal year three months to pick up some $107 million to balance the current year's books.

Both the upcoming year's budget and the three-month spending plan as so far approved are much greater than Milliken's recommendations.

The 1976-77 budget is some $170 million in general fund money above estimated revenue, according to the Senate Fiscal Agency, and the three-month budget is roughly $60 million over.

It will be up to the conference committees to bring the budget bills closer to Milliken's recommendations.

The Senate on Tuesday approved, 22-10, a $129.2 million bill to fund the legislature, judiciary and executive office for the upcoming fiscal year. That compares to Milliken's recommendation of $124.5 million and this year's funding of $115 million.

The bill contains a pay increase, from $41,911 to $44,473, for Court of Appeals judges, which puts them above the $43,500 level for Supreme Court justices. It also restored

Milliken's salary at $47,250 as he voluntarily took small reductions during the tight fiscal times of the past years.

The other budget bills approved by the Senate included: —A $70 million appropriation for the State Police and Department of Military Affairs, which compares to $68.4 million recommended by Milliken and $66.6 million this year.

—A $26.3 million bill for the departments of Licensing and Regulation and Commerce, compared to Milliken's recommendation of $28 million and this year's $29 million.

—A $17.1 million bill for grants to various independent organizations, which compares to Milliken's recommendation for $13.8 million and this year's $12.8 million.

—And a restricted fund budget for the Department of State Highways and Transportation of $782 million.

Conferees Okay 3-Month State School Aid Bill

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A school aid bill which could help balance the "three-month" state budget was approved Tuesday by a House-Senate conference committee.

On a 4-2 vote, the committee trimmed $34.0 million from the bill covering school aid payments through Sept. 30, but insisted on restoring the money in the 1978-79 fiscal year school aid budget. That fiscal year starts Oct. 1.

Moving the money to the 1978-79 fiscal year would put the school aid budget more than $100 million over Gov. William Milliken's recommendation.

The "three-month" school aid bill under consideration provides aid to Michigan schools for the three months ending Sept. 30. It is a key to the "mini-budget" for the three-month extension of the current fiscal year and still must be approved by the House and Senate.

The appropriations bills are all in conference committees and exceed Milliken's recommendations for the "fifth quarter" of the fiscal year by roughly $80 million, with some estimates ranging as high as $75 million.

The school aid bill was the biggest problem. It was $56 million over Milliken's proposal. Milliken wanted to reduce funding of a Detroit school employees retirement system by $34.6 million.

Milliken argued the funding could be reduced because of a contingency fund of that size which could be used for the state payment. But House and Senate Democrats said the fund could not afford to lose the money. So instead, the committee is moving the $34.6 million to the 1978-79 fiscal year, which will cause problems.

Along with other cutbacks, the three-month school aid bill would be reduced by about $48 million to $11.5 million, which is still above Milliken's latest recommendation of $3 million in general fund money.

State Labor: Mondale For Veep

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Michigan labor leaders are backing Minnesota Sen. Walter Mondale for the vice presidential spot on Jimmy Carter's ticket.

Many labor representatives in Michigan's delegation to the Democratic national convention say they, too, favor Mondale, though non-union delegates fall behind on single choice.

Both United Auto Workers president Douglas Fraser and Michigan AFL-CIO President

William Marshall say Mondale's long, clean history in the Senate can improve the Democratic ticket better than any other vice presidential choice except Ted Kennedy.

But, says Fraser, even if Kennedy would take the second-place spot, Carter would not likely pick him for fear of being upstaged by the Kennedy "glamor."

But Mondale, a 12-year veteran of the Senate, has an "impeccable record," both on labor and other issues, says Fraser.

Plus, says Marshall, besides being "acceptable to a broad cross-section of Democrats," Mondale is able to draw both independent and Republican votes.

"He's clean as a bound's tooth," says Marshall, whose second choice for the second spot would be Idaho Sen. Frank Church, who did well for the brief time he was in the presidential race.

Mondale also outshines other Midwest vice presidential possibilities like Illinois Sen. Adlai Stevenson or Ohio Sen. John Glenn, says Marshall.

"Stevenson is a good senator and a good man but he suffers a lot from the same problem that (presidential candidate and Washington Sen. Henry) Jackson had: being dry and drab," says Marshall, who backed Jackson in the early stages of the primary race.

Glenn has "obviously proven to be a good politician but his greatest claim to fame is being an astronaut and his tenure is relatively short," said Marshall.

The UAW has 23 delegates attending the convention, while the AFL-CIO has nine.

Labor and other delegation leaders agree the vice presidential choice will be Carter's, and they will not object to anyone he chooses.

Seven Injured On Area Roads

Seven people sustained apparently minor injuries as the result of four traffic accidents Tuesday, Twin Cities area police reported. State police of the Benton Harbor post said the drivers of two cars were injured in a collision on Coloma road at Fikes road, Hagar township, about 3 p.m.

The drivers were identified as Mary Ann Cummings, 18, Fikes road, Riverside, and Emily T. McInerney, 47, of 3014 Kerlikowske road, Coloma. Both were released after treatment at Memorial hospital, St. Joseph. Troopers said Mary Ann Cummings was cited for failure to yield the right of way.

Benton Harbor police reported a two-car accident occurred about 6:10 p.m. on McCord street south of Vineyard street. Drivers were identified as Jerry Lee Woods, 22, of 1027 Monroe street, Benton Harbor, and Cathy Mae Anderson, 19, of 601 East Britain avenue, Benton Harbor. Woods sought his own treatment for injuries and Cathy Anderson and a passenger in her car, Audrey Anderson, 11, of 604 East Britain, were released after treatment at Mercy hospital, Benton Harbor. Police said Woods was cited for driving too fast for conditions.

Benton township police investigated two one-vehicle accidents.

About 12:50 p.m. police said a pickup truck ran off Benton Center road south of Hicks avenue and struck a tree. The pickup driver, Charles Vernon Mosher, 29, of 346 West John Boers road, Stevensville, was treated and released from Mercy hospital. Police said no ticket was issued.

A motorcyclist, David L. Middleton, 32, route 2, Hochberger road, Eau Claire, was released after treatment at Memorial hospital, after his cycle overturned on Maynard drive east of Reeder street. Police said no ticket was issued in the 4 p.m. mishap.

Flashing Light Bill Advances

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A bill to permit voluntary emergency workers to use flashing lights on their vehicles has won approval in the Senate.

The bill, passed 32-0 Tuesday and sent to the House, would alter a 1975 law to permit the use of flashing red lights on private vehicles by volunteer firemen or ambulance drivers. Anyone operating such lights except in an emergency would be guilty of a misdemeanor.

Hartford Man Is Bound Over In Half-Sister's Shooting Death

BY DENNIS COGSWELL
Paw Paw Bureau

PAW PAW — A 23-year-old Hartford man was bound over to Van Buren circuit court yesterday following Seventh district court preliminary examination on a charge of manslaughter in connection with the shooting death of his 11-year-old half-sister.

Bound over was Roosevelt Sutton, 503 East Linden. His half-sister, Lady Day Hughes, 411 Cass, Bangor, died after being struck May 18 by a shotgun blast in the head at the Sutton home.

Sutton originally told Hartford police that an intruder had entered the house armed with a gun, and that the girl was struck when she stepped between him and the man. However, witnesses later told police that the gun discharged when Sutton tripped across a bed, striking the girl who was coming out of the bathroom.

In other cases, Jack J. Tasi, 40, 328 McArthur drive, Maltawan, was bound over to circuit court after waiving preliminary examination on a charge of felonious assault. Van Buren sheriff's deputies said the charge stems from a complaint by James Labretto, 24, Kalamazoo, that a man tried to run him down with a car outside the Eastern House restaurant, Paw Paw, on June 7.

Deputies said the altercation occurred following an argument over whether or not to sell the restaurant, which Tasi operates.

Larry D. Whittier, 20, route 2, CR-462, Watervliet, was bound over to circuit court following preliminary examination on a charge of larceny by conversion.

According to state police at Paw Paw, Whittier was loaned a car by Stone's Ford Sales, Gobles, on May 23, while his car was in for repairs. He allegedly failed to return the loaned car.

John D. Smith, 19, 521 North Phelps, Decatur, was released on his own recognizance after demanding preliminary examination on a charge of issuing a no account check for $1.59 to the Oasis party store, Paw Paw, on May 14. The hear-

Man Faces Trial On Gun Charge

A Benton Harbor man charged with assault with a deadly weapon was bound over to Circuit court following a preliminary examination Tuesday in Berrien District court. Continued free on $10,000 bond was Andrew Lee Butler, 25, of 106 Eden street. He allegedly was armed with a pistol and assaulted Charles Patterson May 17 in Benton Harbor.

Demanding examination was Daniel Mathison, 18, of 638 Pavone, Benton Harbor, accused of the June 26 break-in at a Benton Harbor house. He was released on $2,500 personal recognizance bond.

Sentenced were:

James Hickmon, Jr., 25, and Doris Joseph, 29, both of 945 Buss avenue, Benton Harbor, fines and costs totaling $64 each for two counts of disorderly person. They pleaded guilty to creating a disturbance and resisting arrest in Benton Harbor June 21.

Willie J. Morris, 31, of Lansing, 30 days in jail for use of heroin May 26 in Watervliet township.

Edward G. Brink, 18, of 915 Elm, St. Joseph, $50 for use of marijuana June 29 in St. Joseph.

Gloria J. Tucker, 22, of 852 Michigan avenue, Benton Harbor, $32 for fighting June 28 in Benton Harbor.

Stanley H. Downey, 20, of 6909 Hollywood drive, Coloma, $100 and six months probation for impaired driving in Coloma June 26.

Sentenced for driving while license suspended were: Noel

Two Boys Charged In Coloma

COLOMA — Coloma police petitioned two 11-year olds to juvenile authorities on complaints alleging breaking and entering, shoplifting, and vandalism during the past three weeks in the city.

Sgt. Jerry Crockett reported the brothers admitted entering a storage house owned by Mr. Jemima's Pancake house, taking merchandise from Badt's Drug store, and causing an estimated $300 to $400 damage at the State Bank of Coloma.

According to Crockett, vandalism at the bank included damaging the bank's drive-in window drawer, chipping a glass window, and breaking rear windows on the second floor of the bank building.

A third youth from Coloma township will be petitioned later this week, according to Crockett, for involvement in the incidents. The two juveniles are residents of the city, added Crockett.

Police Report Picnic Tables Stolen

Two picnic tables from the Baroda township park and two CB radios were reported stolen Tuesday to Berrien sheriff's deputies and Benton township police.

Lemon Creek road, deputies said.

Also reported stolen in deputies was a $169 CB radio from the car of Jane Fulford, 1558 West Shawnee road, Baroda.

Benton township police said a $140 CB unit was reported stolen from the car of Walter McNitt, Grand Rapids, parked in the lot at the Pizza Hut, 1940 M-130.

A 1975 Cadillac, valued at $9,000, was reported stolen Tuesday to Benton Harbor police. James Earl Burton, 543 Pieslon street, Benton Harbor, said the red, two-door, vehicle was parked in the 1100 block of Pearl street. He said the keys were not in the car.

Andrea Rutz, 525 East Empire avenue, told Benton Harbor police 10 windows at her home were broken Tuesday by vandals using rocks and sticks. The windows were all reported to be 20 by 30 inches and no estimate of damage was reported.

Rights Panel Rules Bias In Jewish Teacher Case

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The Whitmore Lake School district discriminated against a Jewish teacher by denying her leave time to observe Passover, the Michigan Civil Rights Commission has found.

In a ruling made public Tuesday, the commission ordered the district to change any contract provision or superintendent's directive prohibiting any teacher from observing a religious holiday.

School officials could not immediately be reached for comment.

The ruling orders school authorities to remedy past discriminatory actions against Joan Muskovitz of Ann Arbor, a seventh grade teacher who belongs to the Conservative Jewish faith.

According to the commission, in 1972 and in 1973, Mrs. Muskovitz requested personal leave time to observe the first day of the Jewish Passover because her religious faith forbade her from working on that holiday.

School officials, the commission said, denied those requests. The denial was based on a superintendent's directive and the teacher contract, which prohibit more than two teachers from taking personal leave on the same day or from using personal leave two days before a holiday or vacation period.

Passover occurs about the time many schools are breaking for Easter Vacation. According to the commission, Mrs. Muskovitz was docked a day's pay and the cost of a substitute teacher when she failed to report to work on March 30, 1972.

She was penalized another day's salary on March 27, 1975, when she stayed off work to observe the first day of Passover, the commission said.

The commission ordered school authorities to:

—Reimburse Mrs. Muskovitz for the lost wages.

—Remove all references to her unauthorized absences for Passover from her personnel file.

—Treat future requests for personal leave days for religious observances in the same manner as any other request for an extra personal business day.

If school officials do not comply, the eight-member commission can seek enforcement through the court.

House Has Records Access Bill

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Legislation which would give the public greater access to state agency records is before the Michigan House.

The House Civil Rights Committee on a unanimous vote of 8-0 reported out the measure Tuesday.

Supporters of the measure say it is designed to give citizens access to records in Michigan government and tools to enforce that right.

Exempt from such scrutiny, however, were the records of the governor, lieutenant governor and legislature. Backers of the bill conceded this was done to make the measure more politically acceptable.

Rep. Perry Bullard, D-Ann Arbor, committee chairman, said the bill provides Michigan with a "Freedom of Information Act" similar to one at the national level.

Bullard says the bill opens public agency records to the public. If access to records was denied, officials would have to explain why. The measure also would limit fees charged for copies of records. The bill prohibits disclosure that would constitute an invasion of privacy.

The bill also would set time limits for state agencies to answer citizen requests for information, provide administrative appeals of denials and allow courts to award civil damages if an agency acts in bad faith.

Existing law on access to records is contained in the State Administrative Procedures Act. The act allows widespread secrecy by classifying many records as internal memoranda, says the Public Interest Research Group in Michigan (PIRGIM).

PIRGIM, which helped draft the bill, says access to public records on the local level is based only on precedents in common law and court decisions.

Information on state employees would be available under the measure.

Also open to public inspection would be staff reports and studies; consultants' reports; scientific reports and studies; communications between and within public bodies; financial information; and minutes of meetings by most government bodies, even if the meetings are closed.

Closed to public inspection would be most investigative reports of law agencies.

Bulls Facing $1.1 Million Price Tag For Gilmore

NEW YORK (AP) — The Chicago Bulls, coachless and without a general manager, must now decide if they want to spend $1.1 million to obtain the contract of former American Basketball Association star Artis Gilmore.

That's the price tag that went on Gilmore Tuesday when the National Basketball Association announced procedures to handle the drafting of former ABA players whose teams did not join in the NBA as part of the recent merger agreement.

NBA Commissioner Larry O'Brien announced the value of Gilmore and 19 other players declared eligible for the draft, which will be held in July after expansion agreements are signed and a district court gives preliminary approval to the proposed settlement with the ABA and the ABA Players Association.

Gilmore's price represents more than one-third of the $3.08 million value placed on the 20 players. The Bulls can make the decision on whether they want to spend the money for the 7-foot-2 Gilmore since they have the first pick as a reward for compiling the worst record in the NBA last season.

Other draft prices include $500,000 for center-forward Marvin Barnes of the Utah Rockies, $350,000 for center-forward Moses Malone of Utah and $300,000 for center-forward Maurice Lucas of Kentucky.

Kentucky's Louis Dampier, whose 13,726 points made him the league's all-time scoring leader, is available for $20,000.

Fred Lewis, an original member of the league as was Dampier, also is available for $20,000.

Each of the 22 teams in the expanded NBA will have a chance to pick, and if every player isn't selected in the first round the drafting will continue for up to three rounds. The value of each player will be reduced by a specified percentage if he isn't picked in the first round.

There is no doubt the Bulls, who have lacked a strong center for some time, could use Gilmore. He averaged 24.6 points per game and led the ABA in rebounding for a fourth consecutive year with a 15.5 average last season.

However, after agreeing to pay the price for Gilmore, the Bulls would be responsible for his contract under the merger agreement. In Gilmore's case it is in six figures for one year.

And although there is time remaining before his ABA contract runs out, his agent has let the Bulls know some renegotiating is desired.

In addition, the Bulls have drafted All-American Scott May, the Associated Press' College Player of the Year last season, and they will have to pay a big sum for his services.

The final decision on selecting Gilmore probably will rest with Arthur Wirtz, one of the Bulls' principal owners. Wirtz, also owner of the Chicago Black Hawks of the National Hockey League, recently obligated some $3 million for hockey star Bobby Orr.

The decision of Wirtz is one of several he is currently facing. He also has to find a replacement for Dick Motta, who left as head coach and general manager after last season.

King's Choice Is Goolagong Connors Wimbledon Victim

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — Billie Jean King, a Wimbledon champion of champions, has definite ideas about who is going to succeed her as the women's singles champion.

She doesn't actually come out with a prediction, but Evonne Goolagong Cawley is the first name that Billie Jean mentions.

"Evonne is the one to beat. I've always said that."

Mrs. King won her sixth Wimbledon singles title last year by beating Evonne, then announced she was retiring from singles play.

"Chris Evert is the most totally professional," she says. "Virginia Wade thinks she can win. Martina Navratilova, I don't know. She's fourth on my list."

Miss Evert, of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., the 1974 Wimbledon champion and 1975 runner-up to Mrs. King, meets Miss Navratilova, a Czechoslovakian exile now based in Beverly Hills, Calif., in the semifinals today. Mrs. Cawley faces Virginia Wade of Britain.

Billie Jean, who has won 19 Wimbledon titles in singles, doubles and mixed doubles, is still alive in the women's doubles that could make a 20th championship.

Elizabeth Ryan of the United States won 19 Wimbledon championships in the period from 1914 to 1934 — 12 women's doubles and 7 mixed doubles — but never the singles.

Mrs. King has won her 19 championships in an 11-year period. She teamed with Betty Stove of Holland Tuesday to defeat Laura du Pont of Charlotte, N.C., and Wendy Turnbull of Australia, 6-3, 6-3, in the women's doubles quarter-finals. But she and Alex Mayer of Wayne, N.J., were eliminated from the mixed doubles by Bob Hewitt and Greer Stevens of South Africa, 6-7, 3-6, 6-2.

The men's singles came down to the semifinals Tuesday with Roscoe Tanner of Lookout Mountain, Tenn., upsetting Jimmy Connors, of Belleville, Ill., the No. 1 seed, 6-4, 6-2, 8-6. Raul Ramirez of Mexico beat Vilas Gerulaitis of New York 4-6, 6-4, 6-2, 8-6. The Nastase of Romania eliminated Charles Pasarell of Santurce, Puerto Rico, 6-4, 6-2, 8-6. Bjorn Borg of Sweden ousted his off-court buddy Guillermo Vilas of Argentina, 6-3, 6-0, 6-2.

TANNER TURNS UPSET: Roscoe Tanner looks over his shoulder as he and Jimmy Connors (right) head for dressing rooms after Tanner upset Connors in the men's singles quarterfinals Tuesday at Wimbledon, England. ## Tiger Rally Tips Yanks

DETROIT (AP) — Billy Martin was bitten and Sparky Lyle was stung.

It just wasn't the New York Yankees' day.

Meanwhile, nearly everything is going right for the Detroit Tigers.

"Right now I'd say things are looking up for us," Manager Ralph Houk said, in a bit of understatement.

The Tigers, who trailed 4-0 after the first inning, scratched back and then wrapped it up with a three-run outburst in the seventh to beat New York, 7-5, and win for the eighth time in the last 11 games.

It moved Detroit into third place in the American League East, nine games behind leader New York, whose lead over runnerup Cleveland dropped to seven games. The Tigers will try to sweep the three-game series tonight when they send left-hander Dave Roberts, 7-8, to the mound against righty Dock Ellis, 8-4.

Tuesday, Yankee manager Martin had to take penicillin after apparently being bitten by a spider at his hotel room. At night, his ace reliever Lyle got stung — by Detroit bats.

"He's human. He hung a couple of sliders," Martin said. "He had a bad night. That'll happen."

Detroit's ace reliever, however, was right in form. John Hiller came on in the eighth inning to strike out the side. He retired the side in the ninth, one on a strikeout, to earn his seventh save.

Lyle had been almost untouchable in the last few weeks. He appeared in 11 of the previous 15 games and gave up one run in 17 innings.

"My slider wasn't breaking good," Lyle said.

The Tigers trailed 5-3 going into the seventh against starter Doyle Alexander. After a one-out single by John Wockenuss, southpaw Lyle came in to face left-handed pinch-hitter Ben Oglivie. Houk stuck with him instead of bringing in a righthander — Oglivie doubled.

Run LeFlore followed with a two-run triple to tie the game and then came home on a single by Tom Veryzer. Rusty Staub added an insurance run in the eighth with a leadoff homer.

Kingman Headed For Homer Record

From Associated Press

When Dave Kingman speaks, everyone listens. When he hits, everyone watches.

The New York Mets' strongman commands attention and gets respect everywhere he goes these days, especially from National League pitchers.

"I think I'm back in the groove," says the tall, powerful outfielder. "I'm just picking up the ball good. I think I have a nice, fluid motion now."

That awe-inspiring motion has muscled out the most home runs in the major leagues so far this season, including Tuesday night's two-run blast that carried the streaking Mets to a 2-0 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals. It was Kingman's 27th homer, putting him on a collision course with Hank Williams' National League record of 36.

While Kingman was doing the hitting, Mickey Lolich was doing the pitching as the Mets won their sixth straight game.

Lolich pitched a three-hitter to gain his first National League shutout after 20 with the Detroit Tigers in the American League.

Kingman lined the first pitch thrown to him by Pete Falcone in the first inning over the left field fence after Joe Torre had doubled. The ball landed at the 442-foot marker beyond the fence.

In the other National League games, the Philadelphia Phillies beat the Montreal Expos 2-1; the Pittsburgh Pirates whipped the Chicago Cubs 10-1; the Los Angeles Dodgers nipped the Atlanta Braves 2-1; the Houston Astros outscored the San Francisco Giants 4-3 and the Cincinnati Reds routed the San Diego Padres 12-5 in 14 innings.

Dick Allen scored from third on a squeeze bunt in the ninth to give Philadelphia its victory over Montreal. Allen led off the ninth with a single and went to third on Jay Johnstone's base hit. After Garry Maddox flied out, Bob Boone laid down a bunt on the first base side and Allen raced home with the winning run.

John Candelaria pitched a three-hitter and contributed a two-run triple to an eight-run first inning as the Pirates defeated the Cubs.

Candelaria, 7-4, stopped the Cubs without a hit until Jose Cardenal singled to center with two outs in the sixth inning.

Only five balls were hit out of the infield in the first eight innings, and there was one out in the eighth before he gave up another hit, a single by Mick Kelleher.

The only Chicago run came on Bill Madlock's ninth home run, in the ninth inning.

Sieve Henko started for the Cubs, but a combination of two walks, two errors, and five hits accounted for the eight-run burst in the first. Twelve Pirates went to bat in the first inning, which also featured a run-scoring double steal.

Winning pitcher Tommy John, 5-4, squeezed home the decisive run in the second inning and Elias Sosa provided instant relief in the ninth as Los Angeles edged Atlanta.

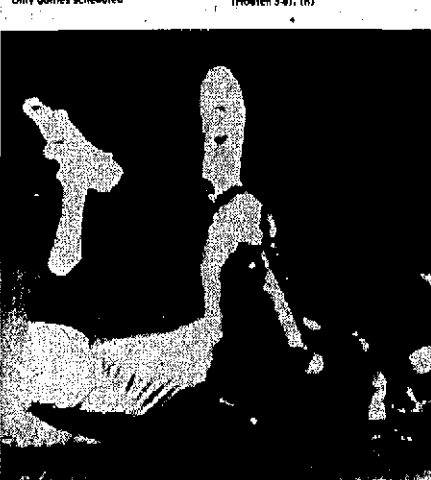

Cliff Johnson's two-run triple capped a three-run eighth-inning rally that lifted Houston over San Francisco. All four Astros' runs were unearned.

Niles' Pete Deyo Surprise Olympian Member Of U.S. Kayak Team

By JACK WALKDEN
Staff Sports Writer

NILES — Former Olympian kayaker Marcia Smoke of Buchanan taught Pete Deyo to set goals for himself.

But two weeks ago in the Olympic Trials, Deyo exceeded even his own expectations.

The deeply-tanned 18-year old from Niles will be a member of the United States Olympic kayak team in Montreal next month. Deyo joins two-time national champion Steve Kelley, Brent Turner and his own K-2 teammate Bruce Barton of Horton, Mich., on the four-man kayak team (K-4).

"I was really shooting for the 1980 Olympics in Moscow," Deyo said. But instead, Deyo and his group will be competing in the four-man kayak event on July 28 on a river north of Montreal.

Deyo's berth in the Olympics marks the third straight time Southwestern Michigan has boasted an Olympian. Smoke was fourth in kayaking in the 1968 Olympics in Mexico City and Chris Taylor of Dowagiac won the bronze medal in wrestling in 1972 at Munich.

Even Deyo admits his Olympian

pic opportunity was a lucky break.

Deyo attended Western Michigan University during the fall semester and then worked with Bill Smoke, Marcia's husband, until January. From there it was all training.

"I was training for the one-man kayak race," he said. "Bruce Barton and I went to Florida to train because we wanted to get on the water before anyone else. We worked on distance work and style to get our endurance up."

It was while in Florida that Deyo got his big break. Kelley and Turner joined Deyo and Barton in Florida. But the fourth spot on the boat originally belonged to Phil Rogosheske. Rogosheske came down late, so Deyo went with the trio so they could get used to the boat.

When Rogosheske got to Florida, he pulled a stomach muscle which made it difficult for him to train.

"They were going to wait and see if the stomach muscle would heal," Deyo said. "But he wasn't ready to train the way they wanted to train. They called me up and decided from that point on that I was going to be in the boat."

The quartet twice beat what they considered their toughest competition, the New York Athletic Club, winning both at an international race in Toronto and at Lake Sebago. "That gave us the confidence we needed," Deyo said.

At the Olympic Trials, the group won their first race in 3:07.2 with the aid of a strong tailwind and then took the second in 3:17.2. But the group will need a time of around 3:10 or better if they hope to bring home a medal. The Soviet Union, Hungary, East Germany and Rumania offer the greatest competition.

Deyo was extremely skinny when he began racing just four years ago. A friend, Jerry Lira, brought him to the Callman Canoe Center and once he started kayaking it was love at first sight. Through weight lifting and persistent training, Deyo "ballooned" to 6'3" and 180 pounds. Deyo credits the Smokes with most of his success.

"I owe the Smokes just about everything," he said. "Marcia coached the first three years. She helped me a great deal and was the one person who really got me into it."

"The Smokes let me use their boats. They let me try it out because a kayaker has to go through a series of expensive trials (a four-man kayak costs roughly $2,500). Marcia worked on my style and developed it. She told me what to do to improve. It was like a football coach telling a guy how to be a good runner through physical training."

Smoke, herself, is proud of Deyo's quick improvement in kayaking.

"He hadn't even been in a kayak four years ago and now he's on the Olympic team," Smoke said. "He's a very promising kayaker I feel."

"Pete worked real hard and has come along real well. He has a real good stroke and is best in team boats. In fact, he and Bruce Barton are considered the best in the United States in the K-2."

Deyo's training schedule consists of weight lifting and running about three miles a day during the winter. In the summer he paddles around six miles a day doing various sprints and starts. His training is also not hindered by the fact that the St. Joseph River flows about 100 feet from his parent's home.

Deyo left Tuesday to join his teammates in Toronto and compete in the Old Dominion Regatta. After that it's more training before the Olympics.

As for goals, Deyo is taking it "step by step."

"Winning a medal is always a goal," he said. "But we're shooting for the semifinals right now. Then if we make the semifinals, we'll shoot for the finals, and if we make it to the finals, we'll shoot for the gold medal. But the big thing is to make it to the semifinals."

As for Deyo's future after the Montreal Olympics, there's always Moscow in 1980.

Career Clips

Gary Groh of Bridgman won $535 while finishing 15 strokes behind champion Al Geiborger in the Western Open last weekend in Illinois.

Two Western Amateur favorites, Jay Haas and Curtis Strange, made their pro golf debuts in the event, with Haas also earning $535 while matching Groh's 303 score. Strange shot a 306 and won $375.

Feller Says Kuhn Right

DALLAS (AP) — Bob Feller, whose fastball was once timed at 96.6 miles per hour, says baseball has a fever that could be cured by an all-powerful commissioner paid by both players and owners.

"The situation of baseball right now is a lot like that of the United States on Dec. 8, 1941 — a little messed up," said Feller, who visited Texas last week on a promotion tour.

Feller, voted the greatest living right-handed pitcher during baseball's centennial in 1969, says Commissioner Bowie Kuhn is correct in voiding the sale of three Oakland players.

"Kuhn was just protecting the fans. They buy tickets with the idea their team will compete with a nucleus of players," Feller said. "(Charlie) Finley was trying to cash in before his assets evaporated."

He says a solution to the unrest in baseball would be for the players to pay half of the commissioner's salary and have an equal say with the owners in his hiring and firing.

"The commissioner would have the final say in disputes. You can't take away the legal right to sue but there would have to be a gentleman's agreement to accept the commissioner's decisions."

Forty years ago, in 1936, a decision by another commissioner settled a contract dispute involving the 17-year-old Feller.

Feller, whose fastball was a local legend in Iowa at age 11, had been plucked from the cornfields of Van Meter at age 16 by Cleveland Indian scout Cy Slapnicka.

Facing major league batters for the first time in an exhibition, the teen-aged fireballer struck out eight St. Louis Cardinals in three innings and in his first regular season start he fanned 15 St. Louis Browns.

It was then that the contract was questioned, because the rules at that time dictated that players had to be signed to minor league contracts before they agreed to a major league pact.

The technical tangle, which could have ended Feller's career at Cleveland, was settled by Commissioner Kenesaw Landis in favor of Cleveland after, Feller says, he lied to Landis about his signing.

"They told me to say I was signed first by our Fargo, N.D., minor league team," he says. "That was our story and I don't think he believed us, but I stayed in Cleveland."

Canoe Racing Slated

The first annual North American Pro-Am Canoe Racing Championships will be held Saturday and Sunday.

The race, which is co-sponsored by the Outpost Trading Company and the Callman Canoe Center, is the first of its kind, allowing both professionals and amateurs to race together.

The race is sanctioned by the American Canoe Association and will cover a 25-mile course on the St. Joseph River, beginning at the 100 Center in Mishawaka, Ind., and ending at the Callman Canoe Center in Buchanan.

There will be several divisions in the race which participants may enter. The A division is for commercially-made aluminum 18 1/2 foot marathon racing canoes. The B division is for all other 18 1/2 foot marathon racing canoes. Division C is for Olympic flatwater kayaks, while division D is for downriver kayaks. Aluminum canoes no more than 17 feet in length fall in division E, with fiberglass canoes of no more than 17 feet in length in division F. The G division is a two-mile raft race where anything goes. Divisions A and B are open to both amateurs and professionals, but the remainder of the divisions are open to amateurs only.

The division A race begins at 10 a.m. with other races starting each 10 minutes after that. The raft race will run at 12:50 p.m.

Russ Forest Run July 7

DOWAGIAC — The Roadrunner Track Club will sponsor a running event Wednesday, July 7, at Russ Forest.

There will be a five-mile open event starting at 7:15 p.m. and a two-mile novice class and a one-mile beginners division at 8:15.

There will be a trophy and ribbons awarded. There will be an entry fee of 50 cents for persons not belonging to the Roadrunner Track Club.

Class Changed

WORCESTER, Mass. (AP) — The National Collegiate Athletic Association has approved a request by Worcester Polytechnic Institute to be shifted to a smaller college sports category.

The school requested the shift from Division 2 to Division 3.

A school spokesman said the change would give WPI a better chance in national tournaments.

Wohlhuter Eyeing Gold

EUGENE, Ore. (AP) — If Rick Wohlhuter had won a medal at the 1972 Olympic Games, he might not have become the dominant force in the 800-meter run that he has been during the past four years.

"If I had won something at Munich, I might not have been as goal-oriented as I am," said the Chicago Insurance man.

"Your goals determine your motivation frequently, and I guess I can say that what I did in 1972 might have led me to where I am today."

Today he is on the road to the Olympics, hopeful of winning the gold medal in the 800 next month at Montreal, despite — or perhaps because of — his own clumsiness in the Munich Games four years ago.

It was an ordinary 800 quarter-final race on Aug. 31, 1972. Still only 23, Wohlhuter was the favorite against such unknown runners as Alain Sabs of France and Mansour Guel-Lay of Tunisia. Wohlhuter was supposed to ease into the semifinals.

After all, he had run a fast 1:45.0 behind Dave Wottle's 1:44. In the U.S. Trials only weeks earlier, But Wohlhuter fell over his own feet.

After 200 meters, he began to cut in the inside, stumbled and went down. "I stayed down on the track too long after falling," he said, but the crowd of 70,000 felt that getting up and trying to catch the departing runners was worth a standing ovation.

Wohlhuter's last-gasp dash to place among the top three and advance failed when unknown

Azzedine Azzouzi of Algeria held him off for the final spot in the semifinals.

"No, I don't think it's bothered him consciously all these years," said Ted Hayden, coach of Wohlhuter's University of Chicago Track Club.

"He's not very emotional about things like that," said Hayden. "In fact, he liked to joke about it. He said the Munich track was very nice for falling on."

Since then, Wohlhuter has blossomed into one of the world's greatest runners. For two years he was unbeaten. He set world records of 1:44.1 for 800 yards, and 2:13.9 for 1,600 meters, within six weeks in 1974. He raced a mile in 3:53.3.

He ran away from some of the world's finest runners including Danie Malan of South Africa, Mike Bolt of Kenya, and in 1974, he scored consecutive victories at a mile and 1,600 meters over John Walker of New Zealand.

The Olympic 800 appears wide open, even though Wohlhuter is one of the favorites.

Bolt might be considered to have an edge in pre-race odds. A 6-2, 150-pounder, who is two weeks older than the 27-year-old Wohlhuter, Bolt has run the second-fastest 800-meters on record, 1:41.70. He also was rated the No. 1 middle distance runner in the world in 1975; the same spot Wohlhuter had earned in 1974.

Also expected to be in strong contention at Montreal are the other two U.S. entrants, James Robinson, 20, and Mark Enyart, 22, who halted Wohlhuter's two-year winning streak in 1975 by winning the AAU title.

Jets Ink Marinaro

HEMPSTEAD, N.Y. (AP) — It is a simple axiom of football that for a running back to be effective, he must be allowed to run. Ed Marinaro never quite understood why the rule didn't apply to him.

"I got to the National Football League as a running back," said Marinaro, "but then, I didn't get the opportunity to run."

Marinaro spent his first four NFL seasons in Minnesota, where the offense was spelled Chuck Foreman running and Fran Tarkenton passing. He left that routine behind Tuesday when, after playing out his option with the Vikings last season, he signed a one-year contract with the New York Jets.

He comes to the Jets after his most productive NFL season. Given a regular starting job for the first time, he caught 54 passes for 482 yards as Foreman's backfield partner. But he had only 101 carries for 358 yards. That is about seven attempts per game, not nearly enough for a running back to prove anything.

Marinaro never had to worry about getting the ball at Cornell, where he set an NCAA rushing record by gaining 4,715 yards in 27 varsity games.

Cowich Lou Holtz, delighted with the acquisition of Marinaro after losing free agent running back John Riggins to Washington earlier this month, said the Jets might try the I with Marinaro as the tailback.

Angels' Tanana Stops White Sox Rick Wise Tosses One-Hitter

From ASSOCIATED PRESS
Rick Wise sat at his locker and listed the factors involved in pitching perfect baseball: "Good stuff ... good control ... good defense ... good concentration," he said.

Pitch by pitch, it became clear to the 30-year-old righthander that the factors were dropping into place. Finishing by inning, with Baltimore batters falling in order, it became clear to the Boston ace the plateau of perfection was within reach.

"I knew I had good stuff from the outset," he said after his one-hit, 2-0 triumph over the Orioles Tuesday night. "I was hitting spots and had them backing at the ball. I was jamming guys, making them hit the ball up. I just felt I really had it."

Well, he almost did. Paul Blair marred the masterpiece with a sharp, clean single leading off the sixth inning. Only walks to Reggie Jackson and Al Bumbry in the seventh and ninth innings, respectively, proved the faulty brush strokes in what still was a pitching work of art.

"He had it all tonight," said Red Sox Manager Darrell Johnson, who picked up the list where Wise had left off: "Good fastball, breaking pitches, and — just as important — good location."

But the hit was no disappointment to Wise, who pitched a no-hitter for the Philadelphia Phillies in 1971, and hurled one-hitters in 1968 and 1972 and another two weeks ago.

"It was no disappointment losing the no-hitter tonight. If it happens in the eighth or ninth it is a different story. It's great to just throw a one-hit shutout. That's not easy, either."

Rick Wise just makes it seem that way. Run-scoring hits by rookie Steve Dillard and Fred Lynn in the eighth inning supported Wise's third shutout of the campaign. The hurler faced just 28 batters, one over the minimum, and needed just 98 pitches to beat Baltimore.

In the other American League games Tuesday night, California clipped Chicago 4-1; Oakland blasted Texas 8-3; Kansas City defeated Minnesota 3-0; Detroit downed New York 7-5 and Cleveland beat Milwaukee 4-1.

Dave Collins hit a two-run homer in the ninth to support "one of the most satisfying wins I ever had," according to Angels left-hander Frank Tanana, who had missed the last two weeks with an arm injury.

Tanana boosted his record to 9-5 while limiting the White Sox to six hits. It was his third victory over Chicago in as many decisions this season, but he had to work out of tough jam in the eighth inning.

The Angels scored a run in the second on a double by designated hitter Tommy Davis and a single by Ron Jackson. They scored again in the third on a double by Andy Etchebarren, an infield single by Dave Collins and a sacrifice fly by Jerry Benay.

Tanana lost his bid for a shutout in the eighth when the White Sox loaded the bases on singles by Buddy Bradford, Kevin Bell and Bill Stein and scored on a sacrifice fly by Jim Essian.

Tanana got out of further trouble by getting Bucky Dent to fly out and striking out Chet Lemon.

Collins' first home run in the season came with two out in the ninth and followed Dave Chalk's single.

Third baseman Sal Bando had a two-run homer and two-run double to lead Oakland's victory over the Rangers. Texas tallies and a sacrifice fly by Jerry Benay.

Fred Pate's 10th-inning sacrifice fly scored Hal McRae from third base with an unearned run to give Kansas City pitcher Al Fitzsimmons his ninth victory in 13 decisions. McRae had singled and taken second on a throwing error by Minnesota shortstop Ray Smalley. An infield out moved him to third.

The tally ruined a three-hitter by the Twins' Dave Goltz.

Two-run homers by Larryell Blanks and George Hendrick helped Cleveland hand Milwaukee its sixth consecutive loss.

Maloney Was Taught To Play Aggressive Hockey

TORONTO (AP) — Dan Maloney, a left-winger for the Detroit Red Wings charged with assault causing bodily harm, told the County Court Tuesday he plays a physical and aggressive game of hockey, the way he was taught.

The six-foot, 185-pound Maloney testified, "Hockey has always been an aggressive game with hard body contact, but no premeditation to harm. That just happens. I can't say whether it should be stopped or not."

Maloney, 25, was charged Nov. 6 with assaulting Brian Glennie, a defenseman for the Toronto Maple Leafs, during a National Hockey League game in Toronto.

He said he was angry and frustrated the night of the incident because Glennie had bodychecked Detroit teammate Bryan Hextall with what Maloney felt was an illegal check.

Maloney said he wanted to fight with Glennie, but when Glennie saw him coming, he just turned around.

"I hit him with my forearm," Maloney said. "The blow was meant to make him turn around, not fall."

Maloney told the jury of eight women and four men that he then hit Glennie. He said he tried to pull him to his feet, but Glennie was too heavy and he dropped him.

"I didn't know he was hurt," he said. "I didn't drive him into the ice."

Maloney was given a five-minute major penalty as a result of the incident.

Dr. Richard Perrin, a neurosurgeon at Toronto General Hospital, testified Monday that Glennie suffered a mild concussion from a blow on the head during the game and probably would have permanent brain damage to some brain cells.

Maloney said he did not know Glennie was dazed because Glennie just skated off the ice.

Maloney, born in Barrie, Ont., said he was shocked when the charge was made and his family had been very upset by it.

Maloney was charged one week after Ontario Attorney General Roy McMurtry announced that hockey violence would not be tolerated in Ontario.

Maloney said some newspapers in the United States were trying to tag him as a policeman for the team. He would have no part of it "and I got in the point where I didn't talk to the press or media any more," he said.

Bep Guidolin, former coach of the NHL's Kansas City Scouts and Maloney's coach in junior hockey, testified that brutality in hockey was not started by the players but by fans or the news media. However, players must be able to protect themselves, he said.

"Once on the ice he's on his own. If he doesn't protect himself, he has to learn the hard way."

"You don't put fans in the building by putting them to sleep," Mr. Guidolin said.

He suggested that Toronto fans stopped sitting on their hands when they finally got some muscle on the team. He said he was referring to Toronto player Dave (Tiger) Williams.

Crown prosecutor Robert McGee said in his final address to the jury that a hockey player who assaults an opponent on the ice is no different than someone who commits an assault in a beverage room.

McGee said NHL representatives assume that laws passed by Parliament are not applicable to them and think they can commit crimes of violence because players consent to being beaten up.

There is little doubt what the result would be if the incident between Maloney and Glennie had taken place in a beverage room 100 feet from Maple Leaf Gardens where the game was played, he said.

"Maple Leaf Gardens is not the Roman Coliseum where gladiators fought to the death," he said, adding that by convicting Maloney, jurors would be telling organized hockey that they do not tolerate violence.

Defence lawyer George Finlayson asked the jury not to make Maloney a scapegoat for hockey. He said it would be simple to convict the player to vindicate Attorney-General McMurtry's policy and to shake up team owners.

But he urged the jury to keep in mind that "we're dealing with big men accustomed to violence."

"What may be bodily injury to us in our daily lives might not be considered an injury to a hockey player," he said. "They might consider it trivial and transitory."

Mr. Finlayson said the province has a racing commissioner and a boxing commissioner, and that there is no reason there cannot be a hockey commissioner to lay down rules.

However, until a commissioner is named, Maloney cannot be judged on that basis, he said.

Tiger Ace Fidrych Big Hero In Detroit

DETROIT (AP) — Detroit has a new hero in Mark Fidrych, a 21-year-old rookie right-hander who has won eight games for the Tigers this season and is packing them in at aging Tiger Stadium.

Fidrych — for the seventh time in a row — gave the Tigers a victory Monday night when he held the American League East-leading New York Yankees to one run on seven hits to raise his record to 8-1 after 47,855 deliriously happy fans.

"It takes nine other guys to win, not just me," he said after his Monday victory. "Hey, did you see some of that defense they gave me? And I got five runs, too. Hey, they're making me. If they don't play behind me I'm not even here."

The other Tigers admit they seem to play a little harder behind Fidrych but it's the fans who have taken the young Northboro, Mass., native into their hearts. Aside from the near capacity crowd that jammed Tiger Stadium Monday, thousands more were turned away.

Those who managed to get in gave Fidrych — a sure rookie of the year nominee — a standing ovation after the nationally televised victory and refused to leave until he appeared to take a curtain call.

In true Fidrych form, he returned from the clubhouse to acknowledge the cheers — minus his shoes and his curly hair dripping wet.

Fidrych first caught Detroit's imagination, even before he started winning, with his one-man mound show. If the dirt around the rubber isn't just so, Fidrych has no qualms about getting down on hands and knees to pat each grain into place. He talks to the ball — so it will know where to go, he says — and seems to try to mesmerize opposing batters with his five-fingered gestures at home plate.

"The place hasn't been like this since we won the 1968 World Series," said Hank Robinson, who owns a bar next to the stadium.

Fidrych carries the nickname "Bird" because his teammates deemed in spring training that he looked like the character of that name in the children's series, "Sesame Street." The name stuck and the fans picked it up, adding shrill bird whistles to their cheers whenever Fidrych appears.

Volleyball Tournament Slated

SOUTH HAVEN — The South Haven Invitational Beach Volleyball Tournament will be held here Saturday and Sunday, July 3 and 4, at North Beach.

The event, sponsored by the National Blueberry Festival, will feature professional, semipro and amateur players from the Midwest.

Men's doubles action is slated for 1 p.m. Saturday. Women's doubles will be held at 2 p.m. Saturday, while the mixed doubles competition will be at 1 p.m. Sunday.

Among the competitors will be Tom Beerman of Ft. Wayne, Ind., a former All-American and professional coach; Mick Haley of Bulite Creek, coach of the Kellogg Community College teams; and Chris Meyer of Chicago, a member of the Michigan Volleyball Club.

Additional information on the tournament may be obtained from Dene Hadden, the South Haven high school volleyball coach (637-6275).

Olympic Outlook Better In Judo

BROCKPORT, N.Y. (AP) — High hopes on a realistic level sums up the attitude of the U.S. Olympic judo team as the Montreal Games approach.

"I think our prospects are the best they've ever been," Jim Colgan of Chicago, the team manager, said during training at Brockport State University.

"So much depends on the draw. If you draw into the Japanese and Russians right away, you're in trouble."

Japan won three gold medals in the six judo classes in 1972 while the United States has not won a medal in the Olympics or World Championships since 1965. Jimmy Bregman of Washington won a bronze in the 1964 Olympics and another in the 1965 World Championships.

Dr. Sachio Ashida, an associate professor of psychology at Brockport State and the U.S. team coach, is optimistic that the medal drought can end in Montreal.

Dr. Ashida, holder of a seventh degree black belt in judo, said his team will be in top physical condition by the Games and added, "They've already developed top team spirit."

Three of the best medal prospects are James Wooley of Houston, Allen Coage of Plainfield, N.J., and Tammy Martin of Stockton, Calif.

Wooley, a Pan American Games gold medalist, finished fourth in the open division at the 1972 Olympics. There are no weight restrictions in this division, but its competitors usually come from the heavyweight and 205-pound class ranks.

Conge won a Pan American gold medal as a heavyweight and was described by Colgan as "an outstanding international competitor." Martin was a Pan American champion at 205 pounds.

The other three members of the team are Patrick Burris of Anaheim, Calif., in the 145-pound division; Telmo Jonston-Ono of New York, 176, and Joseph Bost of Rahway, N.J., 181.

Burris won a bronze medal at last year's Pan American Games and a gold medal at the pre-Olympic competition at Montreal. Jonston-Ono was an alternate on the 1972 Olympic team.

Judo, which is a grappling sport with many similarities to wrestling, was introduced to the Olympics by Japan as its elective sport in 1914 at Tokyo. It was dropped in 1928 at Mexico City but restored as a permanent Olympic sport in 1972 at Munich.

SHOREHAM, Berrien County: Founded by William Ducker, Ducker, being English, liked the "ham" ending to words. So with its full length along the shore of Lake Michigan when it came to its name, Ducker combined "shore" with "ham" and named it Shoreham. Village incorporated on April 7, 1930.

STEVENSVILLE, Berrien County: Named after a prominent banker from Niles. Thomas Stevens, who owned a large tract of land in the area, and laid out the village plat in 1871. Incorporated a village in 1893.

OX CREEK, Berrien County: Historians say that in the early days of Benton township settlers invariably got stuck crossing the creek at Territorial Road with their yoke of oxen. Hence, the name, Ox Creek.

SAINT JOSEPH, Berrien County: In the early 1800's sailors called its harbor, Saranac; in 1831, founder Calvin Britain named it Newberryport; and in 1833 it was renamed after the St. Joseph River, which early Catholic missionaries named in honor of St. Joseph, patron saint of Canada. Incorporated a village in 1834 and a city in 1891.

BENTON HARBOR, Berrien County: Originally named Brunson Harbor after co-founder Simeon Brunson. Renamed in 1866 for U.S. Senator Thomas Hart Benton of Missouri who had championed the Territory of Michigan's plea for statehood. Incorporated a village in 1866, a city in 1891.

BRIDGMAN, Berrien County: Named for George Bridgman who directed construction of a railroad from New Buffalo to St. Joseph, donated land for a depot, and laid out the village in 1870. Incorporated a village in 1927 and as a city in 1949.

Child Abuse Not Always Just A Physical Act

SAGINAW, Mich. (AP) — Nobody wants to believe parents deliberately hurt their children. People, including medical professionals, want to believe all injuries happen innocently, and many refuse to believe such abuse goes on, according to a specialist in the subject, Dr. Joseph Fischhoff.

In some cases, he says, willful ignorance can mean death for a child.

Fischhoff is director of the Family Center for Prevention of Child Abuse and Neglect, a counseling center for abusive parents in Detroit.

"At first, we usually get a lot of resistance," the physician said in a recent visit to Saginaw. "Parents feel humiliation at what they have done, and fear what will happen if they admit it."

Child abuse, he said, which some specialists in the field say may be the most common cause of death in children, is not new, although each time the subject is put in the public spotlight more cases seem to come to light.

The term "child abuse" is not restricted to physical abuse, according to a group called Parents Anonymous.

The organization was founded in California in 1970 by a mother who wanted to stop abusing her own child. It is based on the self-help principles of Alcoholics Anonymous, and Parents Anonymous now has chapters throughout the United States.

The group includes physical abuse, physical neglect, sexual abuse and emotional neglect under the umbrella of child abuse.

The organization defines physical abuse as what happens when a parent physically handles a child only as a means of venting the parent's anger with no intent to discipline. That means willful, cruel, deliberate injury.

"One slap can be as abusive as a broken arm if the attitude of the parent is abusive," Parents Anonymous believes.

It defines physical neglect as a lack of enough food, clothing, medical care, parental guidance, supervision and general care.

It recognizes two forms of sexual abuse: active and passive. An active sexual abuser is the parent who engages in sex acts with a child. The passive sexual abuser is the parent who takes no action when he or she is aware that a child is being sexually abused and allows the sexual abuse to continue.

Verbal abuse means using words to tear down or destroy a child's image of himself.

"We all know that we can easily be destroyed by words," especially when we are young," says Parents Anonymous. "If a child is called a stupid idiot every day of his life, he will grow up to think of himself as a stupid idiot."

"Very few people recognize the importance of verbal abuse."

In dealing with some of the myths and stories surrounding child abuse, Dr. Fischhoff said, he has not found that boys are abused more than girls. He said he has found that the number of boys and girls abused is about equal.

Many abused children are under 3 years old, and in Wayne County, recent statistics show that 28 per cent of abused children are younger than one year, he said.

Frequently, the youngest child in the family is the one in which obvious abuse shows up, Fischhoff said.

He suggested that the youngest child may end up the victim of parental emotions, which have had time to build up. He also suggested that a baby's natural demands - also are greater, which may be another factor.

The question of whether more mothers or fathers abuse children is complicated by the fact that there are more fatherless homes than motherless homes, it was pointed out.

Today In History

By ASSOCIATED PRESS
Today is Wednesday, June 30th, the 182nd day of 1976. There are 184 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1951, President Harry Truman announced that he had ordered U.S. ground troops stationed in Japan to move into the Republic of Korea, where North Koreans were invading.

On this date: In 1777, British forces in the Revolutionary War evacuated New Jersey, crossing to Staten Island, N.Y.

In 1834, the Indian Territory was created by an Act of Congress.

In 1855, 5,000 people watched as the French acrobat, Emile Blondin, crossed Niagara Falls on a tightrope.

In 1914, Adolf Hitler began a purge in Germany, getting rid of hundreds of political and military leaders.

In 1936, Emperor Haile Selassie of Ethiopia pleaded before the League of Nations in Geneva for help against Italian invaders.

In 1971, three Soviet cosmonauts who had been in space for more than three weeks were found dead after their spacecraft landed.

Ten years ago: French President Charles de Gaulle and Kremlin leaders issued a joint call for an end to foreign intervention in Vietnam as de Gaulle ended an 11-day visit to the Soviet Union.

Five years ago: The American voting age in all elections was lowered to 18 as Ohio became the 38th state to ratify the 26th Amendment to the U.S. Constitution.

One year ago: Boxer Muhammad Ali scored a 15-round decision over Joe Bugner in a heavyweight title fight in Kuala Lumpur, Malaysia.

Today's birthday: Former Dominican President Juan Bosch is 67.

Thought for today: Laughter is the shortest distance between two people — Confucius Victor Borge, born 1906.

Bicentennial footnote: Two hundred years ago today, a British fleet had sailed into the New York Lower Bay, and the American Provincial Council adjourned in the city to move up the Hudson River to White Plains.

DR. DALE WALDO Ex-Berrien Man Wins Dairy Award

Dr. Dale Waldo, formerly of Berrien county and a research scientist for the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA), at Beltsville, Md., recently received an award for outstanding contribution to dairy nutrition research.

Dr. Waldo was selected by the American Dairy Science association as recipient of the 1976 American Feed Manufacturers association (AFMA) award, according to the AFMA.

The award, which includes $1,000 and a plaque, was presented during the 71st annual meeting of the science association at North Carolina

State university, Raleigh, N.C., held last week.

Dr. Waldo is a graduate of Elm Claire high school and earned degrees from Michigan State university and Cornell university before joining USDA, Beltsville, Md., 18 years ago. He was born and raised in Berrien county.

His parents were the late Mr. and Mrs. Wendel Waldo.

Dr. Waldo was cited by the award selection committee "for having an unusually critical and analytical mind in the design and conduct of experiments and interpreting the results."

The AFMA award is one of four to be made in 1976 for outstanding contribution to animal and poultry research.

Liberalize Code, Officer Urges

WASHINGTON (AP) — West Point's honor code should be liberalized to provide options beside expulsion for violators, claims the officer who supervised a 1974 study of the system. Col. Harry A. Buckley, director of the academy's office of military leadership said, however, that other portions of the code should be left intact — including the controversial feature that says a cadet who refuses to report a violation he witnesses is himself guilty of violating the code.

SHORT WHEELBASE: Dodge is first with a short wheelbase front section chassis for smaller, more compact mini-motorhomes. This MB300 109-inch chassis is currently being used by two motorhome manufacturers — Fleetwood and Champion. Dodge built the first motorhome chassis in 1958 and the front section for mini-motorhomes in 1971. Dodge, the recreation vehicle industry's number one supplier of chassis, offers eight front section chassis for mini-motorhomes and six stripped chassis for full size motorhomes.

Bendix Changing Name Of Development Center

SOUTH BEND, Ind. — The Bendix Automotive Department center is now to be known as the Bendix Automotive Proving Grounds, according to William T. Birge, vice president of engineering for the Automotive Control Systems group.

Birge said the name change was brought about as a result of the type of work performed at the center and it was felt that the new name was more descriptive of these activities.

Bendix purchased the Automotive Proving Grounds near the Studebaker corporation in 1966. The Proving Grounds, located 10 miles west of South Bend on Indiana State Route 2, was built by Studebaker in 1928 and contained 850 acres. In 1966 Bendix donated 175 acres to St. Joseph County as the site of the first county park which is known today as "Bendix Woods." The Bendix Automotive Proving Grounds presently encompass 675 acres.

Key features of the Proving Grounds are the three-mile high speed oval track; six miles of cross-country roads, including a series of measured grades up to 30 per cent; a water test basin; 10 miles of unpaved roads, and a garage

A LOT about tactics and courage is explained by the little-known fact that American marksmanship during the Revolutionary War was very bad and British marksmanship was almost nonexistent, except in the special units of riflemen organized by both armies and German mercenaries. The World Almanac reveals that only one American bullet out of 300 at Lexington and Concord found its mark, and only one man out of 15 hit anybody.

and engineering laboratory with 35,000 square feet of floor space. The roadways are designed to duplicate as nearly as possible every condition of driving.

Some of the improvements Bendix has made to the Proving Grounds include a 1400-foot skid pad which was added in 1970 and a 5,000 square foot addition to the garage which was completed in 1973.

Bendix, the only independent supplier of automotive products to have such an extensive engineering facility, performs testing for all automotive divisions of the Bendix corporation and also performs independent testing for other companies. Testing is available for passenger cars, trucks, trailers, buses, RV vehicles and specialty vehicles. Types of testing include: brake testing, handling tests, stress and strain analysis, vibration analysis, wheel testing and analysis. Also testing for center of gravity, durability, frame racking, consumer information, component performance and fatigue.

Antique Ragtop Sells At $24,000

LAKE GEORGE, N.Y. (AP) — How much is a restored 1929 convertible Cadillac coupe worth?

John Saller of Newburyport, Mass., thought one auctioned off this past weekend was worth at least $24,000. That's what he paid for the car at the Northeastern United States Collector Car Auction.

Saller's buy was the most expensive purchase made at the auction which was jointly sponsored by the Kruse Classic Auction Co. of Auburn, Ind., and Charles Wood Enterprises of Lake George.

A total of about $300,000 changed hands at the festivities here. About 3,000 persons attended the event.

The highest bid of the day was $50,000 for a dual cowl platinum Cadillac. The bid was turned down by the buyer, the Auto Museum of Wall, N.J., as too low.

Ford Issues Recall For Vehicles

LIVONIA, Mich. (AP) — More than 11,000 light trucks and four-wheel drive vehicles are being recalled because of a problem that might mean a partial loss of braking power, Ford Motor Co. said Monday.

Ford said the problem could exist in 900 of the vehicles. It said brake master cylinder outlet tubes on the 1976 F-250 and four-wheel drive trucks, built between July 30 of last year and Feb. 16, 1976, could rub against the intermediate steering shaft, causing a hole to be rubbed in the brake line.

When this happens, the fluid would run out and half of the vehicle's dual braking system would not operate, Ford said.

Ford said it had no knowledge of any accidents caused by the problem. Ford also said a warning light on the truck's instrument panel would notify the driver of the problem, and pedal travel and reduced stopping power also would be noticed.

Ford said it will replace brake tubes and brackets where necessary at no cost to truck owners.

Prisoners, Oldsters Share Cook

By SUE JENSTOFT
MARQUETTE, Mich. (AP) — Some senior citizens and the prisoners at the Marquette County Jail have one thing in common — their food service.

The temporary project takes advantage of the facilities of the new county jail and the skills of its head cook, Cletus Smith, plus the expertise and manpower of nutrition specialists working under the Title VII federal nutrition program.

Mrs. Smith, former head cook at a local nursing center, said cooking for another 60 persons — in addition to the 40 jail prisoners and guards — really is not much more effort than cooking just for those in the lockup.

The extra 60 are home-bound senior citizens and those who take a weekly meal at the local senior citizens' center.

Costs of the food are shared proportionately by the county and the Title VII operation. Lower prices are available due to larger volume buying of grocery items. In addition, Mrs. Smith has some volunteer helpers.

Betty Howe, director of the nutrition program, helps dish up the meals for the homebound into styrofoam trays and puts them into portable units.

Larger pans of the entree and other items are sent to the senior citizens' center in bulk to be served at the site. After Mrs. Howe and her volunteer help leave for the short trip across the street, the guards and prisoners are fed.

The first week's operation was slightly disruptive of the established routine, but Mrs. Howe said the five-week experimental project should go smoothly as everyone becomes accustomed to the operation.

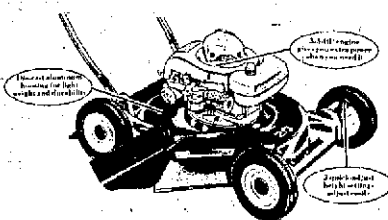

"I'm really excited about it," she said. "We're able to offer a better meal this way and utilize the best of both of us."

Sheriff William Lasich agreed.

"Just because a person is experiencing the loss of his freedom is no reason to deprive him of his nutritional needs," he said. "That's not part of his sentence. The shared program enables us to feed the prisoners and guards better for the same amount of money."

Sailing Talk Has Different Ring

Ship Is School For Delinquents

By MARC CHARNY
Associated Press Writer
NEWPORT, R. I. (AP) -- Its tall masts fit right in, but the 12 apprentice crewmen of the brig Unicorn present a vivid contrast to the blue-blazed yachtsmen of this sailing town.

Jack and Joe were busted for selling grass.
Vince drove once too often while drunk.

The Unicorn is one of the tall-masted sailing ships that raced here from Bermuda and will sail on Thursday to take part in the Bicentennial parade of sail in New York Harbor on July 4. It also is a training ship for rehabilitating juvenile delinquents.

Today, the Unicorn sits berthed against a backdrop of square riggers on which hundreds of naval and coast guard cadets from 10 countries train. Within earshot are the Newport Yacht Club and the ennobled afterdecks where cocktails and nautical conversation flow generously each night at 6.

The conversation about sailing the Unicorn has a different ring.

"This is what it's all about," says Jack, 16. "Instead of running around getting into trouble, the kids are right here, all you need -- if you can get into it."

"You get your head together," says Joe, 18. "You've got one thing on your mind: what line is this, how does it work. You do a lot of thinking by yourself."

"And," says Vince, 17, "It helps you when you want to grow up."

The 88-foot wooden ship, built as a cargo-carrying schooner in Finland in 1918 was later rigged in the fashion of a 19th Century brig and was purchased 2½ years ago by a wealthy Philadelphia, William Wycoff Smith.

Wayne Marshall, director of the rehabilitation project, says Smith died before realizing two dreams -- sailing the ship in a transatlantic race, and seeing it used to help train troubled youths through sailing.

Now, Smith's widow, through a company called Unicorn Inc., has chartered the vessel to a group of six nonprofit rehabilitation schools called The Associated Marine Institute of Florida. They specialize in vocational education related to the sea and teach such subjects as first-aid, seamanship, oceanography, and scuba diving.

"The kids come aboard as a reward for successfully completing one of the programs," says Marshall, who is one of 12 officers and professional crewmen who sail with the teenagers. "You give me a kid with a drug problem and through the inherent responsibilities demanded by the ocean that youth will become a more mature and responsible individual while eliminating his drug problem."

"We do not get into a complicated nomenclature curriculum. We give a boy tools to use for the rest of his life -- self-esteem, self-motivation, maturity and basic functional educational skills."

"Most people hate the work," says Vince. "You've got to work 14 hours a day, get down on your hands and knees and scrub, paint, polish brass, work in the lines."

"In the engine room you can fall asleep it's so hot."

But he adds, "They take you places. It's not like a school. You get out and do stuff. You don't have to sit around all day."

Marshall says all the apprentices have been adjudicated juvenile delinquents and are referred to the institute by Florida authorities. The ship is based at Ft. Lauderdale. None of the youths has been accused of a violent crime.

Two themes crop up when the youths talk about the program -- self-esteem and the comradeship of teamwork.

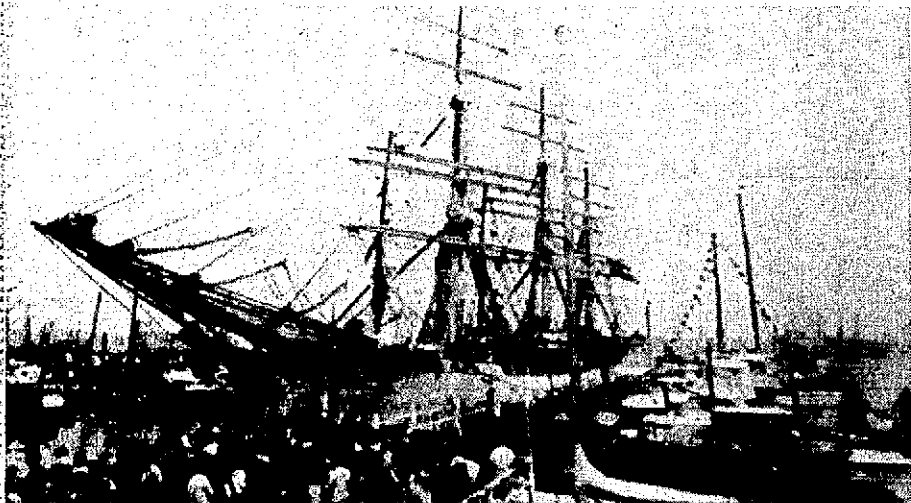

Chris has already helped a television crew film a historical movie by posing on deck with a concertina, and he wants some day to attend college and work on the sea, studying sharks.

"My friends back home, they're feeling pretty good about me, hearing all these things," he says. "As soon as I get back, I'm going to be a big thing."

"When you first get to the institute," says Joe, "you just think one thing -- you're not going to the shelter again. It's a nightmare there." He says the routine of the shelter is boring and unproductive. Jack makes a special point of criticizing group therapy.

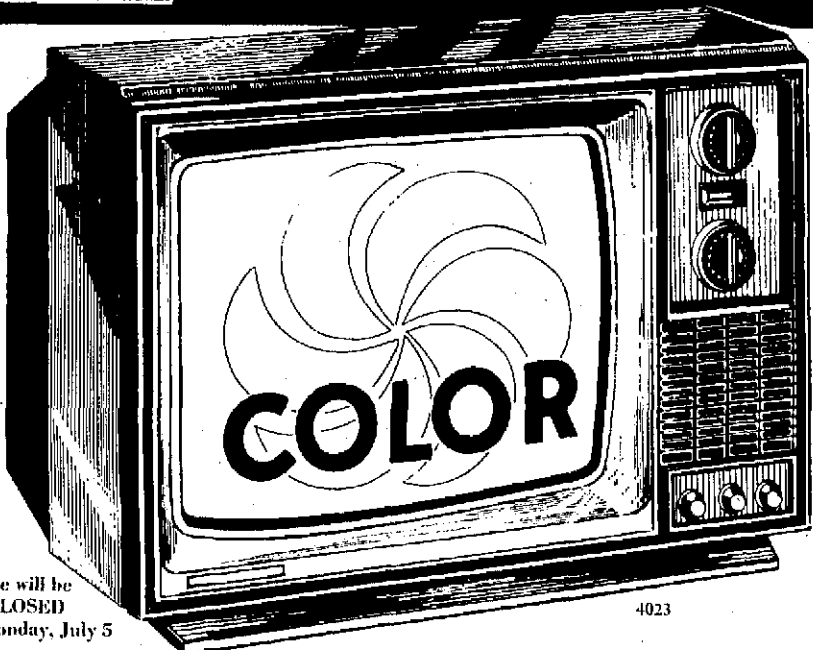

"They put you into group therapy there. You haven't been there long, and you don't have any trust in the people you've got to talk with."

Turkeys Should Ignore His Sweet Talk

By N.B. SAWYER

MUSKEGON, Mich. (AP) — Jack Smith talks to turkeys. And they listen. They probably shouldn't. It usually gets them shot.

Jack started hunting turkeys in Michigan six years ago. He's lured out and received three permits and gotten wild turkey each time. He's also called some up for other hunters.

"Basically, I started off buying a good turkey call," Jack said. "I sent away for records. I belong to the Turkey Hunters Federation. Their magazine always has articles on calling. But the records were the main thing," he said.

The soft-spoken hunter recommended box calls.

"A real good turkey call is vital," he said. "There are a lot of them that aren't very good at all, especially the ones made in Japan."

"A good box call will cost less than $10."

A box call is just that, a small wooden box with a handle on the lid. The handle is shifted over the box, making a squawking, clucking sound.

"To a male turkey in the spring, it sounds just like a hen turkey looking for romance. So he comes running and often ends by getting shot for dinner. There's probably a lesson there for us all."

When the turkey comes, he's really something to see.

"They're a pretty bird," Jack said. "They puff up just like a pat."

Jack suggests starting your hunt well before the season.

"The best area is rolling oak ridges around swamps and river bottoms," he said. "Go before the season and find tracks and look for birds. Try to call them in."

"On opening day, get up early in the morning, at least by 3 a.m. You've got to get there before there's any light. I hide behind a log or something and wear dull colors."

"I've called turkeys up to within 10 yards."

Jack said if you don't get one in the morning, to leave the gun at home and go practice calling birds and looking for them in the evening. Jack can't legally hunt them, but, "It's a good time to go locate them for the next morning."

"Most birds are shot an hour or an hour and a half after daylight," he said.

City Lets Poor Work For Taxes

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) —

City residents who can't afford to pay their property taxes can take jobs with the city to work off the bill under a program approved Monday night by the City Council.

The program is designed to ease the tax burden on those least able to pay, officials said.

Unemployed and low-income city residents can reduce their tax bills by working in one of about 200 jobs in city maintenance, labor, clerical and community service departments. The jobs are expected to pay between $2.50 and $4 an hour.

City residents who have been unemployed for six months or more or who receive welfare or Social Security can pay up to $1,000 in taxes through the work program. Residents who have jobs can work off a percentage of the increase in their tax bills caused by a recent tax hike of $3 per $1,000 assessed valuation.

JOHN P. ROCHE
A Word Edgewise

A while ago in a TV interview with Bill Moyers, Sen. Hubert Humphrey remarked that one thing he had learned from Lyndon Johnson was not to love his enemies. Maybe, but his memoirs, "The Education of a Public Man" (Doubleday) still show remarkable self-restraint about the way he was treated by some of his "friends." In 1936, for example, Adlai Stevenson simply double-crossed him: After offering Humphrey the vice presidential nomination at a meeting in Washington, Stevenson welched at the convention, threw the nomination open, and Estes Kefauver wound up beating John Kennedy for the spot. Humphrey mentions this episode, but rapidly passes on and in 1960 initially supported Stevenson.

Yet, when you total it up, probably one of Humphrey's most endearing qualities is the absence of a killer instinct. Admittedly I speak with some bias — we are old friends — but the Humphrey who emerges from these pages is the authentic article: a really nice man who winces at the thought of offending.

Reading his discussion of the political role he played in the years since 1948 was for me a wonderful trip through time, but most interesting was his perception of President Johnson and his relationship with L.B.J. One of the ironies here was that when I went to work in the White House in 1968, one of my jobs was to be the President's emissary of peace to the Vice President. But the first time I ever came to Johnson's notice was in 1964, when I was asked by Hubert Humphrey to write speeches. L.B.J., learning that the National Chairman of A.D.A. was going to work in the campaign, told Humphrey to drop me and keep me out of town!

This momentary whim passed, but it was typical of many of the situations I had to cope with later on. A standard scenario would involve Johnson blowing up at some newspaper story about L.H.H., and telling a liberal-minded staffer to "tell Humphrey to shut up!" This good soldier would then get the Vice President on the phone and say, "The president wants you to shut up." Naturally enough this put Humphrey up the wall, he would somehow convey his anger to the President, and my phone would ring. On the line would be a very perceptive sounding L.H.H. asking me to please call my old friend, the greatest Vice President in history, and explain he hadn't really meant what he said. For some reason he was never penitent enough to call Hubert himself.

This is a nostalgic discussion of a fine book, one which reflects the keen intelligence and creativity for which Hubert Humphrey is too seldom given credit. I had forgotten, for example, that he originally proposed the Peace Corps and the establishment of the Arms Control and Disarmament Agency, and his role in civil rights is enough in itself to justify a political lifetime. Long may he flourish.

NEW RAGE SWAMPS INDUSTRY

U.S. Hooked On Vans, Trucks

By OWEN ULLMANN

Associated Press Writer
DETROIT (AP) — William and Sandra Susick, like most of their neighbors in suburban Sterling Heights, used to be a two-car family. But last year they traded in their 1971 station wagon for a van. Now they're hooked on trucks.

"The van is a 100 per cent better for traveling, it has more room than the car, it has a better ride, it's more comfortable and more versatile," says Susick, 48, a Chrysler Corp. employee. "It's definitely our No. 1 vehicle."

The Susicks are not alone in that belief. Americans in droves are shunning cars and turning to light trucks as their primary mode of transportation in an accelerating trend that has revolutionized the truck market and made it the fastest growing facet of the auto industry.

Auto executives forecast a record year for truck sales in 1978. They attribute the boom to the growth of a recreation-oriented public and the emergence of the light van or pickup as an all-purpose vehicle that offers everything a car has, and more.

A decade ago, the light truck market was dominated by ranchers, small-business men and construction workers who needed a low-priced, no-frills utility vehicle mostly for work-related activities.

Today light trucks — often as plush as any car — appeal to the full spectrum of consumers who increasingly are using the vehicles for all sorts of non-commercial purposes.

"People are trading in cars for trucks because trucks are more convenient for both work and pleasure and often are cheaper than cars," says one industry official. "A retired person, for example, can use a pickup during the week for odd jobs like landscaping and then haul a load of gear up to his weekend cottage."

Also key to the boom is that

Everything Car Has—
And More

trucks have become "socially acceptable" alternatives to cars and have captured the fancy of women, who play a key role in any family's car purchasing decision.

"We're no longer embarrassed about driving our van anywhere," says Susick, who notes that his wife uses the vehicle for work. "We even drive it to weddings. To us, it's a luxury vehicle, not a truck."

Industry executives, already high-spirited over the unexpectedly strong recovery in the car market this year, are elated over the explosion in truck sales.

About the only thing that has them fretting is whether their assembly plants can keep up with the demand from customers who are complaining they can't find the trucks they want in stock.

Officials at General Motors' Chevrolet Division say they entered June with a backlog of a quarter-million orders for 1978 light trucks. They estimated a customer who ordered a van from the factory in early June would have to wait about 10 weeks for delivery.

Ted Karr, manager for truck sales at a Dodge dealership in suburban Warren, Mich., says he stopped accepting orders on 1978 vans in early May. "We can't get our hands on more trucks," said Karr.

"We have people sitting here with money in their hands and the factory can't produce enough. The auto companies didn't anticipate the strength of the market."

As a salesman, Karr says he prefers dealing in trucks. "People don't argue price like they do with a car, and 75 per cent don't seem concerned with fuel economy — which is a little worse for a light truck. As long as you can fill their needs, people will buy."

Another plus for Karr as well as the companies is that trucks are more profitable than cars because they undergo less frequent model changes and thus save the industry the expense of new tooling.

Karr would not disclose his own markup, but claimed trucks "are a lot more profitable." A source at one of the Big Three makers estimated the company's profit on a light truck is 10 per cent higher on the average than for a car.

"There's no question a lot of people are buying light trucks as a second car," says Roy D. Chapin Jr., chairman of American Motors Corp. "It's part of the total recreation trend. Maybe there's something about driving a truck that appeals to one's macho, gives him a charge."

AMC does not sell pickups or vans, but it is well entrenched in the four-wheel drive market with its successful Jeep, which Chapin says is headed for a banner sales year.

When the industry set 1978 truck production schedules late last year it forecast what was thought at the time to be an optimistic target of about 2.9 million sales for the year, a healthy 16 per cent gain over a sluggish 2.5 million unit sales in 1975.

Now, auto chiefs expect to sell closer to 3.2 million units — if they can find the extra capacity — to break the existing record of 3.16 million trucks sold in 1973.

"Trucks are the real growth story in 1978," says William O. Bourke, executive vice president of Ford Motor Co. "Industry car sales so far this year are up about one-fourth from a year ago, while trucks are up about 40 per cent."

Although the market demand for trucks has exceeded earlier projections, the sales boom has not come as a complete surprise to the industry, which sought several years ago to broaden the appeal of light trucks by making them adaptable to personal uses.

That marketing strategy was based on long-term studies showing a far greater growth potential for trucks than cars, which already were close to market saturation.

Bourke notes that annual new car sales during the past decade have increased about 18 per cent to a projected 10.7 million in 1979. Trucks, by contrast, have almost doubled in sales since 1966, with the biggest growth coming in the 1970s.

This year, trucks are expected to account for a record 23 per cent of total motor vehicle sales in the United States, compared with a 15 per cent share 10 years ago.

Bourke says the industry expended considerable engineering effort over the past few years to improve the ride and handling of light trucks so they would be comparable to cars.

"Independent front suspension systems, softer seats and better shock absorbers — all were part of the program to make the pickup and the van acceptable all-occasion transportation," he said.

Pickups and vans are based priced at about $3,700 to start, comparable to the base price of a compact or midsize car. But few are leaving the showroom with less than $1,200 to $1,500 worth of optional equipment, including more powerful engines, air-conditioning, power brakes and steering, fancy interior trim packages, deluxe wheel covers and speed control

James T. Riley, Chevrolet's manager for truck sales, estimates the typical light pickup, which carries a base price of $3,721, is being ordered with about $1,400 worth of options. The average van buyer orders about $1,000 worth of factory installed options and then adds another $1,700 in options after delivery.

The hottest action in the light truck market right now is the van, which has become the in-thing among young people. The craze has led to a tripling of van sales in the past six years from 152,000 in 1970 to an estimated 500,000 plus this year.

come at the expense of cars. A Ford research study indicates 40 per cent of persons purchasing 1976 Ford vans traded in cars.

"We can't get enough of them. Even used vans are nearly impossible to find," says Joe Girard, a Chevrolet salesman in East Detroit. "When I was a kid, to own a car was a real ego trip. Today, they don't want a car, they want a van."

No ordinary van, either. Most young people, according to industry studies, are customizing their vans with special exterior paint treatments, port windows, sun roofs and plush interiors complete with carpeting, curtains stereo and furniture.

NEW FAMILY 'CAR': William and Sandra Susick have a last word before she drives off for work in family van from their Sterling Heights, Mich., home. William works midnights and had just returned. Like most of their neighbors they used to be a two-car family but traded their 1971 station wagon for a van. Now they're hooked on trucks. (AP Wirephoto)

Milliken Names 4 To Boards

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Appointments to the Barrier Free Design Board, Law Enforcement Officers Training Council and Malpractice Insurance Fund have been announced by the governor. All the appointments require Senate confirmation.

Thomas Munn of Lansing was appointed to the Barrier Free Design Board to represent the visually impaired for the remainder of a term expiring Oct. 31, 1978.

Munn, who is blind, succeeds James Walker, formerly of Albion, who left the state.

Frederick Police Chief Galen Brokens was appointed and Wayne County Sheriff William Lucas was reappointed to the Law Enforcement Officers Training Council for terms expiring Jan. 1, 1979.

Brokens succeeds Marquette Police Chief George Johnson, who did not want reappointment.

Lucas has served on the council since 1970. Dr. H. Harvey Gass, a Detroit neurosurgeon, was reappointed to the malpractice insurance fund for a term expiring July 1, 1978. Gass was first appointed to the fund last year. The fund is available for doctors who cannot otherwise obtain malpractice insurance.

Missing Charlotte Teen Girl Found Slain!

BODY FOUND: Officials on Tuesday positively identified a badly decomposed body they found near St. Johns as that of Maureen Nichols, 17 (left). Miss Nichols and a school friend, Stacie Rost, both of Charlotte, disappeared during a camping trip northeast of Lansing on June 13. Miss Rost (right) is still missing. (AP Wirephoto)

ST. JOHNS, Mich. (AP) — The body of a young woman found in a wooded area near St. Johns was identified Tuesday as one of two missing Charlotte teenagers, Clinton County authorities said. The body was identified as that of 17-year-old Maureen Nichols. An autopsy found she died of at least nine stab wounds to the left chest, authorities said.

Her body was found Monday night about 15 miles from Priggoor's Park in Bath Township where she and a companion, Stacie Rost, 16, had been camping when they vanished June 13. Miss Rost is still missing.

Authorities said the autopsy was inconclusive as to whether Miss Nichols was sexually assaulted. A pathologist said the condition of the remains was "consistent with" the theory that she died about the time of the disappearance.

County Prosecutor John Newman declined to say whether Miss Nichols' body was clothed when it was found. He said such information could prevent a fair trial. Newman said no significant evidence was turned up in the field where the body was found, and authorities have no suspects and no leads as to Miss Rost's whereabouts.

"We had been hoping the girls ran away," said Esther Rost, the missing girl's mother. "Police had been telling us that was a possibility. I guess we've about given up since they found Maureen."

She added that neither family really believed the girls would leave their families.

"They had always been close to home, both of them," she said. Police said they conducted a full-scale search through the five-to ten-acre wooded area where the body was discovered, hunting in vain for signs of a second body. The Charlotte High School classmates were camping at Piggooor's Park for about four days when they were reported missing on June 13 by a friend, Kim Canfield of Bath, who had spent part of the weekend with them.

A search of the boggy, overgrown Bath Township park by hundreds of police, volunteers, dogs and an airplane failed to turn up any solid leads about the girls' disappearance. Some police speculated they ran away and others that they were kidnapped or killed. The girls' parents maintained the youngsters would not run away. Some police said the fact that one of the girls left $5 in cash behind at the campsite indicated they did not run away willingly.

The girls planned the camp outing to celebrate the end of the school year. Authorities said they administered lie-detector tests to several young people who were at the park over the weekend the girls disappeared, but the results apparently were inconclusive.

After the girls disappeared, police questioned dozens of possible witnesses, including employees of a traveling carnival that was stopped at a Lansing shopping center. Two carnival workers said they saw a person resembling one of the girls at the carnival June 14. Again, police said those interviews were inconclusive.

Police at the time also noted that more than 1,000 motorcycleists from all over Michigan were in the Lansing-St. Johns area on the morning June 13. The bikers held a peaceful demonstration on the State Capitol lawn in opposition to the motorcycle helmet law and then headed north, stopping for a while at St. Johns. Although a number of St. Johns bars closed early to avoid trouble, no incidents were reported. St. Johns is about 20 miles north of Lansing.

Sodus Bills
Celebration
BicentennialTwo-Day Program Opens
Friday Evening

SODUS — Sodus township residents will celebrate the nation's Bicentennial Friday evening and Saturday, July 2-3, with a wide variety of events including a beard and mustache judging contest, black powder gun shoot, parade, and street dance and fireworks display.

The events will be held in and around the township fire station and its parking lot in Sodus village. The schedule is as follows:

On Friday evening, at 8:15 p.m. the flower arrangement judging will take place at the township hall. Entry blanks are still available at the post office.

7 p.m. — Bayview Park dedication;
7:30 p.m. — Bicentennial tree planting at the township hall; 8 p.m. — Beard and mustache judging contest in fire station parking lot; 8:30 p.m. — Announcement of mailbox decorating contest winners, school children poster award winners; and display winners throughout the township.

Then at dusk, a fireworks display will take place behind the fire station.

On Saturday, at 8 a.m., a black powder gun shoot will be held behind the fire station. Entry blanks are available at the Sodus post office.

At 1 p.m. a parade will be held through downtown Sodus. Entry blanks are still available at the post office and anyone can enter.

3 p.m. — Children's games and pony rides behind the fire station and a log cutting and splitting contest in the fire station parking lot. The beer garden will also open at this time.

4 p.m. — A spinning wheel demonstration; 7 p.m. — Prizes and awards will be handed out for costumes in all categories, including men, women, and children in early American dress.

8 p.m. — Fruitbelt Barbershop quartet will sing.

9 p.m. — A free street dance with music by Lee Lausman's Harmonies.

9:30 p.m. — Entertainment by the Alpenrose Schupplattler Verein of Southwestern Michigan at the DANK clubhouse.

Hoosiers Accused Of Kidnaping

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP) — An Elkhart, Ind., couple was charged with kidnaping and extortion Tuesday in the abduction of a young woman.

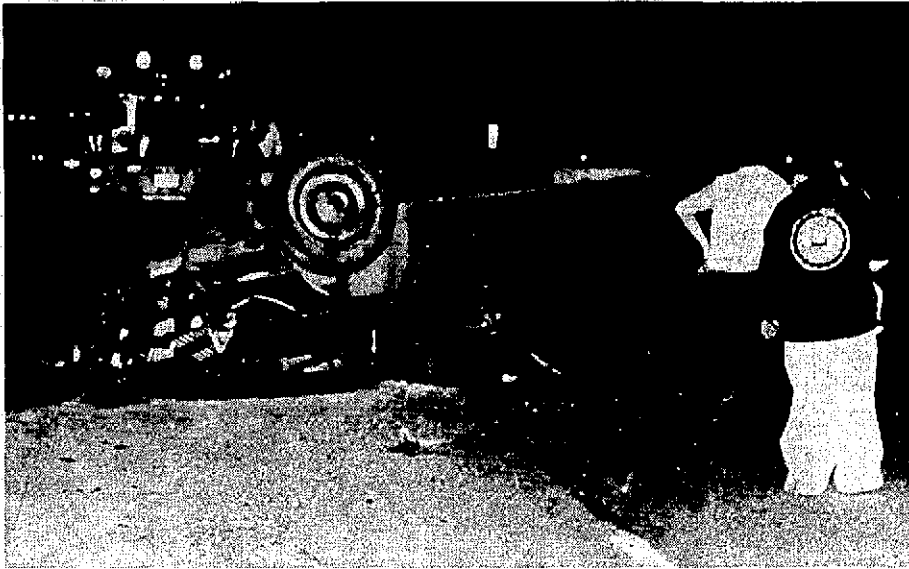

Police said William Shannon, 30, and his 26-year-old wife, Myrtle Mae, were charged with kidnaping 18-year-old Michelle Collins of Grand Rapids.

The young woman was freed Sunday after her father, Paul Collins, agreed to pay $500 for her release and that of Ricki Gordon, 22. Police said Gordon is Miss Collins' boyfriend.

Officers said Miss Collins and Gordon were taken captive at gunpoint Saturday at the Collins family cottage near Idlewild in Lake County. The abduction occurred during a dispute over the purchase of two pounds of marijuana for $800, police said. Shannon was held on $25,000 bond while his wife's bond was set at $10,000. Police said they expect to make two more arrests in the case.

VO-ED EQUIPMENT

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Thirty-three northern Michigan colleges and high schools have received more than $500,000 worth of vocational education equipment from the federal government.

DRIVER ESCAPES INJURY: Driver of this car, Linda Sue Edwards, 17, (far right) escaped with no injuries early today when her car flipped after hitting abutment of bridge over Lincoln avenue on I-94. St. Joseph township police said she was alone in car when 3 a.m. accident occurred. Miss Edwards, 5806 George street, Stevensville, was cited for careless driving. Accident blocked two of three westbound lanes for about an hour and St. Joseph township firemen were called to wash down spilled gasoline. There was no fire. She and her mother, who arrived after accident, survey damaged car. (Staff photo)

Washout, Blaze Blamed
On South Berrien Storms

By JOHN DYE
South Berrien Bureau

BUCHANAN — A house fire and a road washout in the Buchanan area were blamed on thunderstorms that swept across southwestern Michigan last night.

During the storm, Berrien and Cass counties were under tornado warnings for about three hours after funnel clouds were spotted near LaPorte and Michigan City, Ind. The all-clear was sounded about 9:30 p.m.

Buchanan township firemen said lightning was the cause of the fire in the basement of the John Paskiet residence, route 2, Box 308, Madron Lake road. Firemen said lightning struck a tree in the front lawn of the residence and travelled some 30 feet underground before sparking a fire in a fruit cellar. The fire, reported about 8:30 p.m., was confined to the basement.

Smoke damage was reported throughout the house and firemen estimated damage of "several thousand dollars."

Paskiet, a foreman for the Berrien county road commission, said his family was in the house when the lightning struck but no one was injured.

He was to have supervised repair work on a washout along Red Bud trail north of Buchanan, but because of the fire, another official was dispatched.

Myron Brunke, a construction superintendent for the road commission, said a drainage tube under Red Bud south of Miller road collapsed, causing a washout under part of the road. Support for about a third of the south lane was eroded, he said.

The road commission said this morning that temporary repairs were completed by 11 p.m. and that the 18-inch tube will be replaced Thursday.

Elsewhere, police in the Niles-Buchanan area reported scattered downed power lines and tree limbs, but no major damage.

Testifying yesterday before William Austin, commission judge, on behalf of the citizens group were Mrs. Ronald (Lenore) Nelson, one of the group's leaders; Otto Grau, Berrien county commissioner and area realtor; Mrs. Christine Welch, deputy township clerk and member of the township planning commission; Thomas McGrath, Stevensville restaurant owner and president of Lakeshore Chamber of Commerce; Peter Rowe, a resident; State Rep. Harry Gast, (R-St. Joseph) former township supervisor; and Supervisor Hauch.

Austin said July 20-21 has been set aside to hear the response from Mid-Michigan, Michigan Bell, and the commission staff which conducted an informal hearing on the matter in Stevensville last year.

Austin said the citizens group then has the opportunity for rebuttal. Austin will then make a written recommendation to the public service commission, which together with any exceptions filed by either party will be reviewed by the commission and a decision rendered. Both parties have the right to appeal the decision through the courts.

Cass Slates Blood Pressure Clinics

CASSOPOLIS — Free blood pressure clinics for senior citizens will be held at four locations in Cass county during July, according to an announcement from the county's council on aging. The clinics, jointly sponsored by the council and the county health department, are held from 10 a.m. to noon. On July 7, the clinic will be held at the Edwardsburg Presbyterian church, and on July 8, at the Sister Lakes Lions club. On July 15, the clinic will be at the Howard township community hall, and on July 23, at St. Ann's church in Cassopolis. Rides to the clinics can be arranged by calling the council's office in Cassopolis, it was announced.

Lawton Readies
Big Celebration

LAWTON — Plans have been announced for Lawton's three-day Bicentennial celebration, July 3-5, according to Dawn Sampson, publicity chairman.

On Saturday, July 3, the Lawton firemen's auxiliary will have an arts and crafts show in the middle school gymnasium and parking lot from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Space will be available for those wishing to rent it by contacting Mrs. Sampson. There will be no admission charge.

On Sunday, July 4, the American Legion will hold its annual chicken barbeque from 11 a.m. at the old railroad park. In case of rain, the dinner will be served in the old depot.

At 1:30 p.m., the Lawton fire department will play a softball game at the old football field off North street.

At 5 p.m., three community churches will combine for an open air worship service in Chancy Lewis park.

Then at dusk, the Lawton fire department will have a fireworks display at the ball field across from the Lawton elementary school. The fireworks are free to the public.

On July 5, at 7 a.m. a pancake breakfast will be held at the Masonic Temple on Main street.

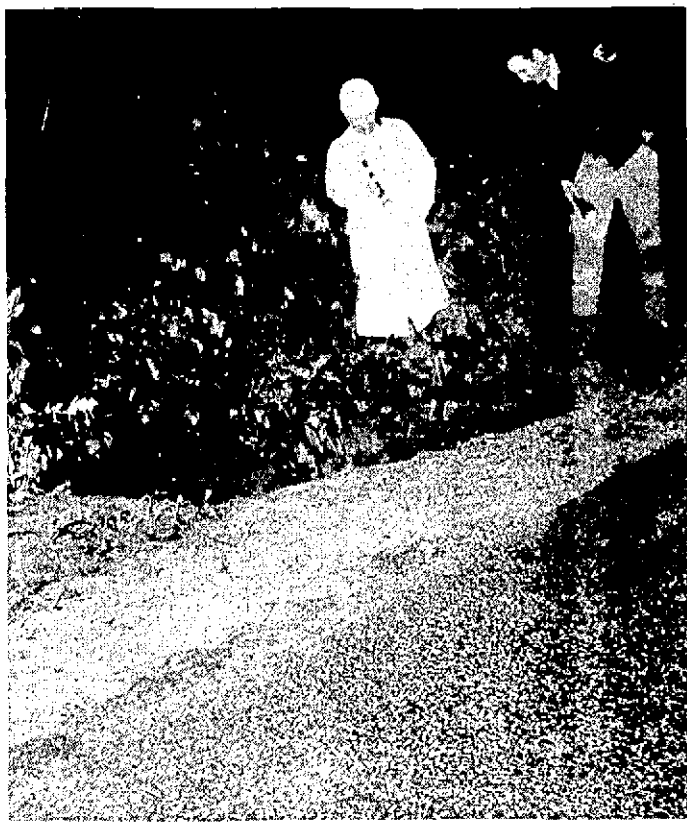

At 10 a.m., the Lawton Lions club will be featuring games for community participation. There will be softball, horse shoes, and games for children.

Then at 1 p.m., Lawton's Bicentennial parade, featuring a number of units and bands will take place in downtown Lawton. People or groups wishing to participate in the parade can contact Linnea Dietz.

Two Get Degrees
At Harvard

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. — Two residents of southwestern Michigan received degrees during spring commencement at Harvard university here, the school has announced.

William M. Smith, of 420 Ridgeway, St. Joseph, received a master's in business administration, and Matthew F. Mescher, of 357 Main court, South Haven, received a Ph.D. in biochemistry and molecular biology.

WASHOUT: Myron Brunke, Berrien county road commission superintendent, in raincoat and hardhat, and Dennis Dehring, reserve Buchanan policeman, examine large hole caused by washout along Red Bud trail, south of Miller road near Buchanan, last night during heavy rains. Brunke said 18-inch drainage tube under road collapsed, causing washout that extended under part of south lane of Red Bud. (Staff photo)

Teamster Pension Fund Loses Tax Status

WASHINGTON (AP) — The loss of tax-exempt status for the Teamsters union's biggest pension fund could have a devastating impact on the fund itself, the employers who finance it and the pensioners who benefit from it, says a key trucking industry official.

"The ramifications are really far-reaching," said William G. McIntyre, president of Trucking Employers, Inc., the industry's bargaining arm.

McIntyre said the disclosure

Tuesday that the Internal Revenue Service has revoked the tax-exempt status of the $1.4-billion Teamsters' Central States Pension Fund for alleged mismanagement and imprudent loans came as a surprise.

IRS officials, in keeping with policy, declined direct comment on the agency's action, contending that the affairs of taxpayers are confidential. But the officials did discuss generally the impact of an IRS decision revoking a fund's tax-exempt status, and their assessment of the potential impact agreed with McIntyre's.

If the action survives expected appeals by the fund's trustees — IRS officials say the process could take years — the Central States fund would be liable for taxes on its earnings back to 1965. The revocation was retroactive to Jan. 31, 1965.

This could involve millions of dollars in both past and future earnings and substantially reduce the amount of money available for paying out benefits. That would mean employers who contribute to the fund in behalf of their workers either would have to kick in more money or the benefits would be lower than they would have been otherwise. The workers do not contribute to the fund.

More than 400,000 active and retired Teamsters are enrolled in the pension plan.

IRS officials could not say immediately what impact revocation of tax-exempt status could have on people currently receiving benefits.

For employers who contribute to the fund, the government's action could mean they will have to pay taxes on contributions deducted since 1965, as well as on future contributions.

"It would have a devastating effect on the fund and on the financial status of the many carriers who contributed to it if they are forced to pay back taxes," McIntyre said in an interview. "I don't know what the contributions have been over the past 10 years, but it must come out to a pretty good penny."

In the year ended Jan. 31, 1975, records filed with the Labor Department show the trucking industry contributed $283 million to the Central States fund. If forced to pay taxes on that amount, the bill might run as high as $135 million.

The fund is administered by 16 trustees, eight from the trucking industry and eight from the union, including its president, Frank E. Fitzsimmons. The trustees declined comment.

Fitzsimmons confirmed Tuesday night that the IRS had revoked the fund's tax-exempt status, the Oklahoma City newspaper, The Oklahoman, said.

The newspaper said the Teamsters boss said in a telephone interview that the action extends back to Jan. 1, 1966.

Higher Fuel Cost Expected

MACKINAC ISLAND, Mich. (AP) — The president of Michigan Consolidated Gas Co. predicts energy prices will continue to rise in the future, probably at faster rates than general inflation.

Charles R. Montgomery outlined his views Tuesday at a joint meeting of the Michigan Gas Association and the Michigan Electric Association.

"I suggest that we had better tell the public what appears in the offing, unpleasant though that may be," he said.

He said major reasons for the projected price increases include higher costs of developing new gas supplies and transporting that gas to market.

Rising costs to electric utilities also will mean high rates, he said.

Montgomery said that until public confidence in the industry is restored, politically motivated attacks against it will continue.

He said such attacks, charging the industry with everything from "profiteering to mismanagement" have been accepted as truth by a large section of the public.

The industries must aggressively counterattack this criticism with the facts, he said.

Montgomery suggested part of the campaign to improve the utilities' image should be a plan to call on all utility employees to speak out and explain to customers the reasons for the price increases.

He said, "While Michigan's utilities have continued to perform well under trying circumstances, the political situation has gotten worse."

Newsman Lost Round In Senate

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A former reporter whose job with the Supreme Court was saved last week when the Senate rejected attempts to remove his pay from a budget bill suffered a setback Tuesday.

A $120.2 million budget bill for the fiscal year beginning Oct. 1 contains language eliminating the $32,000-a-year salary of Roger Lane, a former Detroit Free Press reporter now working for the Supreme Court.

The Senate last week rebuffed attempts to eliminate Lane's salary from a budget bill for the fiscal year ending Sept. 30. But on Tuesday, not one senator raised any objections to the language in the new budget bill.

Lane acts as a court liaison with the legislature and other departments.

The bill now goes to a conference committee, which may drop the language cutting out the post.

In any event, budget experts say the legislature cannot eliminate jobs by cutting money and the Supreme Court says it can spend its money any way it pleases.

The attack on Lane's job was led by Sen. Joseph Mack, D-Fremont. When he was with the Free Press, Lane wrote critical stories about Mack's land dealings and the senator's plush office in Lansing which was remodeled with taxpayers' money.

Mack had declared several times he would have Lane's post removed from the budget.

This Time, Admiral Heads Friendly Invasion

By HENRY GOTTLIB
Associated Press Writer

BAYONNE, N.J. (AP) — The last time Frank Guest took part in a naval invasion was 1943 in the South Pacific. Now he's leading one into New York.

Guest, a rear admiral, is the officer in charge of naval arrangements for a friendly invasion by 46 warships and scores of sailing vessels that will be sailing and steaming into New York Harbor on July 4. Five million people are expected to watch the armada from small boats, city skyscrapers, piers and bleachers erected by New York City and New Jersey towns across the Hudson River from Manhattan.

"Nothing can prepare you for a job like this; there's never been an event like this," Guest said at his headquarters at the Military Ocean Terminal.

These are Guest's orders: keep dozens of ships with foreign language crews from misunderstanding directives and crashing into each other; keep the ship's officers and crews happy during a three-day visit to New York City; cater to 3,000 dignitaries including President Ford; help the Coast Guard keep 10,000 spectator craft from interfering with the official ships; make sure the buffet lunch is hot. And make sure it doesn't rain.

"The chaplain has assured us it is not going to rain," Guest said with a smile. "If it rains, it goes anyway, whether there's anybody there to watch it or not."

The navy's headlaches began last year when it decided to hold the International Naval Review in New York, on the day of Operation Sall, the largest gathering of wooden ships in one spot since the 19th century. Now, in addition to a mammoth gathering of sailing ships on July 4, there will be the largest grouping of modern foreign warships in the history of the United States.

As commandant of the New York-New Jersey based 3rd Naval District, it is Guest's responsibility to host the party. The guests will be warships from 144, Dominican Republic, South Korea, Egypt, Romania, Holland, Japan, Portugal and 17 other countries Guest described as "friendly and not always so friendly, but we're happy to have."

The navy's first task was to settle the always-stick protocol problems, such as which ships take precedence in the parade and which ships get the best berths in the harbor.

"We didn't want to put anybody's nose out of joint," Guest said. "We chose alphabetical order, which is the next best thing to throwing darts."

To overcome possible language problems bilingual naval lieutenants will be assigned to each foreign ship to translate orders if necessary.

The warships will rendezvous 200 miles at sea on July 2, form three columns and steam toward the harbor, making two or three hopefully nontricky course corrections on the way. By July 3 they will be lined up in the Hudson River and upper New York Bay, ready to review the sailing ships that pass by on the 4th of July.

Guest estimated that with all the ships in the harbor, it will take 25 to 30 harbor pilots, working until dawn on the 5th to get all the ships, wooden and steel, into their assigned anchorages. The only interruption in the work will be a half-hour fireworks display that will light up the harbor like a pinball machine.

"It's impossible to describe how beautiful the whole thing will be," Guest said. "All those ships in one place will be magnificent."

"We're a maritime nation. Our whole existence depends upon the use of the sea and isn't it fitting that on the bicentennial we will honor that heritage."

"And it's fitting that these foreign nations are joining us, because seafaring is a brotherhood that transcends national boundaries."

One of Guest's jobs will be to help make up the 3,000-name list of people invited to see the day's events from the aircraft carrier Forrestal. It may be the best viewing spot in the harbor, and about 10,000 people who are "somebodies" or "friends of somebodies" are angling for spots on the ship.

"I know I'm not going to make everybody happy," Guest said. "Combat experience is going to come in handy, knowing when to duck."

Guest, 57, joined the Navy in 1943, after graduating from Georgetown University. Since combat duty in World War II, he has served as commander of repair ships, destroyers and has held posts in the Navy's recruiting and reserve affairs offices.

Despite his command experience, he has no qualms about enlisting as a crewman

Good Humor Man Loses Humor

DETROIT (AP) — A young Good Humor man in a bad humor. It wasn't enough that two bandits took his money, but witnesses to the crime joined in and heisted his ice cream. Police said the salesman, Harold Page, 18, was stopped on Detroit's West Side on Sunday by a man who asked to buy some ice cream. But instead of pulling out change the man produced a gun and took $100 from Page's pockets. A second man approached, police said, and took $70 from a money bag in the truck. To top it off, four or five persons who had been watching then ransacked the truck, police said, making off with between 15 and 20 cartons of ice cream.

Susan To Take Photo Course

TOPEKA, Kan. (AP) — Susan Ford plans to take another turn behind the camera next winter, this time in a classroom.

The Topeka State Journal has reported that Miss Ford, daughter of President Ford, plans to enroll in the photojournalism curriculum at the William Allen White School of Journalism at the University of Kansas for the second semester of the 1976-77 academic year.

C Congress Votes

BY CONGRESSIONAL QUARTERLY

WASHINGTON — Votes of area members of Congress on key roll calls for the week ending June 25 were:

HOUSE
Abortion Funding — By a 189-166 vote, the House adopted an amendment which would prohibit the use of federal funds in the Labor-Health Education and Welfare appropriations bill to pay for or to promote abortions.

Opponents of the amendment had argued that such a prohibition would discriminate against poor women unable to afford abortions at private clinics but would do nothing to stop wealthy women from having abortions.

Supporters of prohibiting federal funds for abortions said that abortions were immoral and that it was better to stop some than to do nothing at all.

Voting to bar federal funding for abortions: Blanchard (D), Hutchinson (R), Vander Jagt (R), Rhodes (Minority Leader).

Voting not to bar federal funding for abortions: Brown (R), Conyers (D).

Not voting: O'Neill (Majority Leader).

Panama Canal — By a 157-197 vote, the House rejected June 18 an amendment to a State Department authorization bill that would have specified that any new Panama Canal treaty "perpetuate the sovereignty and control" of the U.S. in the Canal Zone.

A weaker amendment subsequently was adopted directing the President to protect the "vital interests" of the U.S. in negotiations. This language was termed "meaningless" by sponsors of the first proposal.

Proponents of the stronger wording charged that the Ford administration's diplomatic talks with the Panamanians would result in the "surrender" of the waterway to the Central American nation. They claimed the U.S. owned the canal and should not "give it away" because of its strategic value to the U.S.

Opponents maintained that a 1903 treaty with Panama gave the U.S. only the right to operate and defend the 40-mile long passageway. Agreeing with President Ford's position, they said it was necessary to give the Panamanians a larger role in the operation of the canal, and then give them eventual control to improve U.S.-Latin American relations.

Voting for stronger language on U.S. control of canal: Hutchinson (R).

Voting against stronger language on U.S. control of canal: Blanchard (D), Brown (R), Conyers (D), Vander Jagt (R), O'Neill (Majority Leader), Rhodes (Minority Leader).

SENATE

Tax Reform — By a 41-51 vote, the Senate rejected an amendment to a general tax reform bill that would have limited tax deductions for interest on personal loans and nonbusiness investments. The proposed limit was $20,000 plus investment interest equal to the investment income. There presently is no limit on personal and non-business interest deductions.

The House had passed a $12,000 limit.

Supporters of the amendment said the interest deduction was a major loophole which wealthy individuals could use to reduce their taxation. By borrowing to buy assets, they could deduct the interest, and also pay only half the normal tax rate when they sold the assets.

Opponents countered that the amendment would stop very few abuses, and was likely to inhibit needed investments in new and unproven ventures. They also did not want to raise the possibility of limiting ordinary home mortgage and personal interest deductions.

Voting to limit the interest deductions: Hart (D).

Voting not to limit the interest deductions: Griffin (R).

NEWS OF MARKETS

Opening Market Strong

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market advanced broadly today, responding to some encouraging words from Federal Reserve Chairman Arthur Burns.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks climbed about 2 points in the early going, and gains took a 2-1 lead over losers among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Burns, appearing before Congress' Joint Economic Committee, said the Fed intends to maintain a moderate monetary policy.

And he cited evidence that the business recovery was maintaining its momentum.

Today's early prices included Xerox, up 1/2 at 61 1/2; Upjohn, ahead 1/4 at 42 1/4; UAL, unchanged at 27 1/2; and Dow Chemical, up 1/4 at 47 1/2.

On Tuesday the Dow Jones industrial average gained 3.27 to 1,000.65, passing 1,000 for the ninth time this year.

Advances outnumbered declines by about a 4-3 margin among NYSE-listed issues, and the exchange's composite index rose 23 to 55.46.

At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was up 17 at 105.08.

Two Firms Sued Over Stock Sale

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The State of Michigan has filed suit charging two out-of-state companies with selling unregistered oil and gas securities.

The two suits, filed Tuesday in Ingham County Circuit Court, ask the court to order Cape Land Oil and Gas Co. of Dallas, Texas, and C.E.R. Production Co. of Olney, Ill., to stop selling unregistered securities.

The suits were filed at the request of Hugh Mikens, director of the commerce department's Corporation and Securities Bureau.

Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley said Cape Land omitted important financial information about the securities and didn't mention that other states and the federal government have taken legal action against it.

INVESTORS GUIDE

How To Get Action On A Transfer

By SAM SHULSKY

Q. I am retiring and have been considering switching some of my growth mutual funds to income funds — but fail to achieve any communication with the funds. As a matter of fact it took a lot of effort and time even to get them to send me dividends and capital gains instead of reinvesting them. And when they did send out the money it went to a wrong address. I need help, but can't get any from the brokerage firm through which I bought the funds.

A. Both funds it so happens, do have income funds. But, since you haven't been able to get anywhere, I would suggest you write a letter to the presidents of the two funds (names and addresses enclosed in your stamped, self-addressed return envelope) and tell them that if you can't get your money transferred to their income fund for a 15 fee you want to redeem and take your money out. See if that shakes them up a bit on a transfer.

If it doesn't, take the funds and reinvest them in AAA or AA grade corporate bonds.

Q. I am among the millions who have prepared for retirement by saving and careful investment. I am angered by the high salaries, retirement clauses and other benefits given corporation executives — at the expense of the little shareholders such as myself.

A. You should be more angry. You must show up at annual meetings and voice your anger. You must vote down (in person or by proxy) all attempts to enrich "insiders" via stock options at the expense of shareholders who paid market price for their shares.

There is damn little democracy in a corporation set up — and none at all if shareholders (the owners of the business) remain silent.

Q. You wrote about the fact that bondholders rarely have all the information on a corporation given the shareholders. How can they get it?

A. By writing to the corporation's secretary and asking to be put on the mailing list for annual and quarterly reports. As for the collateral behind the specific bond, there is always the prospectus which was offered investors when the issue was brought out originally.

Q. I hold several hundred shares of Kresge, obtained via splits. If I sold any portion of his block, how would I figure my gain?

A. The money you paid to buy the original block, plus any other funds expended to add to your position represent your total cost. You divide that by the number of shares you now hold and the resulting price per share is what you use to figure gain on a sale of any number of shares.

Kresge in the last decade has split three times — 2 for 1, 3 for 1 and 3 for 1. This means that if you bought 50 shares before the first split, that 2 for 1 split brought you to 100 shares, the second to 300 shares and the third to 900 shares.

If you bought no shares since the first 50-share purchase the money you laid out then must be divided by 900 to get your tax cost per share on the present stock.

Q. We plan on redeeming some mutual fund shares but are getting two schools of thought on our tax cost. One broker says we can't include reinvested dividends and capital gains in our cost.

A. Send him back to school. All reinvested dividends and capital gains (on which you paid taxes annually) are as much a part of your cost as the money you invested originally.

Q. I have $39,000 in a mutual fund from which I am drawing $250 a month, but I am afraid I am eating into my capital.

A. You are. A withdrawal of $250 a month works out to 7.8 percent — whereas your fund generates only 2.7 percent in dividend income and has not shown any recent capital gain distributions.

You must either reduce your withdrawals, or be content to invade capital, or invest the money in a corporate bond offering 8 1/2-8 3/4 percent.

Farm Prices Slightly Higher

WASHINGTON (AP) —

Prices farmers get for raw agricultural products rose slightly for the third consecutive month in June, but it's uncertain how the increases will be translated into costs at the supermarket.

Pontiac Stadium Raided; 39 Held

PONTIAC, Mich. (AP) — Thirty-nine people remain behind bars in Oakland County Jail after failing to come up with bond money following their arrests on drug charges during a Saturday rock concert at Pontiac Stadium.

The arrests, with unusually high bonds, are part of a crackdown by Oakland County law enforcement agencies on drug trafficking at the stadium. A total of 42 persons were arrested, 41 for drug-related charges. Pontiac District Court Judge Robert Cunningham set $25,000 bond for those arrested for selling drugs and $10,000 bond for those arrested for possession.

"I'm hoping the word will get around," Cunningham said. "We aren't going to permit this building (Pontiac Stadium) to be taken over by a minority of people, especially drug pushers."

Attorneys for the 39 persons unable to raise the bond money filed petitions for bond reduction Tuesday, but Cunningham said, "I'm not reducing any bonds, even for attorneys who are personal friends of mine."

These people know what they're doing. They're selling drugs to your kids and my kids. They're not going to get away with it in Pontiac," the judge said.

Pontiac police said 200 persons, mostly between 15 and 17 years of age, were treated Saturday night at the stadium for adverse drug reactions.

During a May 8 concert at the stadium, police undercover officers made 45 drug-related arrests and 188 persons were treated for drug reactions, officers said.

Milliken

Names 3 To Ferry Panel

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Three men have been named by Gov. William Milliken Monday to a two-state task force on the future of Lake Michigan ferry service.

The Michigan-Wisconsin group's report is expected to suggest ways to improve freight and passenger traffic on the ferries, which run from Ludington and Frankfort across Lake Michigan to Wisconsin.

Named to the panel were William C. Bacon, port captain of the Ann Arbor division of Conrail; Robert H. Bennett of Grand Rapids, traffic manager for the Packaging Corp. of America; and Mayor Norman Schade of Ludington, an employee of the Chesapeake and Ohio Railway Co.

Milliken said Monday that Lake Michigan ferry service must be continued to provide "the link needed by both states' railroads across the lake."

Three Wisconsin members have already been named.

It's NEWS TODAY IN MICHIGAN

New Development Bill Signed

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A new Michigan law designed to make it easier for communities to foster economic development was signed by Gov. William Milliken Tuesday. The law clarifies portions of the Economic Development Corporations Act enacted two years ago. It shortens the procedures by which revenue bonds are issued, and brings the 1974 act into compliance with Internal Revenue Service rules governing the issuance of the tax exempt bonds. Without the new law, backers of the measure said, every time an economic development corporation wanted to issue revenue bonds, it had to get a separate ruling from the IRS on the tax-exempt status of the interest on the bonds.

Austin May Forfeit Funds

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — New federal campaign laws may keep Secretary of State Richard J. Austin from using $68,700 in branch manager patronage dollars because he's had the money too long, according to a Detroit newspaper. Campaign spending laws say money contributed before a campaign starts must, in effect, be contributed by the donors. The branch managers, who were appointed by Austin, contributed the money to an Austin campaign fund in 1972 and 1973, the Detroit Free Press says. Austin was not a candidate in either year. The $68,700 is in addition to $50,000 Austin has collected since last April from branch managers to help finance his campaign for the Democratic nomination to the U.S. Senate, the paper said.

Ford Price Rises Predicted

DETROIT (AP) — Ford Motor Co. said Tuesday retail prices of its 1977 passenger cars could rise an average of $350 above current levels. Ford Vice-President Burnett Bidwell said dealers have been told they will be protected against increases of more than six per cent on car and truck sales made before the 1977 model prices are set. General Motors and Chrysler Corp. indicated earlier that 1977 car and truck prices could rise six per cent. Ford announced price protection of six per cent earlier only on heavy trucks.

Energy Solution Is Garbage

DEARBORN, Mich. (AP) — A partial solution to the energy crisis may lie in the nation's household garbage pails, recycling consultants say. By 1980, Michigan's garbage could provide electricity to nearly three million homes year, said Bert Hildebrand, vice president of the Resource Technology Corp. That is the energy equivalent of 9.9 million barrels of oil or 2.3 million tons of coal, he said.

School De-Merger Likely

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Twin Valley school officials may soon be allowed by the state legislature to dissolve a troublesome eight-year-old merger. The House Education Committee Tuesday approved a request by the district to carry out a de-merger, after school district voters approved the move earlier this month. If approved by the legislature, it will be the first de-merger of a school district in the state. The district includes the former Boyne City and East Jordan school districts.

Swine Flu Bill Approved

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The state legislature has approved a bill to grant immunity from lawsuits to health personnel who participate in the mass immunization program against the swine flu. The bill, passed 34-0 Tuesday by the Senate and sent to Gov. William Milliken, would protect all workers from civil damages as a result of an act of omission which causes illness, reaction, or adverse effects from the flu vaccine. The bill would not exempt from liability a drug manufacturer of the vaccine used in the program.

Milliken Opposes Bail Ban

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Gov. William Milliken says he cannot support a proposed constitutional amendment that would ban bail for certain convicted felons. Milliken said Tuesday he is afraid the proposal, now in the Senate, will not provide a rational, reasonable, non-discriminatory method of bail denial. The measure, already approved in the House, requires two-thirds approval in the Senate plus voter approval at the polls to take effect. Milliken's approval is not needed. The State Bar of Michigan also opposes the proposal.

Most Are Undecided

DETROIT (AP) — Michigan voters put three of the four Republican candidates for the U.S. Senate nomination within three percentage points of one another, according to a Detroit News poll. But more important is the fact that more than half the Republican voters surveyed have yet to pick a favorite candidate. The copyrighted News' poll, conducted by Market Opinion Research, showed former Michigan Supreme Court Justice Thomas Dwyer leading the GOP pack with 15 per cent; followed by U.S. Rep. Marvin Esh, 14 per cent; former U.S. Rep. Robert Huber, 12 per cent; and University of Michigan regent Deane Baker trailing with 6 per cent. When asked who they would vote for today, 51 per cent of those surveyed were undecided.

Poll Has Austin Ahead

DETROIT (AP) — Richard Austin is far ahead of his opponents for the Democratic nomination for the U.S. Senate, says a Detroit News poll taken before allegations arose over financing of Austin's campaign. The copyrighted poll shows Secretary of State Austin was the favorite of 49 per cent of a statewide sample of some 700 registered voters. His nearest opponent, Congressman Donald Riegle, received a 13 per cent rating. Congressman James O'Hara received 11 per cent and James Elstner, a Birmingham lawyer, received 1 per cent. Twenty-six per cent of the voters said they were undecided. The poll was taken between June 10-14, about two weeks before news accounts quoted Secretary of State branch office managers as saying they were pressured by Austin aides for campaign contributions.

Contributions Confirmed

DETROIT (AP) — The Ford Motor Co. and General Motors Corp. have confirmed each contributed thousands of dollars of corporate funds to help finance opposition to nuclear safety legislation in California. According to spokesmen for the firms, GM contributed $25,000 and Ford, $20,000, to the "No on 15" Committee. That organization led the fight against a citizen-initiated ballot proposition which would have placed stringent safety requirements on the operation of nuclear power plants. The proposition, defeated June 8 after a bitter, emotional campaign, would have required companies operating nuclear plants to demonstrate the plants' safety and assume full liability in case of disastrous accidents.

Taxes 'Among The Fairest'

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Michigan's tax system is among the fairest in the country, according to the evaluation of a national commission. But while Michigan leads the nation in the fairness of the tax burden on its citizens, it ranks 18th in the best-possible balanced use of income, sales and property taxes, the study concluded. The results of the study, conducted by the national Advisory Commission on Intergovernmental Relations, was released Monday by Gov. William Milliken. The commission is an independent Congressionally-created body made up of federal, state and local officials. In one test of tax programs, Michigan came in 18th of 35 states which "over-utilized" the property tax while "under-utilizing" the personal income tax. In another test, however, Michigan tied with Minnesota for first place in "tax-revenue equity" — the standard of fairness of the state's tax burden on citizens.

Rail-Bus Financing Advances

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Legislation quadrupling the motor vehicle transfer tax for Macomb, Wayne and Oakland counties and more than tripling their property transfer tax is in the House. Supporters said the bill will raise $12.7 million yearly to help finance a rail-bus system for the three-county area. The House Urban Affairs Committee reported it out Monday on an 8-1 vote. It replaces a $4 license plate surcharge the Senate approved for the six-county SEMTA region to finance the plan. The Secretary of State's office said motorists must check by driving to other counties and hiding on their address. The local money raised under the bill would be combined with $25 million in state money from the half-cent gasoline tax to provide a matching fund lease for federal funds of up to $600 million. Backers said the bill must be passed before lawmakers break for the summer so that Michigan can apply for the quickly diminishing federal money.

Only The Board Can Rule

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — County jail inmates can be ordered to work on public projects only by county boards of commissioners, Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley has said. Kelley said a county board of commissioners may, by resolution, order prisoners sentenced to a county jail to work on public projects. A sheriff, he said, cannot compel prisoners in his custody to work on such projects without a resolution by the board of commissioners. Kelley said, however, if prisoners volunteer, a sheriff may let them work on public projects, he said. Kelley also ruled that if a prisoner is injured or becomes ill while working on a project he is not covered by the Worker's Compensation Act.

SOUTH HAVEN

Taxicab Monopoly Policy Abandoned

South Haven Correspondent

SOUTH HAVEN — The South Haven city council during a special meeting last night decided to end the policy of giving one company the exclusive right of operating taxi service in the city.

Council first revoked the license of William Wallatyn on the grounds he has provided unsatisfactory service.

Wallatyn stopped operating his taxi service last week without giving notice to the city or public.

Four parties indicated an interest in the city in picking up the licenses which previously had been issued to only one company on the grounds there wasn't enough business for more than one firm to survive.

The aldermen said that any of the four applicants who meets the requirements of the tax ordinance will be licensed. The ordinance stipulated that interested companies must present paid-up insurance on their vehicles for a one-year period.

Persons indicating an interest in operating a taxi included Bernard Thomas, 306 Kalamazoo street, South Haven; Mike Hill, address unknown; Madeline and Olen Shifflett, route 2, South Haven; and Troy Sheets, 801 LaGrange street, South Haven.

In other business, council authorized Consumers Asphalt paving company of Benton Harbor to pave five streets at a cost of $14,432.

Streets to be surfaced include LaGrange street from Phillips to Erie, Erie street from LaGrange to Broadway, Baseline road from North Shore drive east to the city limits, Van Buren street between Monroe and Maple street, and Superior street between Cherry street and Blue Star Memorial highway.

Milliken Picks Farm Workers

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Four agricultural workers have been appointed to the state Agricultural Labor Commission.

The four, including two permanent year-around workers and two resident seasonal workers, were named by Gov. William Milliken under a 1976 law to provide better consideration of issues relating to farm workers.

Appointed to represent year-around agricultural workers were Felipe Garcia Jr. of Albion and John Young, of Caro, both 23 years old. Garcia works full time at Farley Brothers Orchard and Nursery Inc. and Young is a herdsman for the Frank Satchell Dairy Farm.

Appointed to represent seasonal agricultural workers were Mirta Carrion, 22 of Lansing, a farmworker and part-time student, and Frank Escobar, 41, of Shelby, a seasonal resident farm-laborer. Both are active in migrant workers' organizations.

In unrelated action, Milliken announced the appointment of Martin Feyen of Grand Rapids to the State Electrical Administrative Board.

Mayor's License Veto Upheld

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Southfield Mayor Donald Fracassi's veto of a liquor license for The Raven, a Southfield coffeehouse, has been upheld by the Michigan Court of Appeals.

A lower court had ruled the mayor's veto was valid, but the appeals court decision, handed down Tuesday, reverses that ruling.

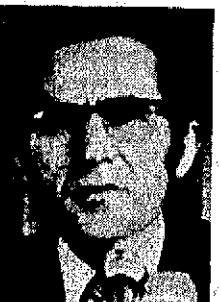

The appeals court, in a 2-1 decision, said Fracassi had the power under the city charter to veto any ordinance or resolution passed by the council. The Southfield City Council had approved the license in a resolution in February, 1975.

The court said Michigan law requiring that applications for liquor licenses "be approved by the local legislative body" intended only to give local control over the licenses but "did not intend to specify the procedures to be followed in exercising such control."

The Raven's attorney, Lawrence Katkowsky, said the coffeehouse has a liquor license since 1972. He said the appeals court ruling would be appealed to the Michigan Supreme Court.

Appeals Court Judge Robert J. Danhof, who dissented, said the term "legislative body" in the Michigan law "has only one plain meaning and we are bound by that meaning."

"The statute does not, and the city charter cannot, confer any authority upon the mayor of that city," said Danhof.

NEW PRESIDENT: President-elect Gen. Antonio Ramalho Eanes said Monday at his first press conference in Lisbon, that his administration's prime goal will be political stability. Eanes was elected by 61 per cent of vote in Portuguese election. (AP Wirephoto)

SUMMER 1978 TAX NOTICE

TAKR NOTICE that the St. Joseph City Taxes, also called Summer Taxes, are due and payable at the office of the City Treasurer in the City Hall, 616-620 Broad Street, from July 1, 1978, to and including September 15, 1978, and that a 4% penalty will be added to all taxes remaining unpaid at September 15, 1978.

Collection of Taxes is made according to property descriptions and this office attempts to send a tax statement to every tax payer by July 1, 1978. Failure to receive such a tax statement does not relieve from liability for payment of taxes.

Please bring the tax statement with you when making inquiry about or payment of taxes. It will save time for you and us.

Patrick D. Phelan City Treasurer

ROTCHED STICKUP: Taxi cab rests against a downtown Detroit store after it had smashed seven cars and several parking meters in a chase by police in the crowded downtown area Tuesday. Police arrested Harry Stone and said he would be charged with robbery and auto theft. Stone stole the cab after robbing a pharmacy, dropping the loot when an employee gave chase, and failing in a motel holdup because the motel clerk saw that he had a phony pistol. Stone was arrested as he tried to flee on foot after crashing the cab. (AP Wirephoto)

Dunaway, Hubby On Different Tracks

Q: What's with Faye Dunaway and her rock musician husband Peter Wolf? There were lots of pictures of Faye at the Cannes Film Festival but he wasn't in any of them. — G.C., Naples, Fla.

A: He wasn't in the photographs because he wasn't at Cannes. Looks to us as though the lady and her husband are traveling in different directions.

Q: How did Lee Remick do in her Landon production of "Bus Stop"? — C.J., Lexington, Ky.

A: She was a smash as usual. But co-star Keir Dullea was not having such a good time because Lee's name covered most of the theater billboards and Dullea's was hardly visible. With Miss Remick's support he spoke to the management but they wouldn't budge. So Keir refused to go on and his understudy took the part. Dullea resumed the role for the next performance with the billboards unchanged. The show must go on, we guess even if your name is in small type.

Q: How do Julie Andrews and her husband get along? — K.L., Baltimore, Md.

A: It seems like a real story-book marriage. Even after going together for four years and being wed for seven more, Julie and movie director Blake Edwards are forever smooching in public, holding hands on the street and generally behaving like teenagers. At the same time, Julie is trying hard to shed that innocent image that had some mag saying she was so sweet she could transmit tooth decay at 50 paces. So Julie dutifully talks about how she smoked pot, loves X-rated movies and dates on nude magazines. But she still comes across, as sweet as ever. However, when the public sees her in her latest film where she cavorts in bed with Omar Sharif (under the direction of her husband) the old image may finally be broken for good. We hope not.

QUESTION YOU NEVER ASKED: How come those life-sized inflatable dolls are selling like hotcakes in Los Angeles? Motorists in L.A. are buying them in an effort to dodge a new freeway regulation which sets aside certain lanes for cars carrying at least two passengers. The scheme is another effort to encourage car pools. Foxy drivers are propping up the dolls as pseudo passengers. Whizzing by at 60 who can tell the difference?

Q: So how is Doris Day's new husband making out? — F.A., Wilkes-Barre, Pa.

A: Just fine, thanks. Barry Comden has adapted well to a house full of stray dogs, Doris's mother and movie star luxury. So much so in fact, that he is now said to be giving up his restaurant job and planning to devote full time to his wife and her enterprises. His first problem might be concerned with Doris's best-selling biography which the movie companies want to film in the worst way — possibly with Olivia Newton-John in the lead role. In spite of big money

TRAFALGAR SQUARE GARDEN? Irving Felt, 66, head of New York's Madison Square Garden, has been saying that he wants to put up a similar complex in London. The British press, of course, just hates the idea of some foreigner coming in and messing up their architecture. (They still haven't gotten over the Hilton Hotel.) The arguments sound a lot like the Concorde controversy. In reverse, with just as much misinformation tossed around as in the SST debate. One English paper, for instance, reports that Madison Square Garden is so huge that it houses a baseball diamond and football field. It's nowhere near that big.

Q: Wouldn't you think Paul

McCartney would drop his wife from the Wings group in view of the terrible reviews she keeps getting? — U.B., Knoxville, Tenn.

A: Those slings and arrows seem to have the opposite effect on Paul, making him even more determined to keep Linda on the show. No, it isn't obstinacy. McCartney feels a great need to repay his wife for the warm, comfortable homelife she has provided. What other rock star would write such an ode to domesticity like "Cook of the House" just for his wife to sing? Linda is up on that stage for as long as she wants to be.

Q: Have you heard anything about a revival of the old amateur hour show for television? — J.M.C., San Bernardino, Calif.

A: They're working on the pilot for a new version right now. There has been a little trouble because the producers were using the traditional hook to haul the no-talent contestants off stage when they failed. A few of the judges decided this was cruel and inhuman punishment and withdrew from the pilot show.

REMICK: Doing fine — big name and all

Milliken Names Seven

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Gov. William Milliken has made two appointments and five reappointments to two panels on higher education. The governor named George R. Frye of Roscommon as a citizen member of the Michigan Higher Education Assistance Authority, and reappointed to the authority Robert M. Perry of Okemos, Dr. William Spoelhof of Grand Rapids and Walter F. Potenge of Lansing. William R. Mackay of Lansing was named to a citizen position on the Michigan Higher Education Facilities Commission. Reappointed were John Halick of Greenville and John D.B. Gueydyk of Grand Rapids. All the terms will end in May 1980. The appointments and reappointments need Senate approval.

Reading Test For Seniors?

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — High school seniors would have to pass a reading test before they could graduate under legislation introduced in the state Senate. The measure is sponsored by state Sen. John Bowman of Roseville, who said the Los Angeles, Calif. school board already is requiring students to pass reading tests before graduation. "Fifty per cent of every dollar the state appropriates goes to education and, in addition, half of all property taxes are funneled to support education," said Bowman, chairman of the Senate Taxation Committee. "It seems to me that with that kind of money high school graduates should know how to read."

DUNAWAY: She was there — Pete wasn't

Rooting For The Frog

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Kitchigami II, Gov. William Milliken's entry in the Celebrated Jumping Frog Contest in Newberry, will try make up for a poor showing turned in earlier by its namesake in the upcoming competition in the Upper Peninsula this July Fourth. The original Kitchigami finished 23rd in a field of 26 at the Calaveras County, Calif., frog jump earlier this year. Milliken did not personally chose Kitchigami II, but asked the Luce County Bicentennial Committee to select it from among "the hungriest in the pond." Kitchigami is the original Indian name for Lake Superior.

Construction Mishap Panel

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A special state panel to investigate construction accidents would be created and standards for ventilation of enclosed work areas would be tightened under legislation to be introduced next fall. The legislation would follow recommendations unanimously approved Thursday by a special House committee probing the 1971 Port Huron tunnel disaster and the Mount Clemens tunnel explosion last year. The explosions killed 23 men. Under one proposal approved Thursday, an accident investigation board would be created to investigate fatal occupational accidents. The board also would make recommendations to prevent similar accidents.
